3.2 BEER BILL BECOMES LAW

Today

A Mad World, and Tired.
Full of Sound and Fury.
Germany's Pied Piper.
Her Republic Will Return.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE WORLD is paying for its big war in strange, serious ways. Depression, lack of money, insane gambling, bursting banks, closed banks, impoverished farmers, reckless squandering on armaments for other wars, millions of men idle, the greatest number in this "richest country," which had no business in the war. Such are a few items in our paying-for-the-war schedule.

WIDESPREAD confession of men's inability to govern themselves is another item. The will of one man, Stalin, rules 150,000,000 in Russia. Another man's will rules Turkey, another Italy, and now Hitler, imitation of Mussolini, rules with absolute power in Germany.

Even in this country the dictator idea becomes fashionable. Millions believe that Congress, supposed to make laws, should step aside and let one man, President Roosevelt, do everything, on the ground that the average elected official is more or less an idiot, lazy or dishonest.

The British alone retain some confidence in their ability to govern themselves, as well as a great deal of confidence in their ability to manage others, including this bewildered nation. There are solid qualities in those British.

HITLER, YESTERDAY, having hauled down the flag of the republic, faced a German Reichstag as servile as so many dogs, crouching to receive their food. The dictator will have full power for years to come, perhaps for life.

Members of the "law-making body" are to suggest no laws unless Hitler tells them to act. He himself may frame laws as he chooses. The constitution is not to interfere with him.

Thus ends the first phase of the "German republic." But that republic is not really dead, as Mr. Hitler will learn later.

IMPOVERISHED by war, puzzled by world-wide depression, obeying the mob instinct, strong in every primitive human being, many nations that thought themselves civilized follow mob leaders.

And serious illness calls for disagreeable medicine. The world is taking unpleasant medicine now, but will get better.

THE HATRED and ingratitude that Hitler, a fustian Mussolini, displays toward Jews are a most serious, disgraceful feature of Germany's sudden devotion to a self-appointed "pied piper."

Jewish industrial, commercial and financial genius has done wonders for Germany. It has built great, sound German banks, developed Germany's commercial shipping, built up her industries.

Yet a spokesman of the new regime declares, without rebuke from high authority, that if any individual should fire one shot at a Hitler official, "even though the shot missed," there would follow "a pogrom which nothing could stop."

In other words, thousands of Jewish people, innocent of any wrong-doing, might be massacred because of a crime, perhaps that of a maniac, for which they would be in no way responsible.

ALSO, BEER is here, but prohibition remains in the constitution, not easy to remove.

The President's message reveals a plan to put 250,000 men at work. Any start is welcome. No one or 100 ideas could give work to the twelve millions idle.

A MAN well informed says France worries about the danger of going off the gold standard. Strange what power is possessed by the fetish gold. We have our supply safely locked up, like the genuine tooth of Buddha in the Oriental temple, and mean to hold on to it.

A WISE young woman asked concerning President Roosevelt:

"If he does so much right away, what in Heaven's name will he find to do through all the rest of the four years?"

No need to worry about that yet.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS BEER MEASURE

3.2 Per Cent Bill Made Law, Sales Begin Midnight, April 6

As President Roosevelt's signature today legalized 3.2 per cent beer and wine, this was the situation in the nation and state:

NATIONAL—Beer and wine may be sold in 14 states after midnight April 6: Arizona, California, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania (unless Legislature prevents), Washington and Wisconsin. Three other states permit beer to be sold after a specified time: North Dakota, July 1; West Virginia, June 9, and Wyoming, May 18.

PENNSYLVANIA—In the absence of new state regulatory measures, by April 7, anyone can sell or manufacture beer in Pennsylvania then. If either of two beer bills is passed and approved, licenses would be necessary. Three weeks' time would be required before a license could be obtained after the bills had been approved.

WEST VIRGINIA—Old laws prohibit manufacture, distribution and sale of beer until after June 9. New 3.2 per cent beer act will permit sale by "package dealers" for consumption "off premises" and by "dispensers" for consumption on premises.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today signed into law the bill allowing sale of 3.2 per cent beer and wines from midnight April 6 onward.

It legalizes the beverages to be sold where not otherwise prohibited as soon as the clock strikes midnight, April 6. Fourteen states allow the beer, which must be held to 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight, or 4 per cent by volume.

Wasting no time on the act to which he looks for at least a $125,000,000 tax contribution toward balancing the budget, Mr. Roosevelt—as soon as the bill reached the White House—crossed over to his cabinet room to affix his signature, along with that of Vice President Garner that had been put on two minutes after the Senate met. The President went to the cabinet room by prearrange-

Few Beer Prisoners Sent Up From Here

The move in Washington to free "beer prisoners" as a result of modification of the Volstead act, would affect only half a dozen persons in Western Pennsylvania according to United States Deputy Marshal T. J. McFarland. He said that some were in jail here and in Erie for violating the law with regard to sale or delivery of beer, but only so because they had no money to pay fines.

BLUE LAW FIGHT IN DEADLOCK

HARRISBURG, March 22.—The Schwartz bill to revise the blue law to permit the playing of baseball and football on Sunday between the hours of 2 and 6 p. m. has run into a House blockade because of amendments inserted in the Senate, and is to be fought in a conference committee.

House members late yesterday refused to concur in the amendments of Senator John J. McClure, which would call for a statewide referendum next November, permitting the open Sunday for these sports in governmental units which approved them in the event the state as a whole voted for liberalization.

Back of the objection lies a spirit in the House which insists upon a less cumbersome method of revising the blue law. The ma-

BERLIN SPEEDS DICTATORSHIP

BERLIN, March 22.—(AP.)—The first German Reichstag controlled by Adolf Hitler in his political career of 14 years meets tomorrow to hear him outline the government policy he intends to carry out for four years without its aid.

The Reichstag is expected to move swiftly toward the goal he has set, wiping out the last vestiges of democracy in Germany by ending its own existence for the allotted four years or at least as long as he remains Chancellor.

Meanwhile Prussia's new Diet acclaimed the policy of political union with Austria at its first meeting this afternoon.

Controlled by Chancellor Hitler's Nazi party, it jammed through the election of officers and committees, and cheered keynote speeches by the aged Gen. Karl Litzmann, speaker protem, and Hans Kerrl, who was re-elected speaker.

But it was Wilhelm Kube, the Nazi floor leader, who aroused the greatest enthusiasm. Saluting eight Austrian Nazis who sat in the gallery, he cried:

"We Prussians are pan-Germans and we shall have attained our goal only when all Germany, including German Austria, is united with our fatherland in one great state which can then serve Germany's mission in the world."

Church to Address Jewish Protest Meet

Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, will speak Monday at a mass meeting in protest against anti-Semitism in Germany, Samuel Fuss, secretary of the Pittsburgh Council of the American Jewish Congress, said today.

U. S. Gets Assurance After Ordering Inquiry

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—On instructions from the German government, Ambassador Frederick von Prittwitz today delivered to the American government assurances that the Hitler regime would maintain law and order in Germany.

This step on the part of the German government followed the State Department's action in instructing the American embassy in Berlin to make a complete report on the alleged persecution of the Jews under Hitlerism.

COPY OF INTERVIEW

The Ambassador handed to Under-Secretary of State Phillips a copy of an interview given by Capt. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, German minister without portfolio and commissioner of Prussian police, to the Amsterdam Telegraff, in which he declared law and order would be maintained.

With respect to the attacks on Jews, Minister Goering said in the interview that if it was realized Germany had just gone through a revolution, one would be forced to admit there had been very little bloodshed.

He added he did not believe there would be very much heard in the future of unlawful acts.

In connection with the instructions to the American embassy in Berlin to make a complete report, a high State Department official said this government was "industriously endeavoring to get the actual facts about the situation so as to have an authoritative and accurate understanding as to just what conditions were."

PROTEST ASKED

Meanwhile, declaring there are many precedents for the action, Representative Celler (Dem.), of New York, today introduced a resolution in the House asking the State Department to protest to Germany against Jewish persecution by the Hitlerites.

The resolution went to the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which plans to hold a hearing on the question.

Tracing precedents for a protest by the government, Celler found that in 1875 Secretary of State Hamilton Fish appointed a Jewish consul general in Bucharest, Rumania, for the purpose of indicat-

Von Sternberg Sees No Danger of War

NEW YORK, March 22.—(INS.)—Josef von Sternberg, the screen director who "discovered" Marlene Dietrich, arrived today aboard the Europa from Germany. He said:

"Europe is filled with nationalism. Each nation is thinking it is better than its neighbor. However, despite this friction, there seems little likelihood of war because the people would not fight even if governments declared war."

Connellsville Fire Depicted By Ripley

Did you know that a pile of steel scrap (1,500 tons) caught fire in Connellsville, Pa., and burned for six months?

And that Newton Falls, O., High School boasts a record of having had six brothers in succession play on its football and basketball teams?

MAYOR KLINE IN HOSPITAL FOR TEST

Chance to Escape Jail Term Rests With Doctors

Mayor Kline entered Allegheny General Hospital at 1:30 p. m. today to undergo an examination which will determine whether he is too ill to serve a six-month jail term.

Three physicians will examine him for possibly three days. They are Dr. J. S. Logan, of Allegheny General Hospital; Dr. C. H. Henninger, of St. Francis Hospital, and Dr. H. G. Schleiter, of both hospitals.

If the tests prove the Mayor seriously ill, District Attorney Andrew T. Park will not oppose his pleas to escape jail in exchange for his resignation. The Mayor, then, may be out of office in less than a week.

MITCHELL CASE GIVEN JURY

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—Less than 24 hours after his arrest was ordered by the Attorney General in Washington, the case of the federal government against Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank, arrested last night on a charge of income tax evasion, went before the federal grand jury today.

Federal Attorney George Z. Medalie, his chief assistant, Thomas E. Dewey, and Assistant Federal Attorney Murray Gurfein presented to the grand jury before noon the charge that Mitchell by selling to his wife at a loss stocks which he later bought back and wilfully evaded an income tax of $657,152 in 1929.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings said in Washington last night that Medalie would "proceed forthwith to present the case to a grand jury with a view to pressing for an early trial."

In evening clothes Mitchell, who until his recent resignation as a result of his testimony before the Senate Investigating Committee was one of the country's most powerful bankers, was arrested last night in his Fifth avenue home and taken in a taxicab to the Federal Building, where his bail was fixed at $10,000 and a hearing set for March 29. A surety company furnished his bail, and he returned home.

Delay Confirming Bingham as Envoy

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—Efforts of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, to obtain Senate confirmation of Robert W. Bingham, of Kentucky, as ambassador to England, were balked today by objections from Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader. The Foreign Relations Committee had unanimously approved the Bingham nomination a few minutes before.

McNary explained on the floor he was objecting to action in the absence from the Senate of Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, former chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Babe Ruth Signs $52,000 Contract

JAMES P. ROONEY

"Jimmy" Rooney, 28, noted Pitt athlete a few years ago, seriously hurt today in an auto crash not far from Bedford. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

WM. PENN FIRE LURES CROWD

Burning mattresses in a furniture storage room on the eighteenth floor of the William Penn Hotel today caused billows of smoke to pour from windows above Grant street and attracted a large crowd.

Firemen and hotel employes confined the damage to the mattresses and other bedding. Smoke filled the kitchens that serve the main ball room and the urban room, but did not penetrate the guest rooms.

Guests who heard the fire engines draw up and saw the crowd in the street flooded the room clerk with inquiries, but were reassured on learning the cause.

The smouldering fire caused little damage to the room itself, but many mattresses and other bedding were damaged by the flames and water. There was no estimate of the loss. The cause of the fire was not determined.

KANE, FIGHT MANAGER, MAY DIE

Wreckage Imprisons Victims in Snow Near Bedford

BEDFORD, March 22.—James P. Rooney, 28, former backfield star of Pitt football teams and former Representative in the State Legislature, and Harry (Irish) Kane, 35, a Pittsburgh boxing manager, were injured critically in an automobile accident nine miles west of here early today.

Rooney regained consciousness at Timmons Hospital this morning and recognized his mother, but Kane still was unconscious and little hope was held for his recovery. James Tost, 30, of Pittsburgh, who was driving the car, escaped with lacerations.

UNCONSCIOUS IN SNOW

The three lay unconscious in the wreckage in a snowstorm along a mountain road for at least a half hour, it is believed, until a passing motorist discovered them at 1:30 a. m. The car crashed into a brick wall at a curve on Route No. 30, according to Rooney's brother, John, who sped to Bedford with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Rooney, and two other brothers, Arthur and Vincent.

It was said at the hospital that both Rooney and Kane were thought to have skull fractures.

John Rooney said the three men were en route to Pittsburgh, but he did not know where they had been. He assumed they were on a business trip, he said.

Mr. Kane

"Jimmy" has had a varied career in athletics and politics. He starred in football and baseball at Allegheny High School and enrolled at Pitt in 1925. He was varsity quarterback in 1926, but left school. Returning in 1928, he starred in the backfield in that year and 1929. He was one of the best punters in Pitt's history.

Rooney also was a crack amateur boxer, and after leaving school, played professional football. He was elected to the Assembly from the Seventh Allegheny District in 1930, but was defeated for re-election last year.

Kane has been a manager of boxers in the Pittsburgh district for several years.

Girl Whose Fever Reached 112 Dies

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—(AP.)—Alice Tolan, 20-year-old Mexican girl who baffled medical science last fall by consistently running temperatures as high as 112 degrees, died yesterday.

Midnight Beer Parade Pictured by Dr. Doran

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—Using your imagination, here is a picture you might visualize on the night of April 6, as interpreted today by Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol.

11:50 p. m.—Strings of trucks, fully loaded, lined up on the premises of breweries in states where sale of beer will become legal.

11:55 p. m.—Drivers climb to their places and start the motors, while inspectors of the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol stand by with watch in hand.

Midnight—The trucks shoot out over the city, first to the downtown restaurants, carrying the newly legalized beverage to those places that have arranged to stay open to welcome the re-entry of beer.

This picture was portrayed by the man who is charged with regulation of the brew as he worked busily at his desk to make possible the sale the moment it is legalized.

While the beer bill became law today with the signature of President Roosevelt, it does not become effective until expiration of 15 days after enactment. This, as interpreted by Dr. Doran, means midnight, April 6.

But while the brew cannot leave the premises until then, the bottling will begin immediately and enterprising brewers will be ready to speed their product out to any who might be waiting up for the occasion.

400 Men on Death Fast In Mine Spurn Pleas

WARSAW, March 22.—(INS.)—Hundreds of mothers, wives and children knelt at the shaft of the Klimintoff Mine at Sosnowitz today, imploring 400 coal miners self-entombed far under the ground to end their hunger strike which has entered its third day.

The men announced from the depths of the mine that they would remain beneath the earth and starve rather than accept a wage cut decreed by the owners.

Heart-rending scenes were enacted as women relatives of the self-imprisoned men pleaded in unison for their return.

Efforts to remove the miners by force failed when they lashed down the cages and cut telephone wires.

Three hundred miners in neighboring towns and 3,000 textile workers at Lvov went on strike in sympathy with the Sosnowitz demonstrators.

PRESIDENTIAL MESSAGE DUE SHORTLY

Morgenthau Confers With Robinson On Program

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt's next message to Congress will recommend a program of farm mortgage and small home mortgage relief, including methods of refinancing. It will be ready for presentation in a few days.

The farm mortgage program will be embodied in a bill on which Henry Morgenthau, Jr., the Farm Board chairman, and Dr. W. I. Myers, his assistant, are now working.

By the time Congress is ready to consider the bill, Morgenthau's plan for consolidating federal farm credit agencies will be complete. Most of this will be accomplished by executive order.

CONFERENCE HELD

Morgenthau conferred on the legislation today with Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, and members of the Senate Banking and Agriculture committees. Robinson said he expected the measure to be finished within two or three days.

In some respects, the plan will follow the Canadian system which provides for debtor relief or conciliation courts. These courts have broad powers to scale debts downward, but in this country this would not be possible because of constitutional limitations except where debtor and creditor could be brought together through an agreement to reduce the face of the debt.

A system of farm debt arbitration agencies was authorized at the last session of Congress and plans for setting them up are now being considered by Federal district courts under whose direction they are intended to operate. They have as their aim conferences between farmers and their debtors to arrange methods of working out debt difficulties by agreement.

The basis of the Roosevelt relief plan, however, will be the refinancing of mortgages. The White House does not contemplate that a special bond issue will be needed but the same measure may authorize the credit agency to sell bonds in the same manner as the federal farm land banks now obtain capital for their operations.

BANKING REFORM

Meanwhile, definite, concrete measures by President Roosevelt to reform the banking and railroad situation under his "new deal" are rapidly taking shape.

The major proposals he wants Congress to enact are:

Banking—Requirement of sworn statements of bonuses and commissions to buyers of securities; federal regulation of holding companies selling securities in interstate commerce; federal authority over security exchanges; more rigid supervision of national banks; discouragement and prevention of speculation in bank deposits; separation of commercial and investment banking, and restriction of use of Federal Reserve bank funds in speculative enterprises.

Railroads—Assurance to railroads of national support conditioned upon reorganization with due consideration to investors and workers; federal regulation of competing motor car carriers; consolidations where competition is lacking; firm federal regulation of "railroad holding companies."

SCHOOL BILLS SIDETRACKED

HARRISBURG, March 22.—The House today indefinitely postponed action on six bills from the Committee on Education which would have reduced teachers' salaries, suspended automatic increases in compensation, reduced state contributions to local school districts, and reduced the number of districts through consolidations.

The bills comprised the method by which the Republican organization in the Legislature and Gov. Pinchot would revise the Edmonds act, at least for the period of economic stringency in the state.

Representative T. B. Wilson, McKean County, chairman of the Committee on Education, moved the postponement at the request of organization leaders who feared defeat of the program had it been pushed to a decision today.

Democrats, including the solid bloc from Allegheny County, were understood to have threatened opposition to the bills. Representatives George Beech, of Wilkinsburg, and James L. Quinn, of Braddock, were among those who declared themselves against action at this time.

BYRNS UPHOLDS NAVY JOB PLAN

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—Naval construction within the London treaty limitations as a means of providing employment, was indorsed today by Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, House Democratic leader, at a press conference. Byrns said:

"If we are going to have a large appropriation for public works to relieve unemployment, I see no reason why we cannot spend some of the money to build up the Navy.

"My information is that 85 per cent of the cost of ship construction goes directly into labor."

POOR BOARD BAN PROPOSED HERE

HARRISBURG, March 22.—Representative William A. Walker, of Allegheny County, today introduced a bill creating a Deparment of County Welfare in Allegheny County, which would assumed the duties of the present Poor Board.

The department would be headed by a director to be appointed by the County Commissioners, who would fix the compensation of the director and the personnel of his bureau.

An advisory board of welfare composed of six persons would be created, named by the County Commissioners. They would be required to have knowledge of "modern social methods." Their terms would be for three years each, the terms of two expiring each year.

All the functions of the poor board would be turned over to the Department of Welfare. Poor directors, if the bill becomes law, would serve out the terms for which they were elected, acting in an advisory capacity, but for the future the office of Poor Director would be abolished.

Hemphill Predicts Democrat Governor

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—(AP.)—Restoration of Pennsylvania to its "old position—the keystone of the Jeffersonian arch," by the Roosevelt administration is predicted by John M. Hemphill, Democratic candidate for Governor in 1930.

Hemphill told a Democratic gathering last night that a Democratic Governor will be elected in Pennsylvania next year if President Roosevelt and his advisers sponsor "a local leadership that Democrats can follow and the public can respect."

U. S. Scorns Old Gold Under $100 Value

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—Old jewelry and scrap gold that has streamed into the United States mints and the New York Assay Office brought an announcement today that quantities worth less than $100 were not to be accepted.

The shipments were attributed to misleading advertisements which caused patriotic citizens to send the jewelry in the belief that the government wanted it for its gold content.

GORDON PLEADS FOR NEW BANK LEGISLATION

Schnader Aids Appeal For Code Designed to Protect Depositors

HARRISBURG, March 22.—(AP.)—Dr. William D. Gordon, Secretary of Banking, appealed to the Legislature to place private banks under state supervision and speed up the liquidation of closed banks.

Together with Attorney General William A. Schnader, he appeared before the joint Senate and House banking committees yesterday to urge enactment of the new Department of Banking code.

Dr. Gordon said statements submitted by private banks which recently sought his approval to reopen after the national banking holiday indicated state control is desirable.

The Secretary joined Schnader in picturing the code as the result of work in a "laboratory" which handled 129 closed banks, with assets of $381,777,000, during the last two years.

He said this experience had shown that:

"Many things which appear to be poor judgment may be terrible management if not fraudulent management."

Attorney General Schnader told the committee early action on the banking department, banking and building and loan association codes is imperative.

He asserted the numerous bank closings of 1930-31 were due not so much to the depression as to the fact that "those in charge of the banks were permitted to do things they shouldn't do—and did them." He said the public became "the innocent victims of our own neglect."

In addition to placing private banks under state control and facilitating closed bank liquidation, the department code gives the banking secretary authority to examine affairs of bank affiliations and take over building and loan associations which have not paid matured shares or withdrawals for one year.

HOME BANK AID DENIED OWNERS

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(INS.)—Not a single dollar of the $120,000,000 of treasury funds placed at its disposal has been used by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board for direct loans to hard-pressed home owners, William F. Stevenson and D. Webb, board members testified today before a Senate Banking and Currency sub-committee.

Appearing to oppose the bill by Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, abolishing the board, Stevenson and Webb also revealed that the 12 home loan banks have run up a combined deficit of $200,000. Approximately an equal amount has been expended for administrative expenses, so that the new banking system is "in the red" about $400,000 altogether.

Conservator Curbs Bank During Probe

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., March 22.—(AP.)—While C. P. Cloak examines the books of the First National Bank of New Wilmington as conservator, deposits and withdrawals of the bank are under temporary suspension.

The examination was asked by the directors after H. T. Getty, cashier, committed suicide. Cloak is a former bank official of Ellwood City.

MISS IRENE MALINDZAK WARREN HELLER

HELLER WED, PITT RUMOR

The story goes that Warren Heller, Pitt's All-American halfback, and Irene Malindsak, a co-ed, blonde, petite and 20, have "ankled to the altar," as Walter Winchell would say.

Between classes today, the principals would neither affirm nor deny the story. Irene, still wearing Heller's engagement ring minus a wedding band, evaded the question with:

"The boys on the team all call me Mrs. Heller, but you wouldn't expect me to admit it if it were true."

And Heller answered the reporter's query with one of his own:

"Why should I tell you?"

Both Heller and Miss Malindzak are seniors and will be graduated in June.

jority of the House apparently prefers the bill of Representative Joseph G. Steedle, of McKees Rocks, which would leave the blue law on the statute books, but confer the right of local option to every municipality.

The Schwartz bill originally had that aspect. But in an effort to legalize baseball immediately was first amended in the Senate to repeal the blue law, then put the burden of Sunday observance on those communities which wished to adhere to the present system. Thereafter came the referendum of McClure, who voted against the measure when it first came up last week. He reversed himself yesterday under the lash of public clamor from his home county.

Strategy of the liberalists now calls for Senate action on the Steedle bill, which probably will be subjected to amendments. As passed by the House Monday night the bill confers the right of local option on all forms of Sunday observance. The Senate probably will strike out everything but football and baseball.

WAIT SENATE ACTION

Until the Senate acts on the Steedle bill there is little chance for any concurrence on the Schwartz bill. If the Steedle bill should be approved in the upper branch the Schwartz bill would become a memory.

Schwartz himself moved to nonconcur in the Senate amendments yesterday, but only after he had discovered that a combination of Allegheny County liberal Republicans and Democrats, together with Democrats from other sections of the state and opponents of blue law revision, were formed to block his bill.

The conference committee consists of Senators James J. Coyne, Joseph Trainer, McClure and Representatives Wilson G. Sarig, Democrat; Steedle and Schwartz. The set-up means a deadlock for the time being.

Roosevelt to Seek Trade Agreements

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(INS.)—As soon as the new administration has carried out its emergency legislative program, President Roosevelt will ask Congress for authority to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements and mutual tariff reductions with other nations, it was announced at the State Department today.

FRANCE OFFERS TO CUT ARMY ONE-THIRD

Equality to Germany Included in Plan For Entente

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service.

PARIS, March 22.—France has offered to reduce her present European army to about one-third its present size and grant Germany equality upon the continent if the Mussolini-MacDonald proposal for a four-power entente, including Germany, becomes a reality.

International News Service learned today that Premier Daladier informed Premier MacDonald France was willing to make this concession in the course of the important conversations held here yesterday.

Daladier insisted that the proposed four-power entente be recorded in the ordinary way with the League of Nations, as are other treaties, that it be set up within the framework of the League and that the peace treaty revisions Mussolini so strongly urged be carried out in accordance with the provisions of the League covenant.

PLAN FOR ARMIES

In return for these exactions he informed the British Prime Minister he was ready to accept the disarmament scheme MacDonald laid down at Geneva, insofar as it affected land forces.

The MacDonald plan provided for equal armies for Germany and France of 200,000 men on the European continent, but granted France an additional 200,000 soldiers for her colonial possessions.

Daladier agreed with MacDonald's argument that acceptance of the four-power entente by Germany and Italy removed most of France's reasons for demanding security, a demand that has threatened to wreck the disarmament conference at Geneva.

Germany has been kept in close touch with the conversations between Mussolini and MacDonald and between MacDonald and Daladier. Once Paris and Rome have agreed upon the preliminaries MacDonald will issue an invitation to representatives of these two powers and of Germany to meet in London and whip the four-power entente into shape.

M'DONALD HOME

LONDON, March 22.—(AP.)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, back from an eventful peace mission to Geneva, Rome and Paris, reached Downing street shortly before noon today.

When he reached Downing street he joined the cabinet, which already was in session there, ready to receive the Premier's report on the outcome of his continental tour.

Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, accompanied MacDonald on the airplane trip from Paris.

MacDonald was asked:

"Do you regard the Geneva and Rome visits as a successful move toward peace?"

He replied:

"We shall be successful when our work is completed."

WAR DEBT DEAL WAY HELD OPEN

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(INS.)—European debtors must offer the United States definite trade advantages before Congress will consider reduction or cancellation of debts, in the opinion of Representative Joseph Byrns, of Tennessee, Democratic leader of the House.

Denying any knowledge of reports that President Roosevelt would ask Congress for advice on the debt question, Byrns said today that the sentiment of the House against cancellation or reduction is unchanged.

PARIS, March 22.—(AP.)—The Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Deputies today decided to hear Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour before reaching any decision on a pending resolution to pay the defaulted $19,000,000 American debt installment due last December.

Schnader in Parley On Utility Inquiry

HARRISBURG, March 22.—(AP.)—The Senate Utility Investigating Committee yesterday conferred with Attorney General William A. Schnader, on the future of its inquiry. At the conclusion of the conference, members of the committee said they will meet again at 4 o'clock next Monday afternoon. Schnader will be at the conference.

U. S. TO EXTEND BANK AID

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—With the Detroit banking problem on the road to solution, one more barrier to the financial recovery of the nation had been passed by the government today.

Secretary Woodin and Reconstruction Finance Corporation officials were ready to turn their attention to other centers still with inadequate banking facilities.

Similar aid to that given in Detroit—that is, subscription of 6 per cent preferred stock to the amount of half the capitalization of new banks to replace those unable to reopen for normal functions—will be extended in other sections of the country.

The government will favor formation of new institutions to take over a portion of the assets of the old banks and to assume liability for that portion of their deposits as are backed by liquid collateral.

FARM RELIEF NEAR VOTE

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—The House plunged anew into debate on the administration farm bill today, a strong majority ready for a vote and sure of its passage.

So many members wanted to give their reasons for favoring or opposing the bill, however, that the original debate time limit was extended. When the bill was taken up today, an hour and a half had remained of the four first allotted, but at the request of Chairman Jones, of the Agriculture Committee, a total of three hours was allowed before the vote.

Confident predictions of passage by House leaders scarcely were needed after yesterday's debate revealed broad support in both parties for the Roosevelt recommendation.

No amendments were permitted under the drastic procedure adopted. This left the clear-cut issue of taking or leaving the bill, and most debate was devoted to advance explanations of individual votes.

Peter the Great, Hippo, Off Diet With Mumps

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—Peter the Great, 34-year-old hippo at the Bronx Zoo, greeted spring with an ailment diagnosed as mumps.

Off his diet, he ate only two bales of hay and two bushels of vegetables yesterday, instead of his normal ration of three bales and four bushels.

To assuage his growing ill temper, the doctor saturated a box of lump sugar in turpentine and tossed the cubes to the hippo 10 or 20 at a time.

Keeper Fred Taggert tried to devise a bandage out of burlap sacks, but finally 36 yards of red flannel were ordered to wrap around the hippo's neck.

Meanwhile, hot applications of spirits of turpentine and water were administered with a long-handled bill-poster's brush.

After all that, the director of the zoo and the curator of mammals decided that Peter's condition might not be due to mumps at all, but just a throat irritation caused by swallowing a cockle burr.

Shaw Suffers Leg Sprain In Crowd of Hula Girls

ABOARD THE CANADIAN PACIFIC LINER EMPRESS OF BRITAIN, March 22.—(Universal)—Crowding of comely but slightly ponderous hula dancers around George Bernard Shaw before the Empress of Britain sailed from Hilo, Sunday, resulted in a sprained leg for the dramatist, it was learned aboard ship. Incidentally, the incident has practically assured a new Shaw play.

Dodging grass-skirted dancers who showered him with flowers, Shaw suffered a slight injury which has forced inactivity upon him. Now stretched in a deck chair, and wearing a faded green-gold cape and a remarkable hat, he has resumed work upon the manuscript that claimed his time in the earlier days of his cruise around the world.

Shaw, who is due at San Francisco Friday, will be the guest of William Randolph Hearst during his brief stay in California. Mr. Hearst's private plane is to meet Shaw, and he and Mrs. Shaw will fly directly to the Hearst ranch, at San Simeon, Cal.

DATO BLAMES MAGNATE FOR OUSTER

He and Krenn Holding $703,000 Liabilities of Mrs. McCormick

International News Service.

CHICAGO, March 22.—Edward A. Dato, engineer, real estate dealer and former trustee of the Edith Rockefeller McCormick trust, today blamed John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for a situation that leaves him with nothing tangible except debts of $703,435.

Dato compared Rockefeller to "Pontius Pilate" when he told reporters, summoned to his office, how he and his former partner, Edwin D. Krenn, had been appointed by Mrs. McCormick to handle a $5,000,000 trust fund and then had been forced out with only debts to show for their efforts. Dato said:

"It was like Pontius Pilate washing his hands after the judgment. The Chicago Title and Trust Company was made executor of the estate and we were left out in the cold."

CLINIC REFUNDS $5,916 RELIEF

Despite an increase of 1,155 cases during the year, the Pittsburgh Skin and Cancer Foundation today announced in its ninth annual report that it had returned $5,916 to the Welfare Fund.

The foundation, according to report of President Arthur E. Braun, treated 4,512 persons, registering 3,383 new cases. The Welfare Fund share used totaled $25,340. Sixty per cent of the patients were referred to the foundation by physicians.

Social study occupied a large part of the foundation's program. A checkup showed 2,180 patients resided in Pittsburgh, 778 in Allegheny County and 414 in other parts of the state. Visits to the homes of patients totaled 1,534, according to Dr. Lester Hollander, medical director.

The women's dispensary board, according to the report of Mrs. William S. Moorhead, chairman, assisted in handling each entry.

NEW AID BILL ADVANCED

HARRISBURG, March 22.—(INS.)—Legislation to cover unemployment relief needs of the immediate future was speeded today in the Assembly so that Pennsylvania will be eligible to receive supplementary aid from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation at an early date.

The House Appropriations Committee reported favorably the Talbot bill providing $2,000,000 for relief in April and May. The money could be used for either direct or work relief and would be distributed by the emergency relief board under the existing system.

The House departed from unusual procedure and on motion of Representative J. G. Steedle immediately gave the measure first reading. It now goes on the second reading calendar.

Reformer Who Shot Boy Scout Gets Fine

CHICAGO, March 22.—(INS.)—Daniel L. Gilday, 67-year-old dry reformer, today was under sentence to pay a fine of $100 after a jury last night found him guilty of assault in the shooting of Herman Knol, a Boy Scout.

Gilday at a previous trial had been found guilty of assault to commit murder and was sentenced to the penitentiary, but the Illinois Supreme Court reversed the conviction.

HURL DYNAMITE AT POLICE

CHICAGO, March 22.—(INS.)—Police directed a city-wide search today for a gang of dynamite terrorists who, when surprised by detectives in the act of bombing the National Fur Dyeing Company plant, hurled 15 lighted sticks of explosive in the path of their pursuers.

Quickly abandoning the chase, the officers extinguished the sputtering fuse a minute before the dynamite would have exploded. A smaller bomb tossed at the front entrance of the plant exploded as the gang raced away in an automobile. The blast caused $2,000 damage.

Several revolver shots were exchanged in the chase before the package of 15 dynamite sticks was dropped in the street.

WON'T QUIT JOB, MAJ. REES SAYS

Maj. William T. Rees, chief clerk of the County Commissioners and head of the Elections Bureau, said today under no circumstances would he relinquish the clerkship and take charge of the Elections Bureau alone.

Rees made his statement in connection with rumors that D. O. Jones, member of the County Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, is being considered for appointment as chief clerk. Jones said he knew nothing about these rumors.

Maj. Rees said he was willing to continue his dual job, for which he receives only one salary, but that he does not want the single post as head of the Elections Bureau. He is being paid the salary provided for the Elections Bureau director.

RUTH'S BATTLE NEAR END

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 22.—(INS.)—Winnie Ruth Judd's battle to escape death on the gallows for the "trunk murders" of Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson neared a close today before the State Pardon Board.

She is under sentence to be hanged in the state prison at Florence April 14. Attorneys said that if the board denied her plea for a pardon or commutation of sentence they would appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

The hearing was in recess until late today to allow counsel for the blonde convicted slayer to produce witnesses in an effort to contest certain of J. J. (Happy Jack) Halloran's testimony before the board yesterday.

Halloran, wealthy Phoenix lumberman, denied Mrs. Judd's charges that he had aided her dispose of the bodies of the two murdered women, refused to answer questions concerning events before the night of the double killing, and said he "could think of no reason in the world why Mrs. Judd should involve me in the case."

Moley to Study City Moratorium

DETROIT, March 22.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt has assigned Prof. Raymond Moley, assistant Secretary of State, to investigate Mayor Frank Murphy's plan for a two-year moratorium on the debts of cities. The Mayor said upon returning from Washington.

The bank holiday has added hundreds of cities to the thousand or more which have already defaulted on their bonds, Mayor Murphy said.

FLOOD MENACE MOVES DOWN OHIO RIVER

500 Families Driven From Their Homes At Louisville

CINCINNATI, March 22.—(AP.)—Relief for the flood-stricken Ohio River valley was in sight today, but down where the big stream joins the Mississippi the populace viewed the approaching water with apprehension.

The rise of the yellow fluid slackened almost to a standstill along the route from Portsmouth, O., to Cincinnati, where for four days thousands of acres in city and country have been inundated. Ten lives have been lost and property damage is estimated in the millions.

FAMILIES ROUTED

Fed by overloaded tributaries in Southern Indiana, however, the waters still are sweeping far out of the river banks below here. Five hundred families were driven from their homes at Louisville, Ky.

The river remained stationary at Cincinnati.

Government experts said the river here probably would remain stationary at the present 63.7 foot level for from 24 to 36 hours and then begin the gradual fall that should bring it down to the 52-foot flood stage in four or five days. At Portsmouth, it held at 60.2 feet after hundreds of workmen had bulwarked a 62-foot wall that threatened to collapse and endanger the entire city.

Three large buildings along the waterfront collapsed. They had been undermined by sub-surface currents.

At Newport Ky., across the river from Cincinnati, relief workers fed and housed thousands after having turned down Gov. Ruby Laffoon's offer of assistance. Fifty Newport blocks are under water.

COLD ADDS TO WOES

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., March 22.—(AP.)—Freezing weather today added to the tribulations of hundreds of families evacuated from their homes by the flooding Ohio River.

Although the water is stationary at a height of 55 feet—five feet above flood stage—federal engineers said today they do not expect it to begin to fall for possibly 48 hours. A higher rise is possible, they said.

Amid flurries of snow, two new soup kitchens have been added to the equipment of a large force of relief workers giving aid to approximately 600 families affected by the flood.

WHEELING FEARS RISE

WHEELING, W. Va., March 22.—(AP.)—Wheeling, flooded last week by the highest river in two decades, watched the Ohio anxiously today.

With the water at a height of 30.8 feet—5.2 feet below flood stage—rivermen predicted a rise of two or three feet today.

MANIAC FLEES WITH CHILDREN

TRUCKEE, Cal., March 22.—(INS.)—Somewhere between here and San Francisco today is a heavily armed maniac with two cowering kidnaped children in his possession.

While authorities believed he may have headed for San Francisco, armed posses were scouring every part of the district within a radius of many miles, on the chance that the man may have hidden in some mountain refuge.

The man was Joe Mandell, 33, Truckee barber, who crushed his wife's skull with an ax before stealing two children belonging to a Truckee capitalist. The children were his nieces, Azad and Yvonne, 9-year-old twins, daughters of Richard Joseph.

FEAR FOR SPY WITNESSES

LONDON, March 22.—(AP.)—The identity of witnesses testifying in secret hearings in the court-martial of Lieut. Norman Baillie-Stewart, who is charged with betraying army secrets to a foreign agent, will never be disclosed officially.

It was believed secret proceedings would be completed today, after which public sessions will be resumed. The prosecution, which charges the young officer of the aristocratic Seaforth Highlanders communicated army secrets to a man named Otto Waldemar Obst in Berlin, contended its witnesses' lives might be placed in jeopardy by publicity.

The main point in the defense thus far disclosed is the young officer's declaration that £90 ($311), which he received from Berlin, was from a young woman with whom he had a love affair.

Lieut. L. Cromwell, one of Baillie-Stewart's closest friends, was called as a witness by the prosecution this afternoon.

He had considered accompanying the defendant to Germany last summer but did not do so. When Baillie-Stewart returned, he said, he did not mention the incident of the girl in Berlin.

Baillie-Stewart, said Cromwell, was "the very last" of his friends against whom he would have expected such charges as those now under investigation to be made.

Rivers Here Fall Slowly; Rain Due

The rivers here were falling slowly today after having attained a stage of 23.3 feet last night, 1.7 feet below flood mark. Continued recession is looked for, according to the Weather Bureau. A low pressure area on the way from the Southwest likely will bring more rain late tomorrow, but no forecast as to the effect on the rivers would be made by Forecaster W. S. Brotzman.

Robin's Battle With Window In 13th Day

For a part of each day since the bird apparently saw his reflection in the window of the office of Dr. H. E. Songer, he has attacked the glass with bill and wings. Dr. Songer says he appears none the worse for wear.

The possibility loneliness or disappointment in love might be the cause of the robin's behavior was advanced by the physician today. He said he had never seen the bird's mate.

IRENE DEFENDS PIG SUIT

WAUKEGAN, Ill., March 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, former dancer and wife of Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, Lake Forest social leader, took the witness stand yesterday and talked about finances—her finances—instead of proper diets for pigs. She said her worldly possessives were few.

Mrs. McLaughlin is defendant in a $10,000 damage suit brought in Circuit Judge Ralph Dady's court by William Schroeder, farmer, who charges false arrest and malicious prosecution.

Schroeder testified Mrs. McLaughlin visited his farm February 10, 1931, as representative of a humane society and later had him haled into court and fined $10 for alleged ill treatment of his pigs. Later the conviction was reversed. Schroeder said of Mrs. McLaughlin's visit.

"I treated her like a gentleman. But when she didn't act like a lady we got into an argument. I had to order her off the farm. When she wouldn't go peaceably, I had to take her by both arms, assist her to her automobile, and say 'scram.'"

Six of Schroeder's neighbors testified he fed and treated his swine better than most swine should expect.

CHILD SLAIN, FATHER HELD

While his son lay dead, sacrificial target of a bullet, police said, threatening his mother's life, James Caver, Negro, husband and father who held the gun, sobbed to homicide detectives this morning:

JAMES, 5

In an apparent effort to save his mother, police declared, Jimmy Caver, Jr., 5, ran between his parents, when he saw his father get a gun during a quarrel at their home, 2247 Bloomer way, last night.

Mrs. Caver also is being held for questioning at Central Police Station.

Target for Economy, Harbord Quits Drive

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—The New York Times says James G. Harbord, retired major general and former commander of the Army's service of supply in France, severed his connection more than a month ago with the campaign of the National Economy League for the reduction of veteran expenditures.

The newspaper says his resignation from the league resulted from a counter-attack of veterans' organizations for the reduction of the retired pays of Army and Navy officers.

LAMBERT, GRID EXPERT, SHOT BY SON, DIES

Fired to Save Mother, Youth, 17, Declares; Man Takes Blame

International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., March 22.—Dr. Fonsa A. Lambert, national football authority, died in Grant Hospital early today of a bullet wound inflicted yesterday by his 17-year-old son, Samuel.

The boy told police he shot his father because he was choking Mrs. Dorothy Lambert, the boy's mother. Lambert lingered throughout the night and died at 6:30 a. m. He was a member of the National Football Rules Committee.

SON AT BEDSIDE

Lambert's son was at his father's bedside today when he died, ready to submit to a blood transfusion if physicians deemed it necessary. The mother also kept a death vigil at the hospital.

Lambert's own statement to police—"The boy was not to blame, he was protecting his mother"—will dissuate officials from taking any action against him, according to suburban police who handled the case.

Young Lambert, a member of the Bexley High School football team, told investigators yesterday that he shot his father after being awakened by his mother's screams. He said:

'CHOKING MOTHER'

"I jumped out of bed and ran in to see dad choking her and twisting her arm. I pulled him away. He fought me. In the struggle we picked up a revolver off the bureau.

"He pushed me against the wall and I thought he was going to kill me. The gun was discharged somehow — I don't know why—and I saw him fall."

Bexley police said they believed Lambert had been drinking.

At the age of 50 Lambert had written several books on football and had become a well known official. He was president of the Columbus Serum Company and was a member of the Ohio State University faculty in the College of Veterinary Medicine from 1910 to 1918.

High School Boy Kills Father With Hammer

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—A 17-year-old high school boy hammered his father to death today and told police he did it to protect his mother from a "tyrant."

The boy, Anthony Malandro, said he saw the father, Angelo, beat Mrs. Malandro with an iron bar. He seized a hammer and struck his father on the head.

The man fell to the floor, jumped up and seized his daughter, Josephine, 25, said the boy. Anthony struck again and the man fell dead.

ing to the world that America was interested in treatment accorded Jews in that country.

An attempt to place in the Congressional Record the Celler resolution and other documents protesting against the anti-Semitic drive in Germany was blocked by Representative McFadden (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, who denied the necessary unanimous consent.

The objection came after Representative Blanton (Dem.), of Texas, announced he would fight any move that might offend the Hindenburg-Hitler government.

Germany Grants Amnesty To Americans' Attackers

BERLIN, March 22.—(INS.)—Attempts of the United States government to obtain punishment of the alleged Nazi storm troopers who assaulted 10 American citizens were thwarted by President Von Hindenburg today.

The chief executive signed a sweeping amnesty cancelling all charges against Nazis and Nationalists who prior to yesterday committed crimes "in furtherance of the national revolution."

Eight of the 10 Americans who complained of being attacked by Nazis were Jews.

Violence Widespread, Einstein Declares

ABOARD S. S. BELGENLAND, March 22.—(INS.)—Overnight transfer of police competence "to a raw and incited crowd of Nazi militia" was responsible for the raid on his home at Kaputh, Germany, Prof. Albert Einstein declared today. The noted German physcist said:

"The raid on our house by an armed crowd is only a single example of the arbitrary acts of violence happening nowadays in the whole country."

Assembly to Hold Thursday Session

HARRISBURG, March 22.—(INS.)—Departing from its custom of adjourning for the week on Wednesdays, the House will hold a session tomorrow. Speaker Talbot announced the session is necessary because of the heavy calendar. The Senate adjourned until next Monday night.

SIGNS AT 2 P. M.

The President signed the bill at 2 p. m.

From congressional halls it had been taken to him, done up neatly in red ribbon, by Representatives Cullen and O'Connor, of New York; McCormack, of Massachusetts, and Parsons and Sabath, of Illinois, all Democrats.

Cullen sponsored the law on the legislative course.

In his seat at the head of the cabinet table, and in the presence of newspapermen and photographers, the President glanced over the five and one-half pages of the enrolled measure.

Upon completing the reading, he folded over the last page and picked up the first of the four pens he used in signing. Stephen T. Early, a secretary, was at his side.

GREETS CONGRESSMEN

The delegation of House members which carried the bill to the White House stood just outside the cabinet room during the signing and later were received by Mr. Roosevelt.

Looking up after he had signed, the President smiled.

Later he remarked to photographers that he hoped they "got the smile" at the end.

When the bill was received from Congress, Early took the measure in to the President who was just completing lunch at his desk with Postmaster General Farley.

PENS DISTRIBUTED

Representative Cullen asked if he might have one of the pens used in the signing. The President replied:

"Sure."

He chatted amiably with the delegation around him while he posed for photographers. There was a call from one of the group for another smile like "that other one," and the chief executive chuckled.

The President directed that the four pens be given to the American Federation of Labor, the American Legion, Cullen and Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, who as chairman of the Finance Committee, was in charge of the legislation in the Senate.

The Senate had been in session but two minutes after noon, when Garner signed. Its adjournment before the House voted final passag yesterday necessitated putting the formality over, inasmuch as the Senate must be meeting when the Vice President acts.

Speaker Rainey signed yesterday as soon as that might shout of "Aye!" "Aye!" rang through the crowded House chamber.

GARNER SIGNS

The enrolled beer bill arrived from the House immediately after the Senate convened and was carried to Garner's desk. Then, as a quorum was being called and with only a few Senators in their seats, the Vice President added his signature under that of Speaker Rainey. He smiled at the parliamentary clerk, Charles Watkins, as he scratched his name.

There was no ceremony, and spectators in the galleries apparently did not even realize that the bill was the paper signed.

Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of the alcohol bureau, today interpreted the law as permitting sale after midnight of April 6.

The bill reads that it becomes effective upon the expiration of 15 days after enactment and Dr. Doran said his legal division interpreted this as meaning the count of days should begin tomorrow.

MIDNIGHT DEADLINE

The beer will not be permitted to leave the premises of the breweries until the hour of midnight strikes, so any persons who are looking forward to drinking the legalized product at the earliest possible moment will have to await its arrival from the brewery early on the morning of April 7.

Dr. Doran said he had found a fine spirit of co-operation among brewers to comply with the law. He said that he expected to work with them in keeping out of the industry those who have racketeered in ilegal beer through the years.

Asked if the licensed brewers would encounter troubles from the bootleg distributor, Dr. Doran said:

"The legalized brewer can manufacture beer and pay the revenue tax at a cost well below that of a gun organization."

NO WINE APPLICANTS

While hundreds of brewers are seeking licenses to manufacture the cereal beverage, Doran said not a single application had come for permission to distribute fruit beverages, which were also legalized by the bill.

He expressed a belief that wine makers were studying the question thoroughly to determine whether they could supply a drinkable product of 3.2 per cent alcohol.

Dr. Doran expects to handle the inspection of the rejuvenated industry with the bureau's present personnel. He has about 650 men in the field and for the present all have been assigned to inspection work, one to each brewery.

After the situation settles down, he believes one man will be able to handle the inspection of as many as three or four plants.

Meanwhile, the President has asked the attorney general for a report on the status of federal prisoners who have been convicted under the dry laws but who would not have been guilty of violation under the terms of the new beer bill.

No decision has been reached on paroling such prisoners, nor is it known how many there are.

Various legislative proposals have been made looking toward freeing certain prisoners who would not have violated the law under the terms of the new bill, one of them by Representative Sabath (Dem.), fo Illinois. Action on Capitol Hill is uncertain, however.

10 Liquor Districts For State Proposed

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 22.—A second beer bill was introduced in the House today by Rep. Clinton A. Sowers of Philadelphia, relieving county courts from the duty of issuing licenses to retail beer establishments. In practically every other respect it parallels the bill introduced Monday night by the same sponsor.

Instead of the courts, regional licensing boards are set up, Philadelphia composing the first district and Allegheny County the second. Ten districts are created, three being in Western Pennsylvania in addition to Allegheny County.

The Eighth district would comprise Westmoreland, Fayette, Greene, Washington and Beaver; the Ninth, McKean, Potter, Elk, Cameron, Clinton, Clearfield and Centre; the Tenth, Erie, Crawford, Mercer, Lawrence, Butler, Armstrong, Indiana, Jefferson, Clarion, Venango, Forest and Warren.

Each board is to be made up of three members for three years terms, which would rotate. Their salaries would be $3,500 a year, and they would be appointed by a board consisting of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, State Treasurer, Auditor General and Secretary of Internal Affairs, all elective officials.

The McClure bill setting up the machinery for a convention to ratify or disapprove the Congressional resolution for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment probably will be in the hands of Gov. Pinchot tomorrow.

The bill creates a convention of 51 members, one from each of the state's 34 Congressional districts, and 17 at large. They would be elected at the general election November 7 of this year, and meet in Harrisburg, 28 days later. Only two sets of delegates would be on the ballot, one group favoring repeal and the other against.

The delegates securing the largest number of signers to petitions would be the nominees in districts and at large.

Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish, today was approving brewery charters after learning that Congress had enacted the 3.2 per cent beer and wine bill. Since Congress has approved this legislation, Beamish said, Pennsylvania can do nothing but approve charters for foreign and domestic brewery companies to sell legal beer and wine in the state.

Attorney General William A. Schnader called attention to the Pennsylvania requirement that no one can manufacture beer and wine in the commonwealth without a permit from the State Alcohol Permit Board.

Beamish said about 30 brewery charter applications await his approval.

15 Bartenders Salute End of 14-Year Vigil

Fifteen optimistic ex-bartenders today said:

"I told you so."

They nourished for 14 years the conviction that some day beer would come back, and supported their convictions by maintaining in good standing the Pittsburgh branch of the Bartenders Union.

Now dawns the day when their belief is justified, and some of those who were faint of heart and quit the union are applying for reinstatement.

It was a long wait, said Harry J. Clair, secretary-treasurer of the union, and these optimistic ex-bartenders were the butts of many a jest, but they knew in time their confidence would be rewarded.

There was a day when 1,945 men were members of their union, but the number dwindled rapidly with the advent of prohibition.

Even if the old-time bars do not come back in Pennsylvania, Clair said there would be a place for the old-time "gentlemen and scholars" who once graced those popular spots. Clair said:

"They must have service bars of some sort, and there will be places for us there, and if not, there are other branches of the brewery industry where we will fit. The best part of it is, there will be work for more people, whether it is for us or others."

His opinion was echoed by the dean of the Pittsburgh bartenders, James Deeney, 67. He has been a member of the union since it was formed 31 years ago. James W. Hackett likewise has been a member for 31 years, but is somewhat younger than Deeney.

Battle Brentwood Blaze Three Hours

Volunteer firemen of Brentwood and Baldwin Township battled three hours today before subduing a blaze in the two-story brick dwelling of Joseph Sinkovitz, 2817 Pyramid street, Brentwood.

OHIO PROPOSES BEER TAXES

COLUMBUS, O., March 22.—(INS.)—Declaring that the state and its political subdivisions are "in desperate need of additional revenues," Gov. George White today transmitted to the Ohio Legislature a special message, recommending passage of the Ackerman beer bill as an emergency measure.

The Ackerman bill, which provides for the modification of the Crabbe act to permit the manufacture of beer, regulate its sale and impose a state tax, is now pending and will probably be brought out for consideration in the Senate tomorrow.

Should the Ackerman measure be passed as an emergency act, beer will be available to the consumer as soon as the state beer commission, to be created under the terms of the bill, can begin functioning. There has been some discussion, however, of passing the bill as a revenue measure, which would require 30 days before legalized beer would be available.

JURIST WARNS AGAINST SALOON

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—(AP.)—Circuit Judge Joseph Buffington, in Federal Court today, urged 60 new citizens to "keep away from saloons, go to church with your children and have faith in banks." Judge Buffington said:

"I smile when I hear people talking about hard times. Hard times today are nothing compared to those faced by the nation's founders.

"This country of ours is about to undergo a great change. Before long it seems that it will pass from a saloonless nation into that of the old days of the saloon.

"Men, keep away from the saloons.

"I have never known a man who regretted having drunk too little, but I have known many who regretted having drunk too much.

GRAPE RAISERS SCORN 3.2 WINE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—(INS.)—Grape growers throughout California today were puzzled over the problem of making "wine" within the legal limit of 3.2 per cent alcohol.

Viticulturists declared such a grape concoction would be "useless to the grape industry." Edmund A. Rossi, president of the Grape Growers' League of California, said:

"We are waging a vigorous fight for naturally fermented, 10 per cent wine and hope to win it at this session of Congress.

"Perhaps 3.2 per cent wine could be made of natural wine, diluted with carbonated water and bottled. But who would drink it? I know of no California concern contemplating such a project."

Woodring Likely Philippine Governor

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(Universal.)—Former Gov. Harry H. Woodring, of Kansas, may be appointed by President Roosevelt as Governor General of the Philippines, Universal Service has learned today from authoritative sources.

At the same time, it was said, Homer S. Cummings, of Connecticut, originally slated for the Philippines post, probably would remain as Attorney General.

Pretzel Makers Look for Boom With Beer

CHICAGO, March 22.—(INS.)—A new boom in the pretzel industry, which since prohibition has prospered anyway, was predicted today by J. C. Eichman, an official of the American Cone and Pretzel Company, which produces about three-quarters of what this country eats.

With beer assured by early April, the pretzel bakeries throughout the nation are working at top speed to increase production and meet the expected heavy increase in demand. For, as Eichman declares, "what would a glass of beer be without a crisp pretzel?"

PROVISIONS OF BILL LEGALIZING 3.2 BEER

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—The principal provisions of the beer bill:

Legalizes beer and wine of 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight or 4 per cent by volume.

Levies a federal tax of $5 a barrel of 31 gallons.

Becomes effective 15 days after enactment.

Leaves all regulations as to distribution to the states.

Protects dry states by re-affirming the Webb-Kenyon act preventing interstate shipment into those that have laws prohibiting sale of beverages of more than ½ of 1 per cent alcoholic content.

Provides that brewers must pay an annual federal license fee of $1,000 for each brewery.

Continues existing law calling for $50 annual fees for wholesalers and $20 for retailers.

Amends dry laws affecting Hawaii, Alaska and Puerto Rico to permit sale of the 3.2 per cent beer and wine.

Makes manufacturers bear the burden of proof that their products do not contain more than 3.2 per cent alcohol.

Permits advertising by radio, newspapers and other publications.

The beer and wine may be sold in 14 states as soon as legalized: Arizona, California, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Washington and Wisconsin.

Three other states permit beer to be sold after a specified time: North Dakota, July 1; West Virginia, May 9, and Wyoming, May 18.

Europe War Peril Talks Broadcast

Two broadcasts dealing with the threat of war in Europe are listed on the NBC-WJZ network, including KDKA, tonight and tomorrow.

France's military position is discussed at 7:15 tonight by Rene de Chambrun, Franco-American lawyer, who is a direct descendant of Lafayette and a nephew of the late Nicholas Longworth. Tomorrow at 8 p. m., Jules Sauerwein, French journalist, speaks on the question, "Is War Impending in Europe?"

Two other outstanding features listed on NBC-KDKA tonight are a recital by the Budapest String Quartet, which recently gave its only American concert of the season in Carnegie Hall, at 7:30 p. m., and the concluding presentation of a special series starring three internationally famed singers at 8:30, with Victor Chenkin, Russian singing actor, as the featured soloist.

The first movement of Rubinstein's piano concerto in D minor occupies the major portion of Josef Lhevinne's recital on WCAE at 9:30 p. m.

George Givot bows as the featured comedian with Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians on WJAS tonight at 10 o'clock, dispensing his side-splitisms as "Meroff, the Greek Ambassador of Goodwill."

"Pittsburgh Today," listed on KQV at 6 p. m., brings Dean John E. Loughlin, of the Duquesne University Law School, to the microphone in a talk entitled, "Duquesne University and the Legal Profession."

Program Pointers

Mingling music, comedy and drama, other etherial highlights are:

WCAE—Another dramatization from Beatrice Burton's new serial story, "The Flapper's Daughter," which starts in today's Sun-Telegraph, 6:15; Andy Sannella, guitarist, and Jerry and Eddie, vocal duo, 6:45; Fannie Brice, parading microphonically as Pocahontas, 8; Frank Black's string symphony, 9; Corn Cob Pipe Club, all-request night, 10; Paul Gannon's midnight songs.

Basketball Night With Seals

The Trained Seals observe "Basketball Night" on WCAE tonight at 7 with a review of the highlights of the recently-completed W. P. I. A. L. series and news of the present state championship series. As an additional feature, Julius Levin, editor of scholastic sports, interviews Grover C. Washabaugh, coach at South High, city champion and a contender for the state title.

"Chilly" Doyle's news flashes from the Pirates' Paso Robles (Cal.) training camp also mark the program. Harry Keck, Sun-Telegraph sports editor, is master of ceremonies.

A musical program by the boys' and girls' double quartets of the Norwin High School is presented during the Sun-Telegraph Family broadcast on WCAE at 4:45 p. m.

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, relays the latest news to WCAE and WJAS listeners daily at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

'The Chorus Lady' WCAE Feature

Based on an article published in the next issue of the American Weekly, feature magazine distributed each Sunday with the Sun-Telegraph, "The Chorus Lady," a dramatization starring Nancy Welford, noted comedienne, is presented on WCAE tonight at 6.

The presentation is one of a series being offered nationally over more than 100 stations by 17 Hearst newspapers, including the Sun-Telegraph.

Stars Debate 'If I Were Air Czar'

By AIRCASTER

It was while following Bill Hay's oft-repeated advice by seeing my dentist that subconscious thought metamorphosed into a dream of grandeur. It was, of course, the laughing gas which released the subordinated thoughts planted in some remote cerebral cell. I trace it all to a fellow writer who once asked me what I would do if I owned a radio station.

Naturally, with the stimulus of the anaesthetic, the notion became exalted, and for a few fleeting moments I was czar of radio. Now I shall never forget what inflation means. Even when I woke up, the idea, denuded of accompanying illusions, persisted, and by way of eliminating it, I got in touch with a few radio personalities and passed the buck. I asked one of them:

"What would you do if you could be radio king, czar or dictator for a day?"

The answers were prompt and unhesitating, going to prove that the idea of even temporary authority lies very close to the heart.

George Givot, the "Greek ambassador," quickly decided that if czar he would issue an edict for a complete day of radio silence, twice a month, and in this way stimulate public appreciation of radio broadcasting.

Fred Waring would give immediate radio outlets to college talent.

As a triumvirate, the Sizzlers would rule out all singers who dared to use "hot-cha," "hi-de-hi," "rooten-tooten-tooten" and "boop-a-doop."

With an eye to the happiness of the audience, Frances Langford, the canary, would lease all available storehouses for old jokes and require writers of alleged new gags to provide birth certificates along with them.

David Freeman, who writes the Cantor scripts, would rearrange schedules so that every simultaneous program would be different, and permit listeners at any hour to follow their fancies.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello Everybody:

Just seems that we have no luck at all with dogs. Every time we get one as an animal performer something makes it act like a mule rather than a dog. And believe me, nothing is so exasperating as to deliver one of those "none greater than" orations and then have the star performer make you appear like a ballyhoo artist without regard for the truth.

Can't lose faith in animal nature, though. Bill Cullen, the garageman, has a Boston bull that will warble any time, and Mrs. E. P. Sturges, noting the usual difficulty on the last animal broadcast, called from East Liverpool to say that her pet could do a Rudy Vallee and proved it by bringing the dog to the telephone and commanding it to sing, whereupon the welcome treble of the canine crooner immediately responded.

W. F. G. reports on the flood situation in Pittsburgh with a note saying that the river was over 38 feet in 1908, but in 1888 the river was higher.

The pronunciation got by, but the spelling was awful. It's spelled Na Zdrowie, (Nostrovia), and it's expected to have much wider use when the beer bill is passed and enacted into law. "To health," or, as some of you have translated it, "Gesundheit."

14 HERE TO GET WINCHELL ORCHIDS

"Walter Winchell orchids" will be the reward to 14 Pittsburgh district persons for their good deeds in civic and welfare endeavors during the observance next week of National F. T. D. Week.

It will be the Pittsburgh district florists, members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Service, who will say, "An orchid to you." The Sun-Telegraph columnist started the idea in his daily feature. The florists will elaborate it for a week.

District Representative Ed Ludwig has extended the florists' invitation to the Sun-Telegraph readers to help nominate deserving candidates for the honor.

All readers are invited to participate. Persons whose good deeds never are reached by the newspaper are being sought. The candidate may be quietly devoting a life to philanthropic or welfare work, spreading cheer for others; or, silently campaigning for some worthy cause. The readers are invited to submit names of such persons, fully outlining the reason why a Winchell orchid is deserved. Address the nominations to the Orchid Editor, The Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Two orchids will be awarded daily for a week. The first awards will be announced Sunday.

HERE'S CIPHER FOR REAL SKILL

CIPHER NO. 74

By MISS ADELINE WALTERS

Let's see what you can do with this one. It's hard. Watch for the tip tomorrow. It should help.

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor.

Here's a different cipher. It's No. 74 and submitted by Miss Adeline Walters, of Mt. Washington. This one is really hard. It should keep you going for some time. If it should cause you much worry, get the tip in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph. It probably will get you started.

Did you solve Cipher No. 73? That was a hard one. Here's how it was done. Form a rectangular 9x9 with the letters in the cipher, placing the groups of letters under each other. Next follow the number chart printed in today's paper to get the completed message. The answer was:

"The wrong doer is often a man that has left something undone, not always he that has done something."

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

A very exciting round of entertainments has been planned for this week honoring a bride of Monday afternoon, Alice de Peyster, daughter of the Frederick Ashton de Peysters, of Park avenue, New York, who will become the bride of James Todd, son of Mrs. James Todd, of Sewickley, that day, in the St. James Episcopal Church, New York.

There have already been parties for the bride-elect, one on Monday, a small tea, given by the Charles Page Perins in their Park avenue apartment, and members of the bridal party were the guests. The Perins are having the bride's aunt and uncle, the Walter R. Tuckermans, as their guests over the week-end.

Last night Helen E. M. Greeff, gave a dinner for Alice and her fiance in the Seaglade, Hotel St. Regis. The James Randall Creels are giving a dinner party tomorrow evening in the Central Park Casino, and Saturday evening a large supper dance will be given by the Henry Rogers Benjamins, in their home in East Eighty-seventh street.

Honored At Dinner

Attending all the festivities will be William Metcalf Doolittle and Richard R. Quay, Jr., of Sewickley and Pittsburgh, who are to be members of the bridal party.

One of the most successful fashion shows of the season was the benefit staged yesterday at the Edgewood Country Club, attracting a huge crowd. The clothes, modeled by club members, were lovely enough to delight any feminine heart.

Fashion Benefit

The very latest thing in negligees, a graceful honey colored wool and silk lace creation with the new shirred, raglan puffed sleeves, a cascade back and wide sash and corsage of violets in the new Eleanor Roosevelt blue velvet, was worn by Ruth Friday. Another of sunset pink crepe with ecru lace appliqued around the neckline was modeled by Mrs. Harry A. Neeb, Jr., and a hostess gown of apple green crepe with a wood brown velvet girdle, and high neckline finished with a cluster of flowers, was shown by Jane Smith.

An intriguing group of knitted boucle ensembles in myriad hues included a foliage green and deep pumpkin combination with a cape of the green, with a narrow sash of the contrasting color, having two tassels falling almost to the hemline, and the green hat to match had a twisted rim of green and pumpkin, and was worn by Bobby Dible. Helen Ruth Deike's was made with a bodice of yellow and skirt of bronze, joined at the waist in a zig-zag motif. Another model, displayed by Mrs. Alan Collingwood, had a skirt of holly berry red and a tiny stripe of black where it was joined to the white top.

Boucle Dresses

Americans Fete King Gustav at Monte Carlo

Universal Service Special Cable.

With hostesstes from overseas vying to entertain him at luncheons and dinners, almost daily his name heads the list of guests where fashionables gather.

He is at the New York Berry Walls one day, then at the Dwight Carlton Harrises, and next the Kingsley Macombers, or the Count and Countess Constantinias. The countess is the former Frieda Frasch.

His majesty's granddaughter, Princess Ingrid, frequently accompanies him. Also among the guests are frequently Count Folke Bernadotte and his American born wife, the former Estelle Manville.

But the King will not permit the social round to interfere with his devotion to sport. He insists on keeping up his tennis. Thus far the game has enabled him, incognito as Mr. G., to preserve his spare figure, which, as King Gustav, he would otherwise be likely to lose to American hospitality.

Mrs. Steinberg Hostess For Town Club Meeting

At the meeting of the Town Club in Mrs. C. L. Steinberg's home in Hastings street, yesterday, Mrs. C. G. Eicher reviewed Lancaster's book, "Pageants." Music was by Maud Spear Connor and Lucille Speer McIntyre, who sang duets, with Mrs. Martin Leiseder accompanying.

Colonial Tea, Exhibit To Be Held in Ingram

A Colonial tea and exhibit of antiques will be given at the Ingram United Presbyterian Church tomorrow afternoon. Hostesses are Mrs. E. R. Davidson, Mrs. A. J. Marshall, Mrs. Jean McBride, Mrs. Edward Stoz and Mrs. W. A. Krebs.

NEW SUMMER COSTUMES MADE TO THWART ALL WEATHER CHANGES

By KAY JOHNSON

THERE ARE days of rain in the loveliest of springs—a fact which has not escaped the attention of the dressmakers. In planning the spring and summer clothes for 1933, they have provided raincoats to wear over tennis dresses, detachable vests to wear under light-weight coats when the weather turns suddenly cool, and frocks with sleeves that may be made short or long, according to the weather needs.

STRANGE companions as these pairs of costumes might seem, they have been so cleverly designed as to be in harmony. Note the tennis dress in today's sketch—its detachable plastron furnishes a motif for the decorative patches on the coat it accompanies — even though the coat is of heavy wool combined with leather.

THE DRESS and its plastron are of pique; the plastrons on the coat are pique on one side and leather on the other. They may be easily unbuttoned and turned——pique side out, on a sunny day, and leather side out if it rains. The belt, with a blue buckle, is also reversible, and is of leather faced with pique. The entire coat is in medium blue, of a grayed cast, and its leather patches are dark blue.

* * *

THE DRESS, in spite of its slender lines and fitted waist, is so designed that it allows for plenty of freedom of movement; deep inverted box-plaits give fullness to the skirt, and wide arm-eyes provide for movement of the shoulders and back.

National Legion Auxiliary Head To Visit

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

For several days next week, the Department of Pennsylvania of the American Legion Auxiliary, will have as its guest the national president, Mrs. S. A. Blackburn, of Versailles, Ky.

Mrs. Blackburn will arrive in Pittsburgh on Sunday evening, will be met by the state president, Mrs. E. R. Beadle, and the department secretary, Mrs. C. W. Dressler, and taken to the Hotel William Penn where an informal reception will be held in her honor.

The units and councils of the western section will entertain Mrs. Blackburn at luncheon at the hotel on Monday and that evening she and the state officers will leave for Philadelphia, there to be entertained at dinner by the Philadelphia City Council.

On Wednesday morning the party will motor to Harrisburg for the official dinner dance that evening. Gov. and Mrs. Pinchot have been invited to attend.

For the reception here on Sunday Mrs. John F. Bair, western vice president, is general chairman and Mrs. William M. Stieren, Jr., Allegheny county president, her assistant.

Nominating Unit Selected by Congress

The nominating committee elected yesterday at the quarterly meeting of the Congress of Clubs includes Mrs. Robert T. Alexander, chairman, elected by the board; Mrs. Edward Lauer, Mrs. D. Allen McCully, Mrs. W. F. Webb, Mrs. C. C. Beach, Mrs. T. E. Milles, Mrs. H. R. Wick, Mrs. May T. Neff, Mrs. J. W. Briggs, Mrs. J. C. Wanner and Mrs. George Price.

There was no other business, both afternoon and morning sessions being given over to speakers. Mrs. George Lowry, of Delaware, O., described "The Charm of Old Peking" from her own experiences in the city where she had resided for 25 years. One of the most striking things has been the growth of women's clubs, started by foreign students and now having its broadening effects among the Chinese women.

In the afternoon Mrs. Paul Shupp, Pittsburgh author, spoke on the Eighteenth Century feminists, particularly of Mary Wollstonecroft, and Miss Hellen M. Asher, of the Y. W. C. A., talked on "Affairs of the Day."

The music consisted of Nellie Risher Roberts' songs, sung by Eda S. Kreiling, with the composer at the piano. Assembly singing was led by Elsie Breese Mitchell.

B. P. W. of Wilkinsburg To Visit Mines Bureau

Members of the Wilkinsburg Business and Professional Women's Club will visit the United States Bureau of Mines next Tuesday evening and will hear a talk by Albert A. Munch, director of exhibits. Hazel Rhodes, Hannah Brown, Elizabeth Fisher and Anna Miles are arranging for the meeting.

The road sign dedication, which was postponed from last week on account of inclement weather, will be held Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the intersection of the Lincoln and William Penn highways. John Rhodes, president of Wilkinsburg Council, is to make the dedicatory address.

Pittsburgh Composers' Program to Be Repeated

The program of Music and readings given last month by the Bookfellows Library Guild, of Miami, honoring Mrs. Marie Tello Phillips Yeagle, of Pittsburgh, will be repeated tomorrow at the home of Mrs. I. J. Reuter, of Miami Beach. The compositions of three Pittsburgh women, Nellie Risher Roberts, Mary Parsons and Mary McIlvain Geddis, and of Mrs. James Henry Green, formerly of Pittsburgh, were included in the musical numbers. For two of these Mrs. Phillips had written the words.

Westminster Fraternity Dances Friday Night

Kappa Phi Lambda will hold its party in Hotel Ohio, Youngstown; Delta Phi Sigma in the General Broadhead Hotel, Beaver Falls; Theta Upsilon Omega in the New Castle Field Club.

Faculty members will act as chaperons. A number of alumni plan to attend the affairs.

Beaver Juniors Sponsor Revue and Art Exhibit

The Beaver Junior Woman's Club sponsored a revue and exhibit by the Associated Artists of Beaver County last night in the school auditorium. An exhibit of paintings was one feature and music, dance numbers and a playlet made up the program. The proceeds of the affair will be used for the public library.

Miss Miriam S. Landgraf To Return From School

When Miss Miriam S. Landgraf, 118 Crafton avenue, Crafton, returns home tomorrow from Birmingham School, she will have two classmates as guests.

LIFE OF ANDREW CARNEGIE

By BURTON J. HENDRICK

Married College Girls Presented With $500

FROM THE LIFE OF ANDREW CARNEGIE
By BURTON J. HENDRICK

Abridged for exclusive publication in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph by special permission of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie

"Two East Ninety-first" was more than an emporium for the dissemination of money. It was Carnegie's winter home, the meeting place of his American friends, as was Skibo for his British and European associations.

In most respects Carnegie's life in New York was full of the same diversions as in Scotland. The piper, it is true, did not encircle the house every morning, but the organ regularly awoke Carnegie from his slumbers; the daily swim to which he was devoted in Scotland, as well as fishing in lochs and burns, were hardly possible on Fifth avenue, but an hour's motor ride ended at St. Andrews golf links in Westchester County, a club that had an even more intimate appeal than its enticing name.

For St. Andrews was the first headquarters of the noble sport founded in the United States, the year of the invasion being 1888, and its creators were two "Dunfarlin" men, John Reid and Robert Lockhart, a fact, Carnegie wrote, that "should be recorded in the annals of time."

Carnegie had a long list from whom to choose a partner, and whenever the mood was on, his secretary would call up the favored devotee suggesting his presence at Ninety-first street at a particular hour. On cold days butlers and friends would bundle the little figure in a heavy coat, with mufflers, huge turned-up collar, and hat drawn well over the ears, until nothing protruded except nose and goggled eyes; the car would emit a honk and off the gay party would whirl to the beautiful Westchester hills.

Eager to Win

Carnegie had taken up golf at the age of 63; he played well, but not so well as he would have liked, for, though skillful at putting, strength was lacking for the long drives. The eagerness to win that so largely explains his success in steel was similarly displayed on the course. What rejoicing when he came in ahead! How cast down he was by defeat! Here, as everywhere, he was a law unto himself, and certain ingenious idiosyncrasies, such as tee-ing his ball on the fairway, displayed the eternal child. His golfing cronies were indulgent.

"I am beating my friends at golf, so all goes well," he writes cousin "Dod." I played 18 holes today with Taylor. Beat him! Beat Murray Butler Saturday. Beat Franks the day before. I am playing better! P. S. They gave me a stroke a hole, but that's a detail."

A little bungalow had been built at the edge of the links, to which, after finishing the round, Carnegie would return for a nap, followed by a lively lunch with friends; occasionally, with wife and daughter, the night would be spent here, two faithful German servants and a St. Bernard dog contributing domestic touches to the scene.

The Fifth avenue house, like Skibo, offered opportunities for walks and idling; always at the doorstep lay Central Park, full of wooded recesses and glens. A favorite promenade, skirting the reservoir, was taken regularly every afternoon at 4 o'clock, alone, sometimes with a secretary or any friend who chanced to be at hand. The path had a circumference of two miles and Carnegie often went round twice, walking with an eager step that younger men found a strain.

Reporters Welcomed

For the most part the public let him enjoy these walks undisturbed, but newspaper reporters learned the secret and frequently waylaid him. Carnegie enjoyed the society of journalists almost as much as they enjoyed his own, and was usually good for a "story." Taking the intruder by the arm, piloting the way around the water, a variety of topics, personal, public, reminiscent, would be covered, the next day's paper containing as much of the rapid conversation as the interviewer could recall.

Carnegie never concealed the pleasure these newspaper write-ups gave him. (Reporters, in battalion, invariably dropped in every birthday, but on these occasions they were usually the ones interviewed.)

He liked also to sit on park benches when, if there were neighbors, he proved the friendliest of companions. To strangers he would chat, frequently, on intimate matters, telling them of his wife and daughter, ask about theirs, inquire about their business and prosperity and expand with his whole theory of existence. To keep his identity secret at such meetings gave him delight, and many men and women, afterward relating what they regarded as a rare and charming experience, would be astonished to learn who their entertainer had been. been.

There was no suggestion of loneliness about Carnegie's latter days; he had plenty of friends and diversions; the ties of early life grew stronger, and the large accretion of new ones proved perhaps the greatest consolation of advancing years.

He and his cousin "Doddie" saw much of one another and were constantly corresponding. To pass the time Dod took to painting, and portrait painting at that, even going so far as to produce a presentment of his distinguished relative.

"Yes, you are at last an artist," Carnegie commented. "As an artist I too am in demand. My painting is word painting and I'm all 'ordered' and 'sold.' Folk maun do something for their bread."

For now he again resorted to authorship. "The Empire of Business" (1902), and "Problems of Today" (1908), were collections of essays, touched up for republication, that had appeared in the Nineteenth Century, the Contemporary Review, the Century Magazine and the like; "James Watt" (1905), a volume about as revealing concerning its author as its subject, represented his one attempt at biography.

Carnegie's Study

Carnegie spent much time in a little study adjoining the library, the place adorned with photographs and mementoes of friends, and the walls inscribed as was the library—with phrases which had larded his convensation and writing for years, and which he looked upon as desirable promptings to life. "The Kingdom of Heaven is within you;" "The Gods send thread for a web begun;" "All is well since all grows better;" "Thine own reproach alone do fear;"—such were a few of the carefully chosen nuggets.

Here, as in the Scottish retreat, pen and pencil were constantly in hand. Every Sunday morning a letter was written to Morley—his Sunday "sermon" he called it—and Morley, in his Wimbledon home, was usually doing the same thing at essentially the same time, to Carnegie.

Demands came constantly for speeches, many of which were acceded to. The manuscripts of these prepared addresses exist, their numerous erasures, rewritings, interlineations, giving the pages a sorry appearance, but testifying to the seriousness with which the work was done.

An annual celebration never missed was the dinner of the St. Andrews Society, at which the Laird's oratory increased the pungent flavor of the haggis. Many thought that his impromptu speechs were better than the ones prepared; perhaps that was true, for Carnegie had his ideas at the disposal of the moment, but now and then they got him into trouble, for he would wander occasionally from the point and, in the prevailing excitement, unwarily commit himself.

Once, in a Pittsburgh address, he invited the whole Board of Aldermen to visit Skibo the next summer, "door-step to doorstep." This rash proposal promptly slipped his mind, never recurring until one day the succeeding August, when a cablegram informed a startled household that a fair sized delegation had sailed and would soon reach Scotland! But the family was game, and the local lawmakers had a joyful experience.

The Margaret Morrison Carnegie "brides," as they came to be known, were even more celebrated. In a speech to the graduating class of this institution the founder remarked that the white clad girls before him looked like brides.

Carnegie 'Brides'

"By the way," he added, a new idea popping into his brain, "if any of you are going to be married let me know."

Such a hint was not likely to be ignored. Next day one of the girls wrote the news of an impending husband; Carnegie, good as his word, sent as a wedding present a check for $500. A matrimonial epidemic ensued, each new bride receiving the same gift.

Finally came a letter saying that a certain improvident girl had made the mistake of marrying six months before the speech; if she had only known she would have waited! This was too much. Carnegie responded with the usual check, enclosing it in a letter to Arthur Hamerschlag, head of the institution, adding this warning: "Any further marriages are at the risk and expense of the contracting parties."

Free as Carnegie was with money when others were concerned, he was quite neglectful when it came to himself. The expenditutres many millionaires find indispensable he seldom engaged in. He had no private railway car, no box at the opera, and the pursuit of old masters and first editions never enticed him.

The more expensive habits of certain associates were frowned upon. "Have you seen Charlie's house?" he would remark, when Mr. Schwab's chateau was rising on Riverside Drive. "Mine is a cottage in comparison."

The manufacturer so insistent on day by day accounting in business was almost careless in his private finances. Minor lapses, such as overdrawing his personal bank account, seemed incongruous in a son of Scotland, yet many thrifty traits, such as going about the house switching off superfluous lights or deleting unnecessary words in a telegram, were quite in character. Waste always appalled Carnegie, and nothing exasperated him more than an attempt to impose on his wealth and reputation for free handedness. The feeling that he was being done would rankle.

Man About Town

Florence Meyer, daughter of Eugene Meyer, president of the Federal Reserve, and Gottfried Reinhardt, son of the famous Max Reinhardt, are veddy, veddy yoomish . . . Peggy Joyce says if you're gonna rap her be sure and make it ermine . . . Sally Blane and George Meeker are psychopathic . . . Don Cook and Evalyn Knapp, who announced their betrothal some time ago, are not yenny anymore . . . Don's new girl is Raquel Torres, the torrid tamale . . . Judge Seth Strelenger is courting Billy Davis, who used to be Kenneth Harlan's "mommy" . . . Sinclair Lewis is now working on a new novel with a theme already utilized by Hugh Walpole . . . Ellin Mackay Berlin's pieces in the nickel mags have earned her a sugary contract plus real mun-yee.

Marie Hammans of the Park Lane and John (Mayfair) Rumsey, both of whom tried Somebody Else recently, have reconciled . . . J. McKinley Bryant and Lili Damita are a good combination for dining now and then—because he makes her look prettier . . . The local Doctors, Nurses and Undertakers held their annual affair at the Park Central, of all things! . . . Elmo Lincoln, star of the "silents" in the old days, is now a fireman in a Queens Village movie theater.

The Waldron Post, Jrs., of the social register (he is Langdon Post's brother, if the name eludes you) will be blessed with a child in May . . . Ditto the Edgar Barriers. He is one of Ina Claire's troupers . . . The James Neilsons (he's the stage manager for "Christopher Bean") will have their blessed "expense" in April . . . Very third-rate of that one-time movie star, now in a hit, who, after a successful season, walked out on the Lambs Club owing a $600 tab . . . So sick is the poor dear . . . The yarn about her being on the road to recovery apparently was spread by her movie sponsors, who fooled the press when Lon Chaney was stricken with the same ailment.

An orchid to Leo Reisman's version of Irving Berlin's melodius new hit, "Maybe It's Because I Loved You Too Much"—with Fred Astaire doing the contagious vocal . . . A scallion to "Jennie" Crawford for her remarks about the gossips, to wit: "Ever since our second week they have been trying to part us" . . . According to her own statement, they have been parted since their second week . . . An orchid in Lohmuller's novel "Flame" number, done with Neons and undraped human dollies at the Hollywood . . . An orchid to "Stormy Weather," a pretty song; ditto to the Casa Loma crew's version of "Blue Prelude," the pashiest, weirdest and dreamiest tune since "Mood Indigo," but better . . . A scallion to Berle for thefting Ben Bernie's best gags, which were omitted when some of 'the boys" paid him a call . . . Two orchids to Bernie and his band for breaking the Paramount Theater record.

Shirley Wynne, Jr., son of the Health Commissioner, and Margaret ("June Moon") Lee are trousseau shopping . . . The Summer White House will be in New Mexico, on Son Elliott's ranch . . . Milestone, Von Sternberg, King Vidor and Lubitsch, according to their friends, are promoting heavy backing to produce pictures in the East.

Stanley Walker, city ed. of the Trib, is doing a book on America—"since prohibition" . . . Several chapters will deal with men and women who have had an influence on the country . . . Among those listed will be Owen Madden and a fairly well known columnist . . . The society editors will assure you (out of their papers, that is) that John Jacob Astor, 3rd, and Christina Torlonia really care for each other, in spite of the respective tribes' denials that they will merge . . . Dave, the Blue Room man (who hits too hard) let his dynamighty left go at an alleged Broadway columnist's stooge the other a. m. Because of offensive language in his restaurant. And then Dave barred them both. How humiliating to be barred from a delicatessen! . . . Add tips on the Lindy kidnaping—the Federal sleuths and Mulrooney's magicians are now working on the newest clues—without the help of the Jersey Sherlocks, who tried to hold out on the local gendarmes when the story first exploded.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Marc Connelly, former Pittsburgh newspaperman, is so anxious that his most noted play, "The Green Pastures," be given a smooth performance when it comes to the Nixon next week that he is personally supervising all performances and special rehearsals of his work in Toronto, where it is a current attraction. He will be among the spectators at the first performance here next Monday, perhaps more interested than any other person in the audience. Incidentally, it is reported that Mr. Connelly recently completed the writing of another play. Success of "The Green Pastures" in his old home town may be judged from the fact that the queue has never broken since the boxoffice sale opened Monday, and that mail orders continue heavy.

Michael Farmer, husband of Gloria Swanson, has no desire to be a motion picture actor, he says, although he did act in her latest photoplay, "Perfect Understanding," made in Europe for United Artists. He admits, however, that he'd like to be a movie producer. The Farmers, now in New York, will go to Hollywood. Later they will visit Honolulu and China before proceeding to Baris, where they have a dwelling place.

* * *

Vilma Banky, one of the most popular silent picture stars, whose talkie record stopped at one, in which her accent could be natural, is the star of "The Rebel," made in Europe and soon to be released in this country . . . Six film companies are said to be bidding for "Alien Corn," current Katharine Cornell starring vehicle in New York, the play being considered a possibility for either Norma Shearer, Katharine Hepburn, Greta Garbo, Ann Harding, Marlene Dietrich or Barbara Stanwyck . . . "Mademoiselle," in which Grace George and Alice Brady appeared on the stage this season, has been acquired for a picture by M-G-M . . . "The Barbarian" has been selected for the title of the Ramon Novarro film recently completed and tentatively called "The Man on the Nile."

Telepathy

Hero Medals Pitifully Cheap

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, March 22.—Within the last six months, pawn shops all over the country have flooded Hollywood with a steady stream of medals awarded by the various countries of the world for heroic acts in battle.

Ordered to get 38 Croix De Guerres for the picture, "Pilgrimage," Earl Parsley, of the Fox property department, found more than 600 available. They can be rented for a small piece of silver, or they can be bought, in almost any quantities, for $1.50.

According to Parsley, the only American medal lacking on the shelves of the studio property departments is the American Medal of Honor, the supreme badge of courage, which the government will not allow to be sold.

When studios need one of these, they simply engage one of the nine veterans of six wars who legitimally possess these medals, and who live in Southern California.

And what price heroism? Of these nine Medal-of-Honor-men, three are in the Soldiers' Home, a few miles from the Fox Studio, four are out of work and two are well and regularly employed.

When Ruth Chatterton heard that the Joan Crawford-Doug, Jr., separationstory was breaking, she wanted to cancel her European reservations and stay in Hollywood to be with Joan during the first trying hours. It took the combined persuasion of Joan, George Brent and another friend to talk her out of the idea.

Miss Chatterton

And you can take it from one who was with Joan until past midnight on the evening that the story broke, there was plenty of heart-ache behind that announcement. Also, the courage to face issues.

The London papers, incidentally, were that pleased when Constance Cummings descended the gangplank of the Europa wearing a simple English tweed suit, a trimly tailored hat, and carrying under her arm a pot of clam broth, which she she had had the chef prepare for a sick friend in England. It's going to be hard to keep me out of Paris from now on. Ed Perkins, who is over there handling Jose Mojica's personal appearance tour, writes:

Miss Cummings

"At one of the new picture theaters here, they have a real innovation. Instead of passes, critics are presented with a gardenia in the reception room. This not only entitles them to best seats in the loges or orchestra, but also gives them entree back stage (they have fine ballets) and free drinks at the bar."

And to think some of us would wear a corsage of sunflowers for half as much.

Cause of Sensation

The natural movement of a gigantic mechanical ape, constructed in a studio, is a reason for the sensation created by "King Kong," film based on a story by the late Edgar Wallace and Merian C. Cooper. The robot "animal" is 50 feet tall and has a reach of 75 feet. The comparison is with eight apes of normal size. "King Kong" likely will be shown here soon.

Views of Ohio Valley Flood in Hearst News

Dramatic pictures in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News show the floods that are raging in the Ohio River Valley. Two towns near Cincinnati which are pictured are partly under water. Whole streets are marooned with few boats to be had. In some places the water is up to the first floor representing a rise in the river of more than 50 feet.

First pictures of the tornado-torn district in Tennessee near Nashville, are contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. Many towns were damaged and 22 persons lost their lives as scores were hurt. A graphic description of the devastation is given by The Globe Trotter.

Uncle Sam's money "factory," THE GLOBE TROTTER the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, is shown turning out two billion dollars of new money. The pictures include a talk by Secretary of the Treasury Woodin in which he expresses his great pleasure at the manner in which the enormous task is being handled.

The most amazing talking parrot in the world is seen and heard. It is the much publicized gray African bird belonging to Francis Abella, of New York, who has taught it to answer questions in the most human-like manner. It also gives imitations of musical instruments and winds up with a take-off of Jimmy (Schnozzle) Durante.

British flying aces stage a thrilling and spectacular show over Cairo for King Fuad, of Egypt; Prince Farouk, the heir-apparent, and his two sisters. The fliers drop bombs and blow up targets with amazingly accurate aim.

With 500,000 spectators lining Fifth avenue in New York, 20,000 loyal sons of Erin parade on St. Patrick's Day.

Note: Because of the necessity upon theater managers to arrange programs to time schedules, it is possible that some of the subjects in the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.

Vince Barnett in Film Starring Dunn

James Dunn has been placed in the lead of B. P. Schulberg's Paramount production, "Dead on Arrival." Others in the cast are Gloria Stuart, William Harrigan, Vince Barnett, David Manners, Shirley Grey and Gertrude Short. George Somnes and Alexander Hall are directing. Beatrice Frint, a nurse with five years' experience in the Cook County Hospital in Chicago, has been selected as technical advisor.

Sam Wood to Direct Harlow, Gable

Clark Gable and Jean Harlow will be co-starred in "Nora," according to an announcement from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Sam Wood has been assigned the direction of the forthcoming picture, which was written especially for the screen by Anita Loos and John Emerson. Miss Harlow and Gable were seen together in "Red Dust." Gable's latest film is "The White Sister," in which he is co-starred with Helen Hayes.

"They can't kid us Jimmy"

"I'D RATHER have you than be a movie star. Daddy calls us Palmolive pals. He says we'll never be wallflowers as long as we continue to keep clean and sweet with Palmolive. He says that explains his beautiful family.

Just between you and me, Jimmy—mumsy still has her schoolgirl complexion* and gets a great kick out of living. Too bad more women don't know the truth. I've used Palmolive since I was big as you and I know all that olive oil in each cake is good for little boys and big girls and big boys and little girls. At any rate—this family will take no chances experimenting."

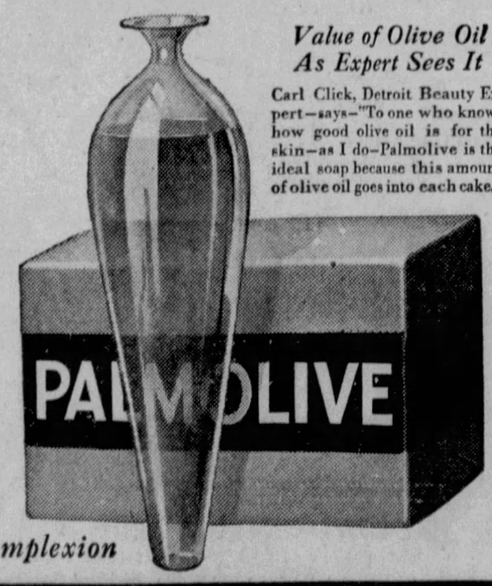
*and now since the price of keeping that schoolgirl complexion has been reduced by just about one-half—you and millions of women and the whole family can use this famous cosmetic soap freely for face, hands, bath and shampoo.



Value of Olive Oil As Expert Sees It

Carl Click, Detroit Beauty Expert—says—"To one who knows how good olive oil is for the skin—as I do—Palmolive is the ideal soap because this amount of olive oil goes into each cake."

Now it costs less to keep that Schoolgirl Complexion

Broadways of the World
All In A Day
By Mark Hellinger

KING DAVID HOTEL, JERUSALEM, Palestine.—With your permission, I'm doing a column of characters at this particular point,

First—The prince. Second cousin to the King of Egypt and a millionaire in his own right. He has a home that is just too beautiful and, merely merely to make it more exciting, his outside door is thicker than the one that graced the former home of Al Capone at Miami. When his uncle dies, he will come into some $40,000,000, which, when added to his own millions, makes quite a tidy sum for a rainy day.

I met the prince while crossing from Turkey to Egypt and he proved to be a decidedly good friend. Strange the way we met, though. I remembered that a certain prince from Egypt was a frequent visitor to New York. That particular prince knew his Broadway in all directions, and had played host to prominent showgirls on many occasions.

There was no reason why the prince on this small Turkish boat should prove to be the same prince who had made so many showgirls happy on Broadway. But I was lonesome, and there's nothing like taking a chance. So I had the prince pointed out to me and I walked over to him.

"You know New York, don't you?" was my opening remark.

"Wish I was there now," was his reply.

"Think I know you, Prince," was my next crack. "My name's Hellinger. If I'm not mistaken, you like your Broadway."

He shook hands, and sighed. "Like it?" he murmured like a true Egyptian. "I'm crazy about it."

The prince is a strange study. He is but 32 years of age, even though he looks much older. He is unmarried, although he has been on the verge of any number of occasions. He has his own boxing instructor, exercises a great deal and is in perfect health.

Certainly, you will say, here is a man who has everything that makes for happiness in life. He must live in Egypt six months of the year, but during the other six he can travel where and how he wishes.

His cars are the last word and he buys a yacht whenever he feels in the mood. He can go to New York, to Hollywood, to London, to Paris—and be assured of any number of friends in those cities. And when he tires of those places, he can return to his magnificent home on the outskirts of Cairo and find solitude and rest in his gorgeous garden.

Doesn't sound bad, does it? You'd be glad to change places with the man, wouldn't you? Well, don't make him too serious an offer. For, in spite of the fact that he has everything, he is one of the lonesomest and unhappiest men I have ever met.

In this hotel is a barber that I must introduced to you. His name is Max and he is a tall and very thin individual with popping eyes. I thought there was something queer about him when he walked into my room to shave me the first time. It wasn't until he left that I learned that he was still suffering from the effects of shell shock in the World War.

Aside from a mild case of the shakes, Max was shaving me quite well. He was monkeying around my throat when he stopped suddenly.

"My uncle in New York is a dog!" he cried. "He's the lowest kind of a dog!"

He was waving the razor, and I grew a little green.

"You want to know why I call him a dog?" he shouted. "You want to know?"

"No," I replied weakly. "I just want—"

"Then I'll tell you," he continued wildly. "He's got 40 barber shops in America. He's my uncle, my own mother's flesh and blood. And you want to know what he's doing to me? I'll tell you."

"I need $50 so I can study to be a ladies' barber. I wrote to him and told him he was my own mother's flesh and blood. I wrote to him five, six, seven times. And you know what he writes back to me? Nothing!"

I said nothing. Max reached down and began to scrape the rest of my face. For perhaps 30 seconds he said nothing. Then he began again.

"You want to know something?" he said. "I was in prison here for five weeks on bread and water. They were going to hang me."

"You don't say," I muttered.

"I'm saying it," he went on. "You want to know what I did? I killed a man—or maybe three or four. They said I only killed one, so was I going to argue? Five long weeks they kept me in jail before I came out. It was terrible.

"But would I do it again? Yes, I would. They better not start with me, because I kill them all. Like this. One. Two. Three. Four."

Enough was enough. Max was now swinging his razor as though he were mowing down his foes right and left. I arose and wiped the rest of the lather from my face.

"Okay, Max," I said. "That's all for today. Here's a nice tip for you. You can leave now. So long."

That sobered him up.

"Wait a minute," he commanded. "I haven't shaved the left side of your face."

"That's all right, Max," I asserted as I opened the door for him. "I never shave the left side anyhow."

I don't think Max will shave me any more.

U. S. WILL GUARD JAP PARTY

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—A police guard for Yosuke Matsuoka and five other Japanese delegates to the League of Nations when they arrive on the Leviathan Friday has been requested by the State Department.

Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney said the delegation would be given whatever escort it needed.

Y. T. Chang, executive secretary of the Chinese Students' League of Greater New York, announced that coincident with Matsuoka's arrival members of the league would distribute statements at the pier to charge that the Japanese statesman is here to "launch a propaganda campaign."

The presence of the Japanese will have no official status, other than that of foreign officials homeward bound. Matsuoka was educated at the University of Oregon.

JOB WITH PICK FOR RAIL HEIR

He was returning to his preparatory school in Maine today after joining his grandfather in the annual inspection of the Colonie shops of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad.

The grandfather is the veteran Leonor F. Loree, who began as a railroad surveyor and rose to the presidency of the road.

Asked about the job he might have, young Loree said:

Suit Against Doheny Recalls Oil Scandal

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—(AP.)—The old Elk Hill oil lease case echoed today in a $12,600,000 suit filed in the Federal Court yesterday against Edward L. Doheny, former head of the Pan-American Petroleum Company, by William C. McDuffie, receiver for the concern.

The action charged that Doheny, as head of the Pan-American organization, was responsible to stockholders for an alleged conspiracy with Albert B. Fall, then Secretary of the Interior, through which "leases E, G and I" in Elk Hills naval petroleum reserve in Kern County, California, were granted by the government to the Doheny interests.

AD CLUB PLANS BOOM PARADE

Plans for the "1933 Prosperity Parade," under auspices of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club, were outlined by R. C. Braun, general chairman, at a meeting of the club in the William Penn Hotel yesterday. The parade will be held in the Hotel May 16 to 19.

Mr. Braun said:

"The Pittsburgh Advertising Club is sponsoring a movement which will reflect the temper of the times, which will put into concrete form the new and renewed spirit of enthusiasm which has been evident. We believe the time is opportune for a 'Prosperity Parade.' There are numerous concerns which, although not transacting their affairs on a boom-time basis, still are doing a profitable business. We believe the people identified with the progressive force of advertising must assume aggressive leadership in the forward march to prosperity. We believe that we can show the world that in the renaissance of the nation's business, Pittsburgh marches on."

Assisting Mr. Braun in promotion of the parade are Sam K. Smith, R. S. McCarty, Joseph Schewe and Robert E. Wood.

SUNDAY SHOW TO AID NEEDY

Just as the need for food was getting acute Manager Frank Roberts of the Warner Enright Theater, East Liberty, comes along with a benefit for Father Cox and the destitute in his daily care.

The benefit will take place Sunday and, with a new enthusiasm prevailing among the people at large, it is anticipated that it will be the most successful of the several benefits given for the poor of Pittsburgh by the Warner Theaters and others with the co-operation of the Sun-Telegraph.

Manager Roberts is preparing for a tremendously big show which will run continuously from 2 o'clock until 11:00 o'clock. Father Cox is going to make two personal appearances during the day and evening.

Donations of food will be the only requirements for admission and Father Cox wants everyone to bring the equivalent of 25-cents in caned goods or standard package groceries. Every person attending must make a donation of food. No cash will be accepted.

Father Cox had another big day yesterday in his drive for subscriptions for the Sun-Telegraph. He made an appeal in his regular Tuesday radio broadcast from the pulpit of Old St. Patrick's and both his and the Sun-Telegraph telephones were busy for an hour taking the new orders. For every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, bring a liberal cash commission to his unemployment relief fund.

Two Gunmen Rob Morningside Store

Bandits maintained their record of one chain store robbery a day in the East End district today when two armed men held up Patrick Shearer, manager of an Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company grocery at 1747 Chislett street. While one pointed a revolver at Shearer the second robber looted the cash register. The two are believed to have fled in an automobile.

The Chesterfield FORMULA—what is it?

The formulas and processes which make Chesterfield a milder and better-tasting cigarette are secret—to prevent others from copying them

If every person knew the method and processes of tanning leather, it would be of interest; but what people want to know is: Is it a good shoe? Is it comfortable? Will it wear longer? Is the price right?

So it is with Chesterfield Cigarettes. If smokers, men and women, knew all of the formulas and processes of manufacture, it would be of interest to them; but what smokers really want is the result.

Everything that goes into Chesterfield Cigarettes is as good as money can buy.

Every process has in it all that science knows about cigarette manufacture.

The formulas are secret to prevent others from copying them. The mildness and the better taste you may prove for yourself. May we ask you to try Chesterfield?

BARR TO FORCE FILING OF TAX RETURNS

With eminent legal advisors disagreeing with his legal right to do so, T. Ralph Barr, head of the County Personal Tax Division today was advancing with his plans to force all those who failed to file personal tax returns to explain why.

Some of those who did not file returns contend they owed no tax, and were not required to file returns. They point out that had it been the intention of the framers of the act to require every person to file a return, a penalty would have been provided for failure to do so.

The law states that "taxables" must file returns and provides penalties based on the amount of tax evaded indicating that only evasion of tax is a violation. No mention of a penalty for failure to file is made.

Supporting Barr is County Solicitor J. P. Fife, who said:

"In my opinion every individual must file a return. If the individual does not have personal property to declare, he should file a return, the return being an affidavit to that effect.

"If no return is filed, our assessors will make an arbitrary return and the individual will then be notified of the aggregate amount of the arbitrary return, plus the penalty. If he does not protest the arbitrary return within 10 days it will stand and be turned over to the Treasurer for collection. If the tax is not paid, the Treasurer can obtain a judgment against the individual.

"If the individual protests the arbitrary return within the given time of 10 days, he will have the opportunity to make an amended return and the matter will be dropped. The burden of proof is on the individual and not on the tax board."

Sun-Telegraph-Warner Junior Komic Club

A note of sadness prevailed among the members of the Manor Chapter at the meeting last Saturday when Manager Blowitz announced the death of one of the most popular members. Harold Gross, who lived at 5546 Phillips avenue, was killed by an automobile on March 4.

Harold was 14, and at the time of his death was one of the most active members in the club. Memorial services were held for him at the meeting last Saturday and will again be held at the meeting this Saturday, when Manager Blowitz hopes to have all the members present.

Every member of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club extends their sympathy to the parents of Harold Gross.

PITTSBURGHERS CARRY DEMANDS TO LAWMAKERS

POLITICS

Bitter Fight Over Relief Looms

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 22. — Whatever plan of unemployment relief and governmental economy eventually is worked out by this Legislature and Gov. Pinchot will be on the basis of a cat and dog fight and not in the spirit of compromise, with politics discarded.

Mr. Shields

Monday the Governor and legislative leaders conferred in what was presented as a harmonious meeting, during which various proposals were considered. The impression was spread that there was a spirit of peace and amity pervading Harrisburg.

Yet with a few hours Representative Ellwood Turner, one of the organization leaders, a follower of State Senator John J. McClure, arose on the floor of the House and denounced the Governor as an opportunist and resented executive criticism of the Assembly.

Turner Seeks Cuts In Pinchot Power

Coming from that sourse, significance attached to the statement, which was generally accepted as indicative of the attitude toward Mr. Pinchot's thoughts of relief and economy. Turner has revised the administrative code drastically, abolishing some governmental bureaus, consolidating others and reducing salaries. He has re-created the executive board, so that it no longer would be responsive to executive will, removing from the province of Mr. Pinchot control over salaries and shifts of personnel.

The elective officers rather than men appointed by the Governor would be supreme under the Turner plan, directly contrary to the desires of Mr. Pinchot. Furthermore, control of all salaries of above $4,000 would be taken from the executive.

In view of the Turner declaration in the House, and the determination to push his revised code along, no one doubts that the closing weeks of the assembly will run their way in the spirit of contention and warfare, probably extending the session beyond April 13, tentatively set as the date of adjournment.

Pinchot and King Don't Speak at Dinner

There was an unstaged bit of drama last night at the biennial dinner of the Legislative Sons of St. Patrick, a nebulous organization whose celebrations are traditional, and which even includes some Irishmen in its makeup, though the personnel borders more on the League of Nations.

One of the late comers was Gov. Pinchot. The celebrants stood as the Governor made his way to his chair. Among those standing was Dr. Clyde L. King, chairman of the Public Service Commission. The Governor was compelled to walk directly in front of Dr. King. Neither spoke, and neither gave indication of noticing the other.

It was in strange contrast to the attitude of these two old friends until a couple of weeks ago, when the Governor repudiated Dr. King, and the chairman replied with a blast unparalleled for sharpness and direction.

Another thing which caused comment was the presence of Commissioner P. S. Stahlnecker at a table apart from other members of the Public Service Commission. Mr. Stahlnecker is closest to the Governor of all the members of the commission. His appointment has not changed the relation which existed when he was private secretary to Mr. Pinchot, and he can be counted on more nearly to exemplify the wishes of the Governor than any other member of the commission, more so even than George W. Woodruff, who has been associated with the Governor for years.

If there are any confirmations of the present unconfirmed personnel of the commission, Mr. Stahlnecker, strange as it may seem, stands the best chance of running the gauntlet of Senate approval, despite his responsiveness to the Governor.

Lencher Judgeship Plea Made to Pinchot

Senators William D. Mansfield and Frank J. Harris have laid before the Governor a desire that Attorney Benjamin Lencher be appointed to the vacancy in the County Court of Allegheny County. The matter was discussed with the Governor yesterday.

Mr. Pinchot gave neither Senator any assurance as to what he would do, but the impression prevailed after the conference that Mr. Lencher had made some progress. It is known that County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern has no objection, though his first commitment was to Assistant County Solicitor Ralph Frank.

Attorney Frank found as a barrier the belief by Mr. Pinchot that he could not be elected, and the Governor does not like to appoint judges he does not believe will have at least an even chance of making the grade before the electorate when their names come up.

Katz said he had asked his wife several times to return, but she refused.

Infatuated Girl's Tryst With Friend Spoiled by Aunt

CHAPTER I.

Sharlie Dunn was 18 years old.

She had just finished high school. And she had no plans for the long future that lay before her. No plans at all.

Some of the girls she knew were going to business school, training themselves to be stenographers and private secretaries. Some had found jobs in stores and offices and were earning money already. A few of them were planning to go to college in the fall.

Gertrude Barnum, her chum, who lived in the flat just across the hall from the Dunns' flat, was going to art school in September. Gertrude's widowed mother had been saving money for that art school course for years.

"She's a fool," was what Sharlie's mother said about Mrs. Barnum, "to try to make a fashion artist out of that lump of a Gertrude. Just about the time Gertrude's through with her art education she'll up and get married — and all that money will be just thrown away!"

Sharlie's mother had no use for fat, comfortable Mrs. Barnum or Gertrude. They had "no style and no pep," so she said. She simply could not see what Sharlie saw in them . . . Sharlie and the Barnums were great friends, and had been ever since the Barnums had moved into the next-door flat five years ago.

Mrs. Dunn had plenty of style and the thing she called "pep." She was thirty-six years old, and she did not look more than twenty-eight—especially just after she had had a "facial" and a water wave.

PREPARES TO LEAVE

Every Friday she and her friend Mrs. Carl Hanaberry, who lived in the big new apartment house on the other side of the street, went downtown together and spent the whole afternoon in their favorite beauty shop.

It was Friday noon now and Mrs. Dunn was getting dressed for the trip downtown with Maud Hanaberry.

Sharlie stood in the doorway watching her make up her pretty unwrinkled face.

"I love that sun orange lipstick on you, Dodie," she said. She never called her mother anything but "Dodie." "It's just the color for you, isn't it?"

Her mother frowned at her in the mirror above the dressing table, her blue eyes darkening between their blackened lashes.

"Sharlie, run and get those stockings that I rinsed out last night. They're hanging in the bathroom," she said.

She was still frowning when Sharlie brought her the stockings.

"Pray to high heaven that when you get married your husband will be able to buy you all the stockings you need, Sharlie," she said, sitting down on the edge of the bed and beginning to pull them over her slender legs. "I've been married to a failure for 19 years, and I know what I'm talking about . . . Don't throw yourself away on the first good-looking, poverty-stricken boy who comes along."

MEETS BOY

Sharlie shook her smooth brown-gold head, her gray eyes on the clock that stood on her mother's dressing table . . . Twelve minutes past 12! . . . At half-past 12 Eddie Wallis was coming for lunch. What on earth would happen if "Dodie" was still here when he came? Dodie didn't even know that she knew Eddie Wallis.

There were a great many things she didn't know about her daughter Sharlie.

For Sharlie had been leading a sort of double life for the past two years. Not a double life in the wicked and immoral sense, but, nevertheless, a double life. A great many girls do these days—

There was the life that she lived here in the flat with her father and mother and her mother's cousin, Edna Ballinger.

It was a dull and lonely life for her.

One or two nights a week her mother and father had their friends in to play poker and drink home-brew. One or two nights a week they went out to play poker and drink home-brew with the Hanaberrys or the Schultes or the Doolitles.

These were the nights when Sharlie lived her secret life. These were the nights when she sneaked out to meet Eddie Wallis—Eddie Wallis, who smoked cigarets and drank and called girls "zanies." Eddie Wallis, who was such a tough that Sharlie never had dared to ask him to the flat to meet her mother and father.

LOANS MOTHER MONEY

But he was coming today—coming in fifteen minutes by the clock—and Sharlie was in an agony of fear that her mother would still be there when he arrived.

"I'll have to borrow some money from Maud for my treatments," Mrs. Dunn was saying as she slipped into her sleeveless, backless white dress and pulled a tiny white felt down over her yellow hair. "I forgot to ask your father for some this morning before he left—"

"I have my five dollars," Sharlie interrupted eagerly. She flew into her own tiny white bedroom for the bill that had been her Grandmother Dunn's graduation gift a month before.

It was under the paper that lined the top drawer of her white dresser. She had put it away with three one-dollar bills that she had been saving for a long time.

But she took it out now, without a twinge of regret, and flew back into her mother's room with it . . . Anything, anything, anything to get Dodie out of the flat before half-past twelve!

Both were in summery white. But across Maud Hanaberry's wide shoulders was slung a white fox scarf. Sharlie knew that her mother would have loved to be wearing a white fox, too . . . She was sorry for her mother. Sorry for Dodie, who had been married to a failure for 19 years.

LITTLE INCOME

Sharlie had known that her father was a failure ever since she had been old enough to understand the things her mother said about him.

She knew that he made a tiny salary working at some unimportant job in the big railroad freight offices downtown in the Bangor building.

She knew that the reason Edna Ballinger lived with them was because the board she paid "came in handy" for meeting the household expenses.

She knew that they would have had to move out of the flat if Mr. Gunderson, the landlord, had raised their rent last April when he had raised the Barnum's rent.

"He would have raised it, too, if I hadn't vamped him a little," Dodie had told her at that time. "Don't tell your father how long the old fool sat around here this afternoon talking to me."

Mr. Gunderson always "sat around" talking to Dodie when he came to collect the rent on the first day of the month. Men always liked to talk to Dodie. She was so pretty and she laughed a great deal, showing the whitest of teeth and a dimple in one of her smooth pink cheeks.

Sharlie was pretty, too, but in a different way.

She was tall and slim. She had a quick shy little smile, and her eyes looked out at the world from between thick up-curling lashes that were so black they looked artificial—like the ones that motion-picture actresses wear.

EDDIE ARRIVES

She had been brought up on the street, as a little girl. Dodie's never-ending chant to her had been: "Run out and play, Sharlie, and don't bother me."

But in spite of the street, and in spite of Eddie Wallis, Sharlie somehow or other had kept her woodsy charm. Her eyes were still clear and bright, and wide as a child's eyes, and her low laugh had the happy ring of a little girl's laugh. She had a sweet soft way of talking to people, and sometimes she blushed. Hardly anybody knows how to blush any more.

COURTS HONOR WALTER LYON IN DEATH

Rites Set Tomorrow For Tutor of Three Presiding Jurists

The death of Walter Lyon, former United States Attorney and Lieutenant Governor, was announced today in the Allegheny County courts, three sitting judges of which read law under Mr. Lyon.

The three are Judge W. Heber Dithrich, Judge George V. Moore, of Common Pleas Court, and Judge H. Walton Mitchell, of Orphans' Court.

Judge Thomas M. Marshall III, presided in the presence of his father, Attorney Thomas Marshall, Jr., who eulogized Mr. Lyon, who died yesterday at his Sewickley home, as "a man of kindly temperament, a sense of fairness and the one man with whom the late Matthew S. Quay had said he could trust secrets.

FUNERAL TOMORROW

The court ordered that when adjournment is taken this afternoon it be out of respect for Mr. Lyon.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in his home, 834 Thorne street, with burial in Thompson Cemetery.

Born April 27, 1853, he was admitted to the bar in January, 1877, and practiced 56 years.

ORGANIZES FIRM

Shortly after being admitted to practice he formed the partnership of Lyon, McKee and Mitchell. Later he headed the firm of Lyon, Hunter and Burke, for a number of years one of the oustanding law firms of Western Pennsylvania. In recent years his sons, Stanley and Jack W. Lyon, practiced with him under the firm name of Walter Lyon and Associates.

Mr. Lyon served as United States attorney in Western Pennsylvania from January, 1899, until 1893, when he was elected to the State Senate. Two years later he was named lieutenant governor, in which post he remained four years.

NAMED BY HARDING

Upon leaving the latter position he returned to private practice in Pittsburgh. He was appointed by President Harding in 1921 as United States Attorney. Several years later he retired.

He was a member of the Duquesne, Union, Allegheny Country and Sewickley Hunt Clubs, the County, State and National Bar Associations and the Presbyterian Church.

Besides his widow he leaves four sons, Edwin, Walter, Jr., Stanley and Jack W. Lyon, and two daughters, Mrs. C. L. Munroe and Mrs. Reginald S. Opie, the latter of Baltimore.

WIFE, CHILDREN SAVED IN FIRE

A mother and four children trapped by smoke on the second floor of their home were lowered to safety from a porch roof and four other persons fled in night attire during a fire that early today partly destroyed the home of Peter Paterak, 50, in Seventh street, East New Kensington.

Awakened by smoke, a daughter, Helen, 9, ran to her father's bedroom and aroused him by pounding on the door. Paterak awakened his family, smashed a bedroom window and led them onto the porch roof, where he handed his wife, Katerine, and four children, Joe, 3; Michael, 5; Leo, 7, and Helen, to Ben Arbutiski, a roomer at the Paterak home, who had jumped from a window and obtained a ladder. Two other children, Peter, 20, and Edgar, 22, leaped to safety.

The blaze, believed caused by an overheated furnace, started in the basement of the two-story frame dwelling and burned through to the second floor. Damage was estimated at $3,500 by Fire Chief Edward Clawson, of New Kensington.

Council Approves Relief Bond Issue

An ordinance authorizing issuance of $500,000 in bonds from the $5,000,000 relief issue was approved by Council yesterday afternoon. The money, under the provisions of the ordinance, is to be used for direct relief. Council will vote finally on the ordinance Monday afternoon.

Bellevue Tax Bill Passed 2nd Reading

An ordinance reducing the Bellevue tax levy for 1933 one mill passed its second reading at a special meeting of the Borough Council last night. The new levy is 9 mills. It provides 6¼ mills for the general fund and 2¾ mills for the sinking fund.

HUSBAND FIRES ON 2, ENDS LIFE

A wife who insisted on going to the movies despite her husband's objections, and her sister were in critical condition from bullet wounds, while the husband was dead today.

William Fraas, 33, a taxicab driver, of 522 Tripod way, East End, shot his wife, Theresa, 29, and her sister, Miss Emma Bald, and then killed himself in the Fraas home last night, police reported. The women were taken to Pittsburgh Hospital, each wounded three times.

Mrs. Fraas was preparing to go to the movies with Miss Bald, who, police said, was employed as a maid in a Bartlett street home. The husband objected. While she was dressing, Fraas appeared with a revolver, shot the women, and then fired a bullet into his head. He was pronounced dead at the hospital.

Deputy coroners said they found five notes in Fraas' pockets, one of which said:

"She goes out and comes home when she feels like. That's all right, but when I ask her where she was, she tells me it's none of my business. She's continually telling me to leave, to let the other man take my place. We saw this fellow's brother in a 5 and 10-cent store in January. You should have seen her act. I should have killed her right there."

Hurt in Park Pool, Sues for $25,000

Emma Storto, 76 Flowers avenue, Hazelwood, has brought suit against Allegheny County for $25,000 damages for injuries suffered in the South Park swimming pool July 4 last, when a stone pulled loose as she clambered up the side of the pool, making her fall. She received bruises, abrasions, contusions and lacerations which caused much suffering, the suit said. Her counsel is Louis Little.

MANAGER BILL, VOTE REFORMS UPHELD

Harris Clashes With Phila. Senator at Meeting

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, March 22.—Pittsburgh political and civic leaders have served on the State's Senate and House of Representatives their demands for the right to choose their own form of municipal government for permanent registration of voters and for the abolishment in Allegheny County of the Delinquent Tax Collector.

The demands were voiced yesterday by spokesmen of a delegation of nearly 200 men and women which invaded the Capitol for an afternoon of demonstration and speechmaking.

They visited both law-making bodies in session, urging specifically adoption of one of the two pending city manager bills; laws providing permanent registration of voters and other election reforms, and favorable consideration of a bill sponsored by Representative John J. O'Keefe for abolition of the delinquent tax collector.

DISAPPOINTMENT SEEN

It appeared today, however, that the delegation's visit was to prove fruitless.

There is no meeting of the Elections Committee of either Senate or House scheduled to consider either the Harris or Kane city manager bills, and no indication that a meeting will be called on those subjects.

Every inference is that the Senate Committee will give the Harris bill no consideration whatever, and the House subcommittee, of Representatives Steedle, Metzler and Shenkel is not sympathetic to the Kane bill. Both bills are to be pigeonhold, according to every sign.

HEARD BY COMMITTEE

Sugden Named to Credit Directorate

J. E. Sugden, Jr., vice president of the Steel City Gas Coal Company, has been appointed to the board of directors of the National Association of Credit Men, to fill the unexpired term of R. Templeton Smith, resigned. Mr. Sugden is national chairman of all coal group activities and chairman of the credit group committee and coal group of the Credit Association of Western Pennsylvania.

Whisky Tenors Soon to Regain Lost High Notes

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

They're soon to turn loose the amber flood. And, goodness, how we dread it.

The whisky tenor will recover his lost voice. The horrible example will mount the platform and point with pride to his own wreckage that strews the right-of-way.

The Anti-Saloon League will enlarge its complaint department. The survivors of 13 years of bootleg will demand citations and Congressional beer caps.

The teetotalist lecturer, who talked himself out of a job in 1920, will hop to the mike and try to talk himself out of another one.

We will be exactly where we were in the good old days with one exception. Then you couldn't buy beer unless you were 21. Now they're aiming to make it 16.

So, that's a victory for the reformers after all. They've knocked five years off the stein song.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 22.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Here is a heart-breaking thing for an income tax payer to relate. Did you notice, in this, the worst year in history, that the receipts from the income tax doubled last year's. Well, that kinder knocks into a cocked hat the idea that if you taxed incomes too much, there wouldn't be any. That is a lot of hooey. Folks that can earn money will earn it, no matter what percentage they themselves get out of it, but you must always remember the government has left one loophole open for those with money, and that is the tax-exempt bonds. So our financial ills will never be settled till you fix so every man will pay an income on what he earns, be it a farm, grocery store, or municipal or government bonds.

Yours, WILL.

Rites Today for Courier In U.P. Church Founding

Funeral services for Fleming Jamieson, 85, who retired a few years ago after serving 60 years as superintendent of Uniondale Cemetery, were to be held at the home of his son, Fleming E. Jamieson, Jr., 1515 Termon avenue, North Side, this afternoon. He died Monday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George L. Pearson, at Youngstown, O.

Mr. Jamieson was a direct descendent of John Knox, founder of Presbyterianism, and at the age of 10 was messenger between the Associated Reformed Presbyterian and the United Presbyterian Synods when they met here to form the United Presbyterian Church in 1858.

He was a member of the Fifth United Presbyterian Church, 45 years, being a ruling elder at the time of his death, and at one time served as a trustee. He had lived in Youngstown several years.

Besides Mrs. Pearson and his son, Fleming, he leaves two other daughters, Mrs. P. S. Kennedy, of Cleveland, and Mrs. John W. Boggs, of Haddonfield, N. J., and a son, William J. Jamieson, of Minneapolis.

DEMANDS MADE BY PITTSBURGH DELEGATION

the speakers discussed phases of the bills before a joint House and Senate committee. Several times the speakers were interrupted by questions from members of the committee.

Once during the interrogation there occurred a brief clash between Senator Joseph C. Trainer of Philadelphia, who resented the remarks of a speaker, and the host of the Pittsburgh delegation.

Alexander P. Lindsay, chairman of the Election Laws Conference of Pennsylvania, had referred to the need for permanent registration as means of combatting registration lists, phantom votes, night riders and illegal assistance of voters."

UPHOLDS PHILADELPHIA

At the conclusion of his remarks, Senator Trainor rose and said:

"Any of these remarks, Mr. Harris, do not apply to Philadelphia. We have no stuffed ballot boxes in our city."

Senator Harris, rising, replied:

"In that connection, Senator Trainer, may I point out that you are indeed fortunate. In Pittsburgh we have 352 election officers who have either entered pleas of guilty or have been convicted of violations of the election laws."

Senator Trainer inquired:

"How many of them are in jail?"

Harris answered tartly:

"None today."

OTHER SPEAKERS

Other speakers for the city manager bills and election reforms included Mrs. J. O. Miller, representing the Allegheny County League of Women Voters; Attorney Sanford A. Headley, of Cincinnati, who related the success of the manager plan in Ohio; P. T. Fagan, president of the Central Labor Union of Pittsburgh; Harry Bastow, of the Allied Boards of Trade; Dr. Marion K. McKay, president of the Civic Club; Albert B. Maris, of Philadelphia, expert on election laws; Gertrude Ely, president of the League of Women Voters of Pennsylvania and chairman of the Philadelphia Committee of 70; Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, of the Council of Republican Women, and P. J. McArdle, Pittsburgh Councilman.

Fagan, Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the League of Women Voters; M. C. Conick, County Auditor, and Mr. Bastow also spoke before the House hearing on the O'Keefe bill.

COMMUNITY AID SEEN

In the joint hearing, Fagan said of the manager bill and election reform:

"Enactment of this legislation will come as a tremendous boon to our tax-burdened community, ring-ridden and driven to insolvency under a ramshackle administration."

Mrs. Miller said:

"Under our present form of government, we have a Mayor indicted and convicted more than a year ago, and now asks to resign in order to escape a prison term, and a former City Treasurer indicted and too sick to appear in court."

Councilman McArdle said:

"Speaking as one of extended experience in elections, I point to the need for a law making it more convenient for the average citizen to vote. The rank and file of our citizenship needs this legislation."

Mrs. Lawrence said:

"I speak to you not as a reformer, but as a politician. Even if you don't need these election laws where you live, please remember that we do need them in Pittsburgh."

Auditor Conick produced figures on the collection of delinquent taxes, declaring the net salary of the Allegheny County collector, on a commission basis, for the last four years was: 1928, $59,992; 1929, $79,600; 1930, $65,480, and 1931, $103,265.

He pointed out that the County Treasurer collected taxes for only one one-hundredth of the amount of taxes collected.

Mrs. Smith declared that in Hamilton County, Ohio, wherein is located the city of Cincinnati, it cost only $29,300 to collect $7,000,000 in taxes.

Pittsburgh's delegation returned to Pittsburgh last night on the special train which brought it to the state capital.

NEEDY PUPILS GET FREE RIDES

Students of Taylor Allderdice High School who live in Hazelwood, and whose families are supported by the Welfare Fund, were granted free transportation to school at the Board of Education meeting yesterday.

The action followed a request of a citizens' committee from Hazelwood.

The board members announced themselves in favor of the administration bill, now before the Legislature, which allows for school salary reductions of 10 per cent, with greater reductions in poor districts.

They declared against the Root bill, which divides the state into scholastic divisions A and B, putting Philadelphia in the A group and Pittsburgh in the other. The bill calls for preparation of the Philadelphia school budget by the City Council.

3 Officials Send Salary Refunds

Three more county officials have returned parts of their salaries to the county treasury. In accord with an agreement made several weeks ago, Recorder of Deeds Samuel Foster, Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell and Jury Commissioner James N. Moore sent personal checks to the County Commissioners yesterday, as salary refunds, for the first half of March.

Legion Commander Endangered in Crash

Daughters Given Estates by 2 Wills

Louis Lochinger, Upper St. Clair Township, by his will probated here, left an estate valued at $10,500 to his daughter, Sarah Lochinger.

Mrs. Mary Brooks, East End, left a $10,000 estate to her two daughters, Mrs. Louis M. Monteverde and Mrs. William J. Knorr.

Girl's Estate Fight Before High Court

Appeal in $300,000 Suit from Erie Argued Here

Theodora M. Nagle, of Erie, who claims a daughter's right to recover for being libeled by the will of her father, is involved in an appeal argued here yesterday before the Pennsylvania Supreme Court in her suit against Laurence M. Nagle and Douglas B. Nagle, executors of the estate of Theodore M. Nagle. The latter was a resident of Erie. The daughter is suing the estate for $300,000. In his will Nagle wrote:

"I have only two children, Edith A Nagle and a son, Bailey B. Nagle. Should any other person claim such relationship to me and claim right to participate in the distribution of my estate, the claim should be a fraud and I direct that no compromise be entered into under any conditions or circumstances with any one claiming such relationship, but such fraudulent claim should be resisted to the last, the money necessary to carry out these instructions to be paid out of my estate."

A fund of $150,000 was set aside out of the estate, pending the outcome of the litigation.

Judge Thomas P. Trimble, of Orphans Court, who heard the case, said in his opinion:

"He had no respect for the young woman who was known to be his daughter. His desire seems to have been to ruin her whether she made a claim against the estate or not. She is necessarily innocent, no matter what the status of her birth was. He knew that she was born years after his marriage to her mother and before they were divorced, and he had married his third wife. He also knew that the claimant had been declared by legal proceedings in Pennsylvania to be his daughter. But notwithstanding this he was determined that her future life must be colored by reproach, derision and scorn."

The court held that the deceased would publish to the world by official record for all time his malice and hatred towards this young woman, and then added:

"Wills are not permitted by law to be memorials of wrath and hatred."

2 AUTO BANDIT SUSPECTS HELD

Accused of being the bandits who have staged 18 robberies by boarding automobiles stopped by traffic lights, Clifford Mooney, 22, and Earl Hines, 28, both of 210 Sandusky street, were held in the Central Police Station today.

They were turned oved to city detectives after being held for court by Justice of the Peace M. T. Gorham, of East Pittsburgh, for the holdup of an East Pittsburgh store proprietor twice in two days, according to police testimony.

They were arrested Monday when they entered the store of Frank Traeger, 118 Electric avenue, East Pittsburgh, and ordered him to throw up his hands. Police were lying in wait because the pair were reported to have held up Traeger on the previous night when he stopped his car at a traffic light at Roverton Bridge, McKeesport.

Mooney was held for robbery and pointing firearms, and Hines was held for attempted robbery. After the hearing they were turned over to city detectives.

STORES RETAIN CREDIT POLICY

No change in the policy of retail stores toward indigent debtors will be necessary so long as they make direct contact with credit executives, it was announced at a meeting yesterday in McCreey's dining room, of a local committee named by the National Retail Credit Association.

The committee, it was announced, is endeavoring to help Pittsburghers help themselves by understanding general conditions. It was found that many charge customers able to pay, delayed paying bills until they actually needed charge account convenience and then found they had to rearrange their credit status.

CRILE SEES GAIN IN CANCER WAR

DALLAS, Tex., March 22.—(AP.)—Important strides have been made in the treatment of cancer during the last 10 years, Dr. George W. Crile, of Cleveland, said in a paper read before the surgical group of the fourth Pan-American Medical Association here yesterday. He explained:

"Much as has been accomplished, the profession still is far from a complete understanding of this disease."

Dr. Chevalier Jackson of Philadelphia told of new uses for the bronschoscope and illustrated his lecture with motion pictures of one of its most common uses, that of extracting foreign bodies from the lungs.

CITY ASKS MINE FIRE HELP

Allegheny County and Crafton Borough officials will be requested by Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang to extend financial aid to the city in fighting the Twenty-eighth Ward mine fire.

Council yesterday told Lang to make the request after receiving a letter from Robert S. Chess, Crafton solicitor, pointing out that the fire was burning near Crafton's eastern boundary.

Monessen Padlock Case Hearing Set

Hearing on a temporary injunction action to padlock the bar and drinking rooms at 450-452 Schoonmaker avenue, Monessen, was set for June 6 by Judge R. M. Gibson in Federal Court yesterday. The rooms, according to the plea for injunction, were maintained by Ray Canova and the Italian Society of Mutual Aid of Monessen, Inc.

NEED OF FUNDS STRESSED BY HOSPITALS

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—While hospitals of the state do their utmost in the direction of operating economies, the free work they do must be supported even if it means increased appropriations and larger community support, speakers today declared at the opening of the twelfth annual convention of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania.

Philip H. Gadsden, utility magnate and civic leader, told delegates hospitals cannot curb production as can an industrial plant because of the constant need for every service they provide, but they can and should insist upon remaining on a solvent basis. Melvin L. Sutley, head of the Philadelphia Hospital Association, warned that voluntary hospitals, near the breaking point, must have greater financial help and should receive at least 10 per cent more than state appropriations made two years ago.

PITTSBURGHER PRESIDENT

The three-day meeting will end Thursday with installation of Miss Jessie J. Turnbull, Pittsburgh, as president, succeeding John M. Smith, Philadelphia.

Smith, in his parting address pictured the desperate situation of all hospitals in the state. He said in part:

"During the past three years conditions have been such that difficulties in conducting hospitals have progressively increased until they are worse today than the most pessimistic would have predicted five years ago. Regardless of the difficulty in securing funds it is our duty to conduct our hospitals in keeping with requirements of medicine as practiced in the most enlightened, conservative centers. This requires money. It must be forthcoming if the hospitals are not to be forced to turn away the sick poor as their numbers increase.

GRAVE DUTIES

"Hopeful as we may be that the end of hard times is in sight, we cannot escape the responsibility we have today and will have for several years to come. During these trying times there is a strong temptation to lower the quality of care given patients. To give way to such an urge would be unjust to the patients and would destroy much of the public good-will which we have earned during the past 75 years."

Speakers on the three-day program will include Nathaniel W. Faxon, Rochester, N. Y., president-elect of the American Hospital Association; Mrs. Alice F. Liveright, director of the State Department of Welfare; Dr. S. S. Goldwater, New York Hospital consultant, and authorities on dietetics, nursing, administration and other phases of hospital work.

Missionary Speaks At Conference Here

Following tomorrow's prayer session and Bible conference, Miss M. A. Butterfield, missionary to Palestine, will speak in the afternoon at the Bible conference and Missionary convention of the Christian Missionary Alliance of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania, at North Side Carnegie Hall. Evangelist F. F. Butterworth will conduct services at 8 p. m.

LINK TORTURE DEATHS WITH VICTIM'S PAST

To the past today turned the inquiry into the murder of Frank Koszula, and his wife, Katherine, whose bodies were found in their Champion Hill home, near Sturgeon, last Friday.

As county detectives perfunctorily questioned a young woman and a man, at first believed to have been seen leaving the Koszula home the night before the bodies were found, they disclosed they were investigating the deaths of Frank Koszula's previous two wives for a possible motive for the dual tragedy.

Mary Marshall, 22, of Cecil, and Ralph Moore, 24, of McDonald, were questioned by detectives today, but were to be released after explaining they were at the home of the girl's parents from Thursday to Saturday of last week and had not been to the Koszula home since 1929.

Koszula's first wife, known as Kate, died following a fall down stairs about 20 years ago in Center, W. Va., detectives said they have learned. In January 1927, his second wife, Anna, died, and an inquest determined pneumonia as the cause of death, they asserted.

IN ALL its 28 years of quality building, Reo never offered a more extraordinary value than it presents in the Reo Flying Cloud "Six" and the Reo-Royale "Eight" for 1933.

That is saying a great deal for the cars that long ago became known as the "Gold Standard of Value."

But it is a fact that is attested beyond dispute by the materials put into the cars and by their performance under the hardest imaginable tests.

Quality has always been a predominant Reo characteristic. This year Reo meets the mood of the market with quality—and style—and price! The new cars are hundreds of dollars under the figures of a few years ago.

'King of Jazz" Player Makes Piano Show Rare 'Pep'

He was the fingers on the keys in "King of Jazz," a soldier in "All Quiet on the Western Front" and an extra in "Noah's Ark." But today he's just another "extra" in the flotsam of wandering boys who have been set adrift by the depression, says Billy Trevison Camisa, most recent guest at the Boys' Bureau, Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor.

While his hands move over the keys of the association's piano, that hasn't "shown such pep in years," Billy tells you he is 18 and that he "cut away from school and home" in New York when he was 14 and "broke into" Hollywood as a mail boy.

He delivered the mail at Universal's studio without a hitch until he came to a piano, and then he played—from ear just as he had back home. He played his way into the "King of Jazz" part, later becoming an accompanist for singers' screen audition.

Two Admit Hiding Assets, Get Terms

Pleading guilty to concealing assets from a receiver in bankruptcy, Louis Eli Nesselson, shoe merchant of Altoona, and Frank J. Stalter, bookkeeper, were sentenced to terms of a year and a day in prison by Judge R. M. Gibson yesterday in Federal Court.

They pleaded March 7 to counts alleging concealing assets, concealing books, using mails to defraud and conspiracy.

City to Help Pay 'Phone Bills of Night Workers

Fourteen employes of the city's bureau of electricity stand a chance of having the city pay half their telephone bills.

Council was told yesterday that the men were called out on an average of three times a week on emergency jobs during the night. Consequently they believed the city should pay their phone bills. Council compromised by affirming an ordinance to pay half of them.

It is estimated each telephone will cost $30 yearly—the city's share being $15 for each phone or $210 for the 14.

THE FLAPPER'S DAUGHTER By BEATRICE BURTON

her ears and rolled her stockings down around her ankles. Then she went into Dodie's room and put some of Dodie's perfume behind her ears . . . She was Eddie Wallis' "zany" now, and some of the woodsy charm was gone from her.

HAPPY-GO-LUCKY

It was a noisy open car and it was odd looking. Eddie's father, who owned a hardware store on Seventeenth street, had taken it from a man who owed him a lot of money, so Eddie said.

"It's got a front-wheel drive, like a racing car," Eddie had told Sharlie the first time she went riding with him in it. "It must have cost a lot of jack when it was new."

It was not new now. It was battered and some of its paint was gone. It went like the wind sometimes, but when it did it sounded as if it was coming to pieces. It had a way of suddenly stopping far out in the country . . . Eddie was always forgetting to buy gas for it.

Eddie was one of your forgetful happy-go-lucky sort.

He had loafed and laughed his way through high school. It had taken him six years to do four years' work. He was 21 now.

He smoked cigarets from morning to night. He drank. And to Sharlie Dunn he was the most fascinating and exciting human being who walked the earth.

She was breathless with excitement now as she opened the front door of the flat to let him in. Her eyes were bright and her voice was shrill with excitement.

It was thrilling—and dangerous, somehow—to be here alone with him like this. Alone with him behind the locked door of the flat!

"Nice place, this," Eddie was saying. He stood just inside the door looking around him at the cheap pretty furniture, the flowered sofa cushions and the ruffled white window curtains that made Dodie's living room a cheerful and cozy spot.

TRIES TO BE DIFFICULT

His eyes, dark blue under heavy black brows, met Sharlie's eyes. He flashed a grin at her and, without taking his eyes from her, he threw his cap down on a chair near the door.

"Come here." He whispered this time. "Come here."

Sharlie shook her head.

She knew that he wanted to put his arms around her and kiss her. She wanted him to—but she didn't want him to know that she wanted him to.

"Let's go out and get something to eat, Eddie," she said, backing away from him. "I made some iced tea and some ham-and-tomato sandwiches this morning while I was cleaning the kitchen—right after I called you up and asked you over for lunch. Gosh! but this morning seemed long, Eddie——"

He came across the room and caught her by the shoulders. His hard young arms pressed her close to him and she raised her mouth to his.

She was dizzy and shaking when he let her go in a moment or two.

"Wait a minute, Eddie," she said. "My hair—I want to fix it——"

A FORWARD YOUTH

She ran into her bedroom and picked up her hairbrush—a cheap little brown wood brush that she had had as far back as her memory went. She smiled at herself in the glass as she laid it down and began putting more lipstick on her mouth.

"Don't bother about that lipstick—I'm going to kiss it all off anyhow." It was Eddie's voice just behind her.

He was standing in the doorway.

"Eddie Wallis!" Sharlie swung around from the looking-glass. "You get out of my room! You go out into the dining room and I'll be with you in a second."

He stayed where he was.

"That's a nice racket," he said calmly, looking at Sharlie's tennis racket that hung on the wall of the room between the windows.

Eddie came into the room and took the racket down from the wall. He swung it in his hands.

"Nice and light, isn't it?" he asked.

But he was not looking at it.

Sharlie could feel his eyes on her as she threw the lipstick, in its little gun-metal case, down upon the dressing table. She started for the doorway.

SURPRISE VISITOR

But before she reached it Eddie was at her side. Once more his arms went around her and she closed her eyes as she felt the warmth of his face against hers. Their lips came tight together once more.

"Eddie—we mustn't stay in here like this," Sharlie said breathlessly as they separated for a moment. "In my room—"

"What's the difference? Nobody knows where we are," Eddie answered huskily.

"I'm just as crazy as a June bug over you, woman," he murmured. "I'm dizzy about you—"

"And, Eddie, you know I am about you," said Sharlie, drawing a long breath. "But let's go out of here—"

She stopped suddenly. Her eyes widened and her whole body became rigid.

Someone was turning the key in the lock of the front door!

"Eddie," she gasped. "Someone's opening the front door!—What will we do?" She waved her hands in the air frantically.

It was too late to do anything.

The front door had opened and closed. And now somebody was coming across the dining room with quick, light footfalls.

"Hello! Anybody at home?"

SHARLIE'S COUSIN

At the sound of that voice Sharlie breathed a sigh of relief.

It was Edna Ballinger's voice—and Edna was a good sport. She probably would never breathe a word to a soul about coming home in the middle of the day and finding Sharlie here with Eddie Wallis . . . Sharlie was sure of that.

"I'm here, Edna," she said in a tight little voice as Edna stepped into the narrow hall that ran between the dining room and the bedrooms of the flat.

It was a dim little hall, decorated with tan-and-brown wallpaper. But the minute Edna set foot in it she seemed to light it up somehow.

For one thing, she was all in white—crisp white tailored suit, white hat and low-heeled white oxfords. Her skin was the dazzling white skin that black-haired women sometimes have.

But she was not smiling now.

There was a puzzling frown on her face as she looked at the pair who stood spellbound in the doorway of Sharlie's room. Her eyes went from Eddie to Sharlie with her painted lips, her rumpled hair.

"Who is this boy?" she asked her, clipping off her words. "And what on earth is he doing here, Charleen Dunn?"

"Nothing," said Sharlie, flushing.

EXPLAINS TO EDNA

She gulped and went on:

"His name is Eddie Wallis, Edna. We went to school together . . . I asked him here for lunch . . . and here he is. That's all. I—he's been looking at my tennis racket."

Edna glanced at it.

"I was just telling Eddie that you gave it to me," Sharlie said lamely. "I—I came in her to fix my hair and find an apron. We were just going to get lunch ready."

It hurt her pride to have to explain all this to Edna. After all she was 18 and it was her own business if she wanted to have Eddie Wallis in for lunch—and suppose he did come into her room to look at the tennis racket? What of it?

She gave her head a defiant little toss.

"Come along, Eddie," she said to him. "You must be starving—We'll fix something for you too, Edna."

Edna shook her head.

"No, thanks, I came home because I had a headache all morning. I'm going to lie down for a while." And she vanished into her room at the end of the hall, leaving the door of it wide open.

"She sure dropped rain all over our party, didn't she?" Eddie asked in an undertone when the two of them were in the neat little kitchen. "Who is she, anyway?"

"My cousin," replied Sharlie. "Her name's Edna Ballinger. She's lived with us ever since I was little. She's pretty, isn't she?"

EDDIE LEAVES

Eddie shrugged his shoulders.

"Don't ask me! She looked like a policeman to me," he said gloomily. "I don't think she liked the idea of me being here . . . I'm going to beat it!"

He tiptoed into the living room, where he had left his cap.

When he came back he had it on his head at a rakish angle. He was holding a half-pint bottle in his hands. He grinned as he held it up to show it to her.

"Gin," he said softly. "I got it at the drug store on the way over here. I was going to make a drink for you with it—Too bad Cousin Edna gummed up the party."

Sharlie nodded.

"She sure did," she answered mournfully, looking at the plate of sandwiches and the big glass pitcher of iced tea all ready on the kitchen table. "I hate to have things turn out this way the very first time I ask you here."

But she did not want him to stay now. Edna had spoiled everything—Edna, lying in her room with the door open as if she did not trust them!

"You meet me tonight at 8 o'clock down here on the corner," Eddie whispered suddenly, his face very close to hers. "We'll have our party anyway. We'll go somewhere in the car—and I'll save this stuff!"

He slipped the flat bottle into the pocket of his coat, gave Sharlie one quick hard kiss and was gone.

"Your boy friend didn't stay long, Sharlie," she said without turning her head. "I suppose I frightened him away."

DISAPPROVES OF BOY

Sharlie shook her head with vigor.

"Not a chance. You couldn't frighten Eddie Wallis away. He's not so easily frightened, let me tell you!" A brassy ringing note came into her voice.

"I guess you're right about that," Edna agreed slowly. "He looks pretty hard-boiled . . . Sharlie, what made you sneak a boy like that into this place when you were alone? Sharlie, a nice girl wouldn't dream of doing things like that."

Edna herself was more than merely "nice."

She was good.

She was as good as she was good-looking. And to say that a girl is both beautiful and good is really saying something these days.

Edna was in love with the man she worked for. He was a married man and for six years Edna had been his private secretary. But never once, in those six years of quiet, steady service, Edna had let him know by word or look that she even liked him.

And that is being really good!

"I think you're ashamed of your friendship for that boy, Sharlie," she went on, her eyes still on the ceiling where the sunlight glimmered like water. "And I don't blame you. He wasn't man enough to explain what he was doing in your room just now. He let you do all the talking and just stood there with his mouth open. His shirt was dirty and he reeked of cigarets. He looked like a corner bum——"

"Well, what if he IS one?" Sharlie broke in all at once, her face flaming, her eyes bright as glass. "I'm one, too! I've met him on street corners plenty of times, and I'm going to meet him on one tonight!—Now what do you think of that Purity League?"

She swung on her high heel and was out of the room like a flash, slamming the door of it behind her. She heard Edna say something as she went. But she couldn't make out what it was.

The EQUITABLE GAS COMPANY

RATE REDUCTION

The Equitable Gas Company announces a reduction in gas rates, effective with the March 23rd meter readings . . . a maximum reduction of 25% on gas used in excess of 15,000 cubic feet per month. This reduction, which will mean an annual saving of approximately $500,000 to our customers applies primarily to those who consume more than the average quantity of gas. All gas consumed up to and including 15,000 cubic feet monthly will be at the present rate of 60c net . . . while gas used in excess of the 15,000 cubic feet monthly and up to 100,000 cubic feet monthly will be reduced to 45c net per 1000 cubic feet. Gas consumed in excess of 100,000 cubic feet per month and up to 250,000 cubic feet per month will be reduced to 42c net per 1000 cubic feet.

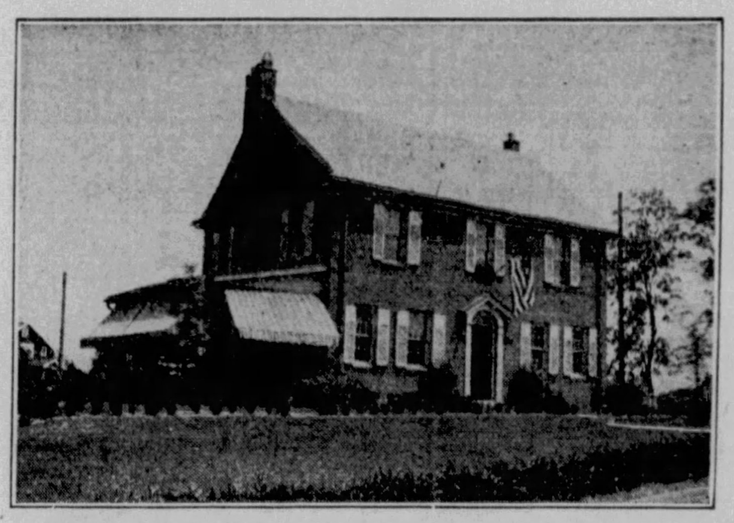
The DOMESTIC USER. The new rate will prove a decided saving to customers using gas for househeating, and will encourage many additional customers to change-over to this clean, convenient, and comfortable method of heating.

Unfortunately, it was found impossible to reduce rates on the first 15,000 cubic feet of gas used monthly because it is a fact that approximately one-half of our customers are now being served at an actual loss.

The COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL USER . . . and other large consumers of gas, such as Apartment Buildings, Garages, Restaurants, Bakeries, Hospitals, Churches, etc., will also receive a substantial reduction and will obtain a still lower rate for gas used in excess of 250,000 cubic feet per month.

A material saving in operating expense, which the reduced rate will bring about, should prove of particular advantage at this time. Natural Gas offers the most convenient method of heat for all practical purposes. It provides a flexibility of control offered by no other fuel. It is a fuel requiring no delivery in advance. No storage is necessary, there is no waste problem in connection with the use of gas. Valuable space is often released when gas is used, and particularly is it the cleanest fuel . . . there is no smoke nuisance.

Truly the new low rates for gas brings it within reach of all . . . the home owner . . . the commercial establishment . . . and the industrial user. For further information call the Industrial Gas Division, Grant 7600.



$11.19

Just think of it! An average of $11.19 per month over the 7-month heating season at the new rates will heat this 8-room house and garage at 15 Penhurst Road, Ben Avon Heights.

See your Heating Contractor or Call Grant 7600

We will make an accurate survey of your heating requirements, recommend equipment, and give you a careful estimate of your gas bills . . . all without any obligation on your part.

For Heating Your Home NATURAL GAS is now more desirable than ever.

Now, more than ever before, you can't afford to be without Gas Househeating. The new rates for gas make it possible for everyone to have this desirable method of heating. Once you have experienced the thrill of never having to go near the cellar all winter long, you will wonder how you ever tolerated any other means of heating. And with Gas there are no ashes to empty, and no soot and dirt to bother.

Modern Girls Disapprove Of Bossy Husbands

Should Papa be boss?

And should the Missis obey, regardless?

Yes; we, too, thought that idea had gone out with bustles and pantalettes. But here's Floss with a 1933 Boy Friend who has just such notions—and she's beginning to wonder how those notions will fit in with her idea of a happy home.

Dear Elsie Robinson:

I am coming to you because you have helped so many people out, and I don't seem able to figure out my problem by myself.

For a year and a half now I have been going with a young man who everyone thinks is a fine fellow. And he is, too. You can't deny that. He is steady, hard-working and ambitious, and he has no bad habits—unless you could call some of his ideas that.

He is 26 and I am 22. We had always gotten along fine until just about three months ago, when he asked me to marry him. I said "yes," and I was very happy. I really do love him, and I know that I could always depend on him, because he is honest and has very high ideals.

But here is the trouble. Since we have been engaged he has gotten very bossy. He doesn't like parties or dances, and doesn't want me to go to any, even with my girl friends, or to take me to any himself.

On top of that, he keeps saying that if we get married he is going to be boss, because a man should always boss his wife.

He insists that if he had to work of an evening, which he sometimes does now, or if he wanted to go out now and then with some of his men friends, and he ordered me to spend the evening at home, I should do it, if I really love him and take my "duties of a wife" seriously."

A JEALOUS MAN

He is jealous, too, and seems to think it is terrible if I talk to some other man whom I know. I have always had lots of friends, and have always conducted myself as a lady, and no one has ever said anything out of the way to me. I just can't seem to accept the idea that I shouldn't speak to or chat with any of the other fellows I know, just because I love him and have promised to marry him.

What do you think? Do you agree that he has a right to feel I shouldn't, and that it will be his right to boss me and order me around if I marry him?

I just don't know what to think. I do love him, and I am sure that he loves me. But I am beginning to wonder. Shall I marry him? Will I be happy, if I do? Please help me.

FLOSS.

Will you be happy? That depends on you, Floss. There are females, even in this twentieth century with its "women's rights," who adore being Clinging Vines; and perhaps you're one of them. So I can't tell whether you'll be happy or not.

CONDITIONS DIFFERENT

But I do know that most self-respecting modern girls would rather stay spinsters forever than live with such a man.

For this is sure, child—there can be no pride for a woman in such a union. There can be no growth of real happiness. Yes, I know; grandpa had such notions, and grandma put up with them. But she had to put up with them, Floss. That was her only way of securing her "three squares."

But it isn't the modern woman's only way. There are hundreds of ways by which an intelligent girl can earn her own living and keep her own self-respect. And life without self-respect is a bitter jolt, little girl.

So if you want to live in step with your times, have a showdown. Tell this man that if he can't regard you as a fifty-fifty partner, and won't give you an equal voice in running the home, then the whole agreement is off.

Will that wake him up? Perhaps. And if it doesn't—then let him go! It may hurt, but it won't hurt half so much as living with a jealous tyrant.

That's my answer to Floss. But maybe yours is different. If you were the girl in this case, or if you were the man, would you attempt an 1833 marriage in a 1933 world?

Best Way to Spend Idle Time Is in Study, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Time is all any of us have, and all that has been accomplished in this world has been just the proper application of time.

Nothing can recall the hours that have flown. Yet it is strange how many wasteful worthless things we do just to "kill time."

Precious as time is, it seems to hang heavily upon so many hands.

The best way to spend idle time is in study and development. Even the girl who ties her hair a new way, or has a "dress rehearsal" planning how she will look, is accomplishing something that will benefit her.

Study along lines that you can apply to your work. Plan so that you will improve your little home.

Time is precious. Spend it carefully!

Madge Seeks Explanation of Kidnaping

"It really does not matter," I said indifferently, and Wynne sped down the path toward the hut where Lee Chow was interviewing the member of the bandit gang whom the men had been fortunate enough to trap and bind.

I felt distinctly that it did matter, however, for I had been anxiously awaiting the moment when Mary and I should be left with unconscious Samuel Brixton. For a little while after the gag had been removed from his swollen lips there had been a cessation of the agonized, but inarticulate groans that had first attracted our attention to his situation. But now sounds were again coming from him, this time disjointed, delirious syllables, and I was wild to bend over him and listen in the hope that I might learn something bearing upon the tragic problem confronting us.

"Go ahead!" Mary whispered, psychically interpreting my wish. "I'll keep Hen-ner-y's mind on something else."

She moved swiftly away from me, and the next instant I heard her naively asking Hen-ner-y if there were any bears or wildcats on the mountain.

"Plenty of 'em," Hen-ner-y replied promptly, but how truthfully I did not know.

ATTENTION DIVERTED

"Oh! Heavens!" Mary murmured fearfully—Mary, who I think would face almost any animal armed only with a poker or a broom. "Do you mean they're around here, now?"

"They might be," Hen-ner-y said, patently enjoying his handiwork. "You never can tell. But don't you worry none. Nothing will tetch you while I'm here."

"Oh! have you caught them?" Mary breathed admiringly. "Tell me about some of them"—and Hen-ner-y was off.

I heard nothing of his saga. Once sure that his attention was effectually diverted from anything but Mary's engrossing patter, I moved to the stretcher upon which Samuel Brixton lay and knelt by it, bringing my ear close to the swollen lips from which were coming the sounds that I was sure were words that might or might not be intelligible.

At first I could make nothing of them. Then, as I listened carefully, I realized that there were but few sounds, all related, that soon emerged into a pattern I could follow.

"It can't be. Never! Promised me! Devil."

They were hard to interpret correctly, those syllables, coming so painfully through the swollen lips and tongue that distorted them almost out of all semblance to speech. I finally made myself certain of their meaning, however, but I listened in vain for any addition to their number. Over and over again, he sounded them, while I racked my brain to find some clue to their meaning.

HEAR SHRIEK

There was no mistaking the emotions behind those syllables, however. Horror, astonishment, anger, the choked voice rang the gamut of all three. And then, as I straightened myself, satisfied that I had heard all that the unconscious man would say in his delirium, another sound, dread, startling, came up the path to our ears, the choked shriek of a man who has just received a mortal wound.

"What?" Hen-ner-y began, but I silenced him with a low, stern "Hush!" and then we waited, tensely, wondering who had uttered that terrible cry. Then there came a shout—Wynne's voice.

"Look out!" and immediately following we heard the sound of footsteps pounding madly up the trail. There was no time to get Samuel Brixton away, and of course the rest of us would not desert him, but it remained for quick-witted Mary to evolve a way out of our dilemma.

"Cut this rope, quick!" she commanded Hen-ner-y, and when dazedly and a bit slowly he had cut the rope which dangled from the stretcher, she snatched an end of it and gave the other to Hen-ner-y.

"You stand on that side of the path and hold on to that end of the rope," she directed. "Auntie Madge and I will take this one and hold tight over here. Kneel down and hold it low. Now!" as the pounding footsteps drew nearer, "hold tight for your lives."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

At a Dinner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

May I thank you for your helpful column?

We are attending a dinner in Blank Hotel and I would like very much not to make any errors. Please be so kind as to tell me what to do with my implements? I know all the regular things but— B.

It's only the "regular things" that I could tell you about, dear lady. Such as using the silverpieces that are placed at table in the order in which they are placed . . . unless you see that the waiter who placed them did so in the irregular way in which we often find them placed in hotel restaurants, and as we, too often, find them placed at banquets. They should, of course, be placed in the order that corresponds to the courses, and so that we may start with the one farthest from the plate and use them in order toward the plate. But it probably won't be as easy as this, and you must use your judgment as to what silverpiece is most appropriate for each course.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Treatment of Varicose Veins Safe

In the past quarter of a century great advances have been made in medicine. New germs, new diseases, as well as new methods of treating old diseases have been brought to the knowledge of the world.

Dr. Copeland

The treatment of varicose veins has changed a lot since the time I was a medical student. In those days a sufferer from this affliction was made to wear rubber stockings or some other mechanical appliance. But these gave little, if any, relief. In severe cases, operation was advised.

The victim who subjected himself to an operation in those days was indeed a brave man. The afflicted veins were stripped from the leg. Convalescence from the operation was of long duration and the scars left by the operation were unsightly and painful.

Today, varicose veins are treated by injecting a certain substance into the vein. The injected medicine causes a "sclerosis" or hardening and collapse of the involved vein. It is a simple and safe method of treatment. Usually it is given in the doctor's office. It requires only a few minutes, and the patient can then continue with his work. The treatment is given two or three times a week until the trouble is overcome.

This improvement in the treatment of varicose veins has saved many from a great deal of unnecessary suffering.

Varicose veins are common in stout persons, particularly those who stand on their feet a great deal. It is frequently found in pregnancy. This is caused by the increased weight and pressure placed on the veins of the legs. Firemen, policemen and barbers are common sufferers from this affliction.

Avoid tight garters and any constriction of the body. If you are a sufferer from varicose veins, I advise that you consult with your doctor about the treatment I have mentioned. Do not neglect varicose veins, for the larger they become the more difficult will be the treatment you will need to cure the defect.

There is no particular danger in this treatment providing you go to a competent physician. May I warn you against the use of patent medicines that claim a cure for this disorder? I strongly advise against the use of any medication unless it is prescribed by your physician.

Varicose veins are commonly confused with a disease called "phlebitis." Phlebitis, as its name implies, is really an inflammation of a vein. Varicose veins are liable to become inflamed and then we have phlebitis. The treatment for phlebitis is different than the treatment for varicose veins.

Bear in mind that varicose veins are enlarged and distended veins caused by pressure and interference in the circulation. There are only two methods of treatment. One is by operation and the other by injection.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

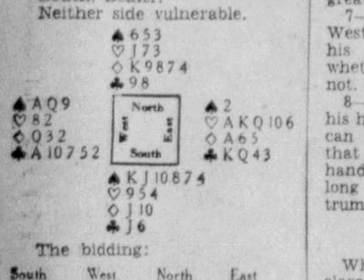
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Reaching a Slam Contract

Mr. Lester L. Callan, of Staten Island, N. Y., is a close student of Bridge, and recently submitted the hand below as an interesting illustration of the Four-Five Notrump Convention in reaching a makable Grand Slam. Unquestionably, this convention has added much to the romance and glamour of an already colorful game. The accurate information conveyed through the use of this artificial bid has struck the imagination of Bridge players everywhere and their almost universal approbation as well. Mr. Callan's Grand Slam hand was:

South, Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♣ (1)	Pass	2 ♡ (2)
Pass	2 N T (3)	Pass	3 ♣ (4)
Pass	4 ♣ (5)	Pass	4 N T (6)
Pass	5 N T (7)	Pass	7 ♣ (8)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Not a strong Opening Bid, but a bid nevertheless.

2—Of course, with maximum support for clubs and a very strong suit of his own, as well as 4 honor—tricks, East's Forcing Takeout is obvious.

3—West denies the possession of any strength not already shown.

4—There is no occasion for East to hurry as yet. He desires to show club support, while still at a level where he may use the new convention.

5—Probably three notrump would be a safer bid at this point. West's club suit is extremely weak to rebid.

6—Showing two Aces and the King of a bid suit. As a matter of fact, the hand has even greater strength than disclosed.

7—This response is forced. West must bid five notrump, as his partner has asked him whether he holds two Aces or not.

8—East rightly reasons that his heart suit, if not established, can easily be established, and that any losers in the West hand can be discarded on the long hearts after the adverse trumps are drawn.

TODAY'S QUESTION

What is the penalty if Declarer leads from the wrong hand, alteration is called to the incorrect lead by the opponents, and the correct hand is void of the suit?

Answer—There is no penalty and Declarer is free to lead any card he chooses from the correct hand.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Bucs Gain in Catchers. | Place Hitters Scarce.
Pilots Regret Waivers. | Nurmi Runs Too Soon.
Three Seeking Johnson. | Ross in Severe Test.

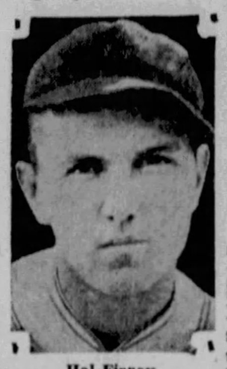
FINNEY LOOMS AS HELP TO CORSAIRS

IN RECKONING THE spots at which the Pirates are stronger than in 1932, don't overlook the very important catching department. Admittedly, there was nothing wrong in that branch last season, as Earl Grace caught in 114 games and turned in a job that was not surpassed anywhere, being assisted very ably by Tommy Padden. This year, the backstopping is going to be even better, for not only is Padden improved by a season's experience, but a lot of new strength will be added by the rapid development of the third member of the crew, Hal Finney.



Hal Finney

Last season Finney didn't get much chance to show, as in his first appearance on May 2 his right arm was broken by one of Pat Malone's pitches. He caught in only 11 games during the season. But this spring Hal is one of the standouts of the camp. He is vastly improved as a receiver and thrower, looks better from day to day, and as he can hit and is the fastest of the Pirate maskmen, there is a good chance that he will step right up into a place among the best catchers in the league. Don't underestimate Finney as a helpful factor in the Pirate fight this year. He's going to do a lot of the catching.

THIRD BASE DOESN'T end Bill McKechnie's problems. He admits he is looking for more pitchers and wants to know what manager isn't. Boston has some good pitchers, he says, but not enough.

Inasmuch as there are so many veteran slabmen on the Braves' staff, the opinion was ventured that McKechnie probably was seeking good young pitchers. "I don't care whether they're 16 or 60," Bill responded, "just so they can win ball games for us. I'll never even ask 'em their ages.

REGARDLESS OF HOW they shape up in other departments, the Giants are tipped to show a great deal more speed than in 1932. George Davis proved he was fast while with the Phillies last year, and Joe Moore gets over the ground in much better style this spring since being overhauled by the doctors.

Francis Healey is faster afoot than any other catcher the Giants have had since the days of Roger Bresnahan. Bernie James led the Texas League basestealers last season, and Smoky Joe Martin's exhibitions have upheld a speed reputation earned in football.

DONIE BUSH again is trying to get Sylvester Johnson, the veteran pitcher who was waived out of the majors, to the surprise of everybody knowing his value as a five or six-inning pitcher, and sent to the Columbus farm of the Cardinals. It seems that the Cards have recalled Johnson and are working both ends against the middle in dickering with the Reds, Giants and Dodgers on a deal for him. These and other clubs were fooled into letting the pitcher get away in the first place by an old waiver trick. The Cards asked waivers on about half the ball club, Johnson included. As usual, the other clubs figured the St. Louis bosses were only kidding about Johnson, so they passed him up with a knowing smile and put in claims for some of the lesser lights whom they thought they might have a chance to get. Then the Cards withdrew the waiver request on the others and slipped Johnson to Columbus.*

Red Lucas

A LOT OF faces around the big circuits were red when the news of Johnson's transfer to the minors came out, but it's an ancient ruse that has succeeded many times. Sidney Weil, Cincinnati owner, says that a couple of years ago he obtained waivers in the same way on such a star as Red Lucas.

Weil, of course, had no intention of letting the crack pitcher go. In fact, at that very time, he was turning down offers of from $30,000 to $50,000 from other clubs for Lucas. But he stuck Red's name on a waiver list with a lot of others, and 15 clubs actually passed him up to grab at some of the rest. If Weil had so desired, one of the most valuable players in the majors, not yet a 10-year man, could have been railroaded to the minors.

THE LIVELY BALL and resultant home-run slugging pushed scientific hitting so far into the background in late years that Bucky Harris says he is unable to name one first-class place hitter in the American League. He rates Joe Cronin as about the best of the lot.

But Harris hastens to add that Cronin is not as clever as the boys who were place-hitting before the rabbit ball was introduced. Bucky thinks Tony Lazzeri is Cronin's closest rival, though not as skillful as Joe. Harris says the best place hitter he ever saw on a hit-and-run play was Eddie Foster.

AFTER WATCHING THE recent performances of Glenn Cunningham and Gene Venzke, Eastern track experts are speculating as to how fast Paavo Nurmi might have run the mile if he had had that kind of opposition to spur him on. Ed Hughes recalls that Nurmi once told him he expected to bring the mile mark down to 4.06 indoors before he quit. But the Phantom Finn had to run strictly against time, his watch strapped to his wrist. He wasn't pushed or extended. Joie Ray was no match for him. The rest of the field was nowhere. It is estimated that with a Venzke setting the pace most of the way, and a Cunningham to whip him into the vital, finishing sprint, Nurmi would have turned in a mile no slower than 4.09. Paavo, at his peak when he came here in 1924, flourished nine years too soon.

SOMETIMES THE MEMBERS of a team that has failed in a championship fight come in for greater individual honors than the players on a club that has reached the pinnacle. This applies in a sense to the struggle for the Eastern Intercollegiate basketball title.

Though the Yale passers won the championship they will not receive major letters, but the members of the defeated Princeton five rate letters at the New Jersey school. The explanation is that basketball is not considered a major sport at Yale.

IN CONNECTION WITH the appointment of John Hanley as track manager at Notre Dame, Bob Dunbar observes that Notre Dame's method of managerial selection is different from that of other institutions. The late Knute Rockne once remarked that the business experience gained by an Irish manager placed ham two years ahead of the average college graduate.

Barney Ross

At Notre Dame a boy does not go out for manager of one particular sport. He is one of about 150 freshmen who report as managerial candidates. They work through all sports, starting with football in the fall and ending with track and baseball in the spring. They are the ones who plan the trips for the varsity and Class B teams, are general contact men, and handle all details.

NOW COMES THE real acid test for Barney Ross, the Chicago lightweight, who has loomed as a future challenger for Tony Canzoneri's crown. Ross is to meet Billy Petrolle for 10 rounds in Chicago tonight, and that ought to furnish the low-down on Barney and his chances in title company. The old Fargo Express has been on a side track for some time, and may not run with the usual speed and smoothness, but even if not quite at his best Billy is the toughest game that Ross could stack up against this side of Canzoneri himself, and if the youngster come through this test in creditable style there will be no doubt that Canzoneri will have to reckon with him very seriously.

DUQUESNE FIVE DEFEATED BY CITY CHAMPS

By JULIUS LEVIN

For the second time in two years, the City League, represented by South High School, stands supreme in Western Pennsylvania interscholastic basketball.

Joe Galiszewski

The Orioles, heralded as the greatest floor machine to carry the hopes of a local school in the P. I. A. A. playoffs for the state championship, re-enacted the slaying of a mighty Goliath by a David in the Pitt Stadium pavilion last night as it swept aside Duquesne High School, recently crowned W. P. I. A. L. champion, in a first-round encounter of the inter-district eliminations. The score was 25 to 21.

It was a bitter dose for the W. P. I. A. L. champion and District VII representative in the state playoffs to swallow for it marked the second straight year in which the City League contender had taken the measure of the tournament champion. Last year, Fifth Avenue turned the trick on Braddock despite the fact it failed to win the City League crown, being chosen because neither Schenley nor Allegheny, the sectional winners, held membership in the state body.

DUBOIS NEXT FOE

As a result of its well deserved victory South High advances to the second round of the state eliminations and will meet Dubois, champion of District IX and vanquisher of Erie East, District X representative, in their inter-district contest last night, in the Pitt Stadium pavilion Friday night.

The Orioles, undefeated in their City League campaign and in the post-season series with Perry for the City championship, took the play away from Duquesne in scoring its victory.

Bill Jesko, picked as all-scholastic forward by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph during the past City League campaign, emerged from the contest with the individual scoring honors, but his success as a sharpshooter was due in a large measure to Joe Galiszewski, his running mate, and Ed Spotovich, whose work at center stamps him as one of the greatest to appear in local elimination contests.

Radvansky, picked as all-tournament center by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, was the only man on the Duquesne quintet to score with any degree of consistency, the Steelers' flash getting four field goals and three fouls for a total of 11 points.

SOUTH TAKES LEAD

After Galiszewski started the scoring by counting a field goal, Duquesne took the lead on a foul and a field goal by Radvansky. Miskevics and Jesko counted baskets, and Spotovich made good

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

BILOXI, Miss., March 21.—Well, here it is the second day of spring and I've still got a dollar and my winter underwear. And don't let 'em tell you better days aren't here already. Folks, that's some President we've got in the White House. What a big league manager he would make!

Nick Altrock

For spring training he'd take the boys for two weeks' fishing on Vincent Astor's yacht. Then he'd rush the club to the Washington ball grounds, have a few midnight conferences with the pitchers and fielders and send the club out to sew up the pennant in the first 10 days. If we happened to go scoreless for a couple of innings, he'd send a 10-word message up to the boys and we'd break out in a batting spree.

I've kicked around Washington quite a bit and up till this month the average Congressman was a blood brother of Rip Van Winkle. Mr. Roosevelt confiscated their sleeping powders, wound up their alarm clocks and now he's got 'em working an eight-day week. I wish we could get him up to our clubhouse for a pep talk before the season starts. We'd have the pennant cinched by May and the whole league could adjourn till September.

HOCKEY BERTHS CLINCHED

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—Just two days before the end of the 1932-33 National Hockey League season, all the places in the standings of the two divisions finally have been settled. The season ends tomorrow. The deciding games were played last night, the Boston Bruins beating the New York Rangers 3-2 and the lowly Ottawa Senators blanking the Montreal Maroons 3-0.

The Bruin victory gave Boston first place in the American division by the slimmest of possible margins and definitely settled the Rangers in third place. Although Toronto took an unexpected 4-3 setback from the New York Americans, who are out of the playoffs, the Leafs were assured of first place in the International group by Montreal's defeat.

PLAYOFF DATES SET

MONTREAL, Quebec, March 22.—(AP.)—Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League, has announced playoff dates in the annual Stanley Cup series.

The dates follow:

Toronto Maple Leafs vs. Boston Bruins, best three out of five games. First game Saturday, at Boston; second game Tuesday, at Boston; third game, at Toronto Thursday, March 30; fourth and fifth games, if necessary, at Toronto, Saturday, April 1, and Tuesday, April 4.

Montreal Maroons vs. Detroit Red Wings, second place playoff, two games, total goals to count—First game at Montreal, Saturday, March 25; second game at Detroit, Tuesday, March 28.

New York Rangers vs. Montreal Canadiens, third place playoff, two games, total goals to count—First game at New York, Sunday, March 26; second game at Montreal Tuesday, March 28.

The two-game total-goal series between the winners of the Detroit-Maroon and Canadien-Ranger series will take place on Thursday, March 30, and Saturday, April 1, or Sunday, April 2, depending upon the home ice of the survivors.

Colacurcio Keeps Skeeter Franchise

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—Assured financial and player assistance, Sam Colacurcio was going ahead today with plans to continue operation of the Jersey City club of the International Baseball League.

All efforts to sell the franchise having failed, the league directors closed at a special session here yesterday by agreeing to let Colacurcio operate the club again this season.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Tony Herrera is a great money fighter . . . Did you ever notice that, while an opponent may give him trouble the first time they meet, Tony generally has things pretty much his own way in a return battle, as against Eddie (Kid) Wolfe at the Garden the other night?

R. W. Hardy, who is said to be the only living person who has seen the running of every Kentucky Derby since Aristides won the first one, back in 1875, is very ill and likely will not see this year's renewal, on May 6, if, indeed, he lives that long.

If you think you have a hard time of it getting by, how would you like to be one of those horses in that Grand National Steeplechase over in Aintree, England, on Friday? . . . They have more really tough obstacles in that race than you're likely to meet up with in two lifetimes . . . Maybe it's horse sense that puts them over.

Not so long ago, Maxie Rosenbloom, the light-heavyweight champion, couldn't get a fight in Madison Square Garden, New York, because they said he wouldn't draw and was a poor champion, and all that sort of guff. . . . He finally broke the ice by defending his title against Adolph Heuser, the tough German, and now he's back on Friday night, just two weeks later, to fight off the challenge of Young Stribling's cousin, Bob Godwin, of Florida, who already has boxed him in three non-title bouts, two of which resulted in draws and the other one in a decision for Rosenbloom. . . . Godwin is the N. B. A. light-heavyweight champion, and has beaten Arthur Huttick and Reds Barry in previous showings in New York . . . As for Rosenbloom, he always gives the fans a good show for their money, regardless of whether or not he trains in the approved fashion.

All is not well in the relations between Battling Gizzy and his manager and they are on one of Mr. Winchell's well-known verges of breaking up . . . Gizzy has not been easy to handle recently, as witness his pull-out on a bout with Roger Bernard in Flint, Mich., at the last minute a few days ago.

The only way you can tell, aside from looking at the calendar, that spring is here is from the news that the outdoor track season is about to burst upon us . . . Time was when we had Pete Bowen around here to burn up by making disparaging remarks about track and field, but now Pete has gone and left us, so there's really no use in continuing the discussion.—HARRY KECK.

West Penn Laurels At Stake Tonight

The final game of the West Penn League basketball series will be staged tonight in the McKeesport Y. M. C. A. when Wilmerding Y and the North Siders clash for the championship.

Wilmerding won the first game at Wilmerding, 48 to 44, while the North Siders captured the second contest, 41 to 27.

The Kingsley House and Brentwood Club meet at Kingsley House tonight in a Senior A. A. U. tournament game.

JACK TO REFEREE

Shaffalo to Defend Pin Title Here

Bill Shaffalo, last year's all-events champion, has entered the annual Pennsylvania and Ohio duckpin tournament, which gets under way on the Forward Alleys, Squirrel Hill, next Saturday, to continue for a week. He rolls as a member of Gaetner's Orpheum Five, of Monaca.

Earl Nuss, of Homestead, will be represented by a women's team, and other women's teams will make up a busy opening day.

Lou Golvash, tournament manager, still is receiving entries at 5844 Forward avenue.

YANKEE TRACK ACES WIN

TORONTO, Ontario, March 22.—(AP.)—Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette University's great dash man, has added the Canadian indoor sprint crown to his championship trophies and avenged, at the same time, his sole defeat of the board track season.

Metcalfe set up a new Canadian record of 6.2 seconds in winning the 60-yard title of the Canadian championships here last night, nosing out Bert Pearson, Hamilton schoolboy, and Emmett Toppino, of New Orleans, in a blanket finish. It was Toppino who handed Metcalfe his only defeat of the indoor season. The southerner had to be content with third place last night, trailing both Metcalfe and Pearson to the tape.

Glen Cunningham, University of Kansas miler; George Spitz, of New York University, and Milton Sandler, of the German-American A. C., New York, also turned in impressive victories.

Cunningham, abandoning his specialty for the time being, easily won the two-mile title, beating Lloyd Longman, of Toronto, by a wide margin in the comparatively slow time of 9:39.6. Spitz, world indoor record holder in the high jump at 6 feet 8¾ inches, cleared 6 feet 7 inches to win his specialty. Sandler came fast in the last 150 yards to win the 600-yard title by a yard from Arthur Mullish, of Toronto, in 1:17.4.

McNaugher Passers Presented Trophy

The McNaugher School basketball team, winner of the grade school championship of Pittsburgh as a result of its victory over Friel School, today was presented the Finney Trophy, emblematic of the title, at the weekly school assembly.

McNaugher won the championship of Section I while Frick was champion of Section II.

The presentation was made by Alex Reich, of the Fintex corporation. Talks were made by C. W. Nethaway, supervisor of athletics in the Pittsburgh grade schools and W. W. DeShong, principal at McNaugher School. Miss Elizabeth Riddle is coach of the McNaugher team.

FRENCH STARS AS MATES ROUT SEATTLE, 19-5

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—Arriving Los Angeles this morning, the Pirates made ready to take on the New York Giants this afternoon at Wrigley Field in the first clash of what is slated for a three-game series. Ralph Birkofer and Hal Smith are on the Buccaneer pitching slate.

The morale and tone of the Pirates today had undergone a complete reversal as the result of the all-around performance given in the bright sunshine of Santa Cruz yesterday afternoon by laughing Larry French, the industrious lefthander.

FRENCH STRONG

French was slated to do a seven-inning trick on the slab. No Pirate pitcher had gone as far, but when Larry reached this distance against the Seattle Indians he had the door closed on the Indians and he was feeling so strong he asked permission to finish. He was allowed to proceed. He entered the ninth with the rather comfortable margin of 19 tallies, so he decided to be a good fellow.

The Pirate star may have recognized a couple of former roomies in the Seattle lineup for he laid a couple of home-run balls right in the slot and they were promptly turned into four-sackers by the beneficiaries, who felt like saying thanks to French as they rounded the sacks. One of the boys did take a bow in French's direction. Anyhow, the contest ended with the Pirates winning, 19 to 5.

Larry's field day was not confined to pitching. The turn-around hitter slapped a homer over the right field wall in the second inning and his next trip brought a double. He was robbed of another hit in the eighth.

BUCS ATTACK EARLY

Hal Finney and Tony Piet also got in on the home-run show. The Alabama pepper box knocked the fans plum out of their seats in the first round when he clouted a homer over the left field wall with three on the sacks. Hal connected for a homer, two singles and a double before Seattle could get him out.

The Pirates picked up eight runs in the first inning and then slowed down to a six-run pace in the second. George Burns, manager of the Indians, was one of the recipients of the ninth-inning homers by Seattle. George doesn't need any gifts when he is in his stride. He always could hit.

Chilly Sauce

Larry French, by his feat of yesterday, may have pitched himself into the honor of working the opening game of the season scheduled for two weeks from next Tuesday in Cincinnati.

Larry weighs 190 pounds at present, but the excess appears to be in his favor. This writer never saw him look more impressive than he was against Seattle. His curve had a big break, his control was rare and his fast ball was a-poppin'.

The left-hander may have blocked Gibby's threat of morning practice sessions for the hurlers here. Gibson was peeved after the finish of the San Jose game and spoke of having early drills. It was up to French to change the manager's mind and he did. Said Larry:

"I want to spend my mornings in Los Angeles at home, so I guess I will have to go out and make our staff look good."

Lloyd Waner made two singles, scoring two runs and swiped a base in one inning. That's something under par for any hole. Hal Finney caught French for nine rounds and was a feature of the game because of his hitting.

The Pirates toured the famous redwood tree district located a few miles from Santa Cruz. The athletes were thrilled by the majestic trees, some of which are about 20 feet in diameter and 300 feet high. They lost themselves in the great forest for an hour and then returned to a prosaic luncheon of a local civic club.

RUTH, RUPPERT HOLD ANOTHER SALARY PARLEY TODAY

BABE, NERVOUS, IS GRANTED CONFERENCE

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 22.—(INS.)—Babe Ruth, holdout home run maestro, and Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, were to hold another salary conference this afternoon.

The Babe, growing more nervous daily, called the colonel last night and arranged for the meeting.

BRADENTON, Fla.—(AP.)—St. Louis Cardinal outfielders were in the infield again yesterday while infielders were absent or on the bench and the Redbirds suffered their fourth defeat of the spring training season, the Phillies scoring their second straight victory, 15 to 9. Both Winford and Johnson were hit hard by the Phils.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—(AP.)—A ninth-inning rally by the Newark Bears fell one run short of tying the score, giving the Philadelphia Athletics a 9-to-8 victory in a Grapefruit League contest yesterday. Ed Coleman, A's right fielder, got four consecutive singles, to share batting honors with Frank Higgins, rookie third baseman, who crashed out a long home run. Catcher Eddie Madjeski also connected for a four-bagger.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(AP.)—Marvin Owen appears to be definitely slated for the third base position this season on the Detroit Tigers. With Hank Greenberg eliminated from consideration for that post by his inability to field bunts and short hits fast enough, the shrewd San Jose (Cal.) youngster apparently has the position cinched, barring mishap.

PASADENA, Cal.—(AP.)—Almost all Mule Haas and Al Simmons have been doing in their major league careers is to scare Manager Lew Fonseca, of the White Sox. As members of the Philadelphia Athletics, they scared Fonseca almost every time they came to bat.

Now they're members of the White Sox and are still scaring Lew. Al turned up with a sore wrist to give the White Sox manager a few sleepless nights. No sooner had it healed than Haas injured his ankle sliding into a base. Today Fonseca was scared lest Haas' ankle was broken.

HAFEY, LUCAS AILING

SARASOTA, Fla., March 22.—(AP.)—Chick Hafey and Red Lucas were ordered to return to the training camp at Tampa when the Cincinnati Reds moved to Fort Myers today for a two-game stand with the Athletics.

N. L. Briefs

LOS ANGELES.—(AP.)—Frank Shellenback, one of organized baseball's few remaining spitball pitchers, gave Hollywood a 6 to 4 victory over the New York Giants in an exhibition game here yesterday.

SAN FRANCISCO.—(AP.)—Kiki Cuyler is bringing smiles to Manager Charley Grimm's face this spring with his batting punch. In great condition at the start of the training grind, Cuyler has been giving the ball a merry ride and leading the Cub attack along with Babe Herman. Against San Francisco yesterday, all he did was to bang out a home run, triple and a single, driving in seven runs before being retired after four innings. The Cubs won, 17-11.

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP.)—Although held to six hits by three St. Louis pitchers, the Brooklyn Dodgers bunched four of them with two passes in the eighth inning, scored four runs and beat the Browns 5 to 4 yesterday. Joe Judge hit a homer in the first inning.

SARASOTA, Fla.—(AP.)—With Jim Moore setting the pace, the Cincinnati Reds yesterday pounded three Boston Red Sox pitchers for a 16-1 victory. Moore's home run and three-bagger provided the Reds with a flock of tallies.

PAULIE WALKER WINS BOUT

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—(AP.)—By a great last-round slugging attack, Paulie Walker, Trenton (N. J.) battler, last night gained a close decision over Young Ketchel, Chester (Pa.) boxer, in the eight-round windup of a boxing card.

Walker, scaling at 150 and outweighing Ketchel by one pound, started slowly, but took the lead from the fifth session on and closed with a whirlwind punching attack.

Klodeck Scores Victory by K. O.

Joe Klodeck, of the Pastorius A. C., hung the old kayo tag on Larry Snyder, of the Krah Club, in the first round last night to record the lone knockout victory of the amateur show staged by the Pastorius A. C. at Lithuanian Hall, McKees Rocks. The summary:

126-pound class—Joe Clark, superior A. C., defeated Tony Shur, Pastorius A. C., 3 rounds.

Central Loop Status Remains Doubtful

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 22.—(AP.)—A new attempt to reorganize the Central Baseball League for 1933 at a meeting here yesterday ended in postponement of definite action.

Five cities, Springfield, Dayton and Lima in Ohio, and Ft. Wayne and Terre Haute, in Indiana, were represented and a committee was delegated to attempt the organization of a sixth club, possibly in Evansville, Ind.

PERONI STOPS JOHNSON

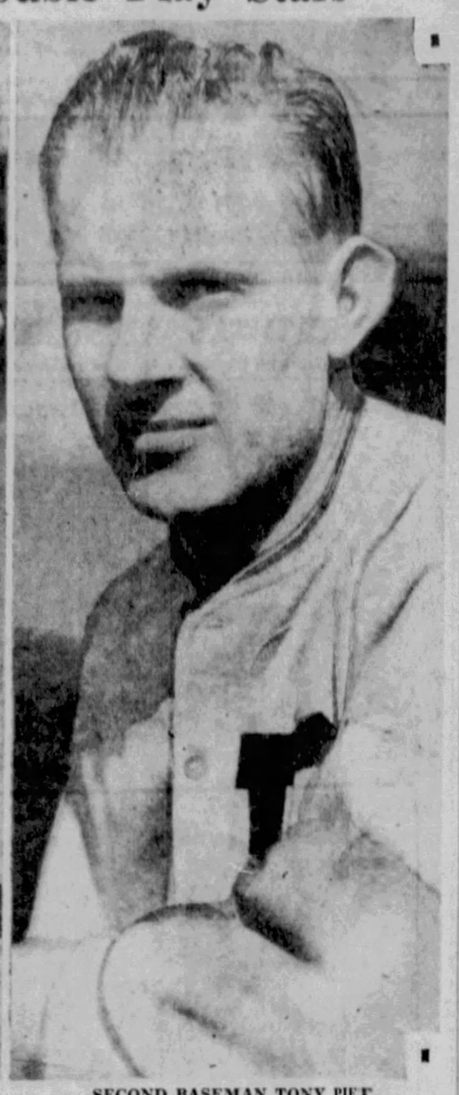
CLEVELAND, March 22.—Larry Johnson, veteran Negro light-heavyweight, of Chicago, was knocked down four times before he was counted out in the first round of a bout with Patsy Perroni, of Canton, here last night. Frankie Simms won by a technical knockout over George Pavlik in the tenth round and Bucky Lawless defeated Marty McHale in another 10-rounder.

ALLISON ELECTED

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 22.—The Beaver Valley Basketball Officials' Association last night elected Harold Allison, of Beaver, president for 1933. Kenneth Reider, of New Brighton; Willard Lewis, of Ambridge; Les Harr, of Beaver Falls, and Dave Hoskins, of New Castle, were the other officers chosen.

Honus and Pirates' New Double Play Stars

COACH HONUS WAGNER



SHORTSTOP FLOYD VAUGHAN

SECOND BASEMAN TONY PIET

Oldtime Pirate fans will tell you that the best double play pair the Pirates have had consisted of Shortstop Honus Wagner and Second Baseman Claude Ritchey. Honus, now a coach of the locals, predicts Vaughan and Piet, youngsters, will make a great double play combination this year, perhaps the best in the league. These are International News Photograph Service pictures.

SOUTH UPSETS DUQUESNE

on two foul attempts, to give South an 8-4 edge at the quarter.

Jesko increased the lead by scoring a field goal, but Radvansky registered a foul to cut the lead to five points. Spotovich got a basket for South, but Wisbar counted for Duquesne, and the margin remained at five points. Here Duquesne braced after taking time out. Wisbar shot a foul, and Radvansky added a field goal and a foul, to make the score 12-11 at the half, with South on the long end.

Jesko started the third quarter by shooting a basket, giving South a 14-11 advantage. Zelesnik, however, placed the Steelers in the van by making two baskets in rapid order and following with a foul shot, to give the Duquesne passers a 16-14 lead.

STEELERS TAKE LEAD

Radvansky brought the Duquesne fans to their feet at the start of the final period by scoring twice from under the basket to give his team a 20-18 lead. Spotovich was fouled by Krenitsky and he made good. Jesko then put his team ahead by a point by sinking a long shot, but a moment later he fouled Proksa and the latter made the point to deadlock the score at 21-all.

With three minutes of play remaining, Galiszewski, who, up to this point, had been satisfied to do the feeding, took it upon himself to score what proved to be the winning points by looping a long one. Jesko sewed up the game by bagging his sixth field goal a moment later. The final gun sounded a few seconds after this shot.

St. Catherine's High, of Dubois, is in Chicago awaiting its first game in the National Catholic basketball tournament, being held at Loyola University. Dubois will meet St. Joseph's, of DeWitt, Ia., in a second-round game tomorrow. Last night's lineup:

DUBOIS VICTOR

In other P. I. A. A. playoff battles staged last night, Altoona, champion of District VI, eliminated Boswell, champion of District V, 40 to 12; Dubois, of District X, nosed out Erie East, of District IX, 35 to 24; Lancaster, District III, put out Williamsport, of District IV, 29 to 27; Lower Merion, District I, walloped Palmerton, District XI, 26-12, and Scranton Tech won the title in District II by beating Sugar Notch, 30 to 16.

Grappler, Rival Collide, Both Knocked Out

GENEVA, N. Y., March 22.—(INS.)—A time-worn theory regarding the immunity of wrestlers to head blows was exploded with a loud bang here last night when a pair of grapplers was knocked out simultaneously in a head-on collision.

Jack Adams, Ontario grappler, and Casey Moran, of Buffalo, were the victims of the double knockout, believed to be the first in the history of the sport. After scoring one fall each, the pair lunged at each other, attempting flying tackles, they met head-on and were knocked unconscious for 45 minutes.

DORIGEN WINS RACE CLASSIC

LINCOLN, England, March 22.—(AP.)—G. Lambton's 4-year-old colt Dorigen today won the Lincolnshire Handicap, first of the English racing classics of the year, over the famous straight mile course. Mrs. C. L. MacKean's Solenoid was second and H. A. Harvey's Varsity Express third.

Two American horses were among the 28 starters. Victor Emanuel's highly-favored Totaig and Mrs. Chester Beatty's Heaven Sent. The other American entry, F. O. Bezner's Lord Marcus, did not run.

Britons Card Meets With U. S. Trackers

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—The combined Oxford-Cambridge track and field team, with at least three former American University athletes as its star performers, will engage in three meets in the United States and Canada this summer, Evan A. Hunter, of Oxford, today wrote John T. McGovern, "father" of these international intercollegiate fixtures.

The combined squad first will meet a Harvard-Yale array July 8, then compete against a combined Princeton-Cornell team July 15, and oppose a Canadian team at Hamilton, Ont., later in the month while en route home.

Bowling Leaders Retain Positions

COLUMBUS, O., March 22.—(AP.)—Ohio, West Virginia and New Jersey bowlers, scheduled in the minor events of the American Bowling Congress tourney here yesterday, failed to dislodge any of the leaders.

Bill McFadden, member of the Paterson Elks team of Paterson, N. J., was high individual scorer for the day, carding a 634 total.

MISS ORCUTT ADVANCES

PINEHURST, N. C., March 22.—(AP.)—Miss Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., the defending champion, led the way into the second round of the North and South women's golf tournament today with a smashing 8-and-6 victory over Mrs. Gail Maxwell, of Springlake, N. J.

Yesterday's big disappointment was Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, co-star with Miss Orcutt in the Florida tournaments and her opponent in the North and South finals last year.

Handicapped both by the wind and a recalcitrant putter, Mrs. Hill had to be content with a 92, which barely put her into the championship division.

Stribling Rematched With McCorkindale

LONDON, March 21.—(AP.)—Announcement was made today that W. L. (Young) Stribling, Georgia heavyweight, had been matched with Don McCorkindale, of South Africa, for a 12-round bout in Albert Hall April 6. The two met recently in South Africa with Stribling taking the decision.

Junior swimming championships of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Pittsburgh will be run off in the Center Avenue Association pool tonight. Last year the Hill Top branch copped the title, with Center Avenue second.

Seals Discuss School Fives On Air Tonight

There'll be a lot of scholastic basketball chatter, spilling the highlights of the recently completed W. P. I. A. L. series and the lowdown on the present state championship series on the air when the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph offer their weekly radio program over WCAE at 7 o'clock tonight.

G.C. Washabaugh

Julius Levin, editor of scholastic sports, will talk on the eliminations and also will interview Grover C. Washabaugh, coach of the South High School team, City League champion, which defeated Duquesne High School, the W. P. I. A. L. champion, in the state series at the Pitt Stadium Pavilion last night.

Hot news flashes from Charles J. Doyle, Sun-Telegraph staff baseball writer with the Pirates in California, will be read by Harry Keck, sports editor, who will direct the program.

ALMAN WINNER IN TOURNEY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Lou Alman, of the Y. M. H. A., advanced another step in the Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. senior handball tournament in the Keystone Athletic Club today when he defeated N. Hrycho in a quarter-final match, 21-8, 21-13.

Favored contenders scored victories in yesterday's matches. Yesterday's summary:

Second round; Upper half—Theos E. Manos, K. A. C., defeated N. Y. Polling, Y. M. C. A., 21-18, 21-11; A. A. Bialas, P. A. A., defeated W. A. Rohmaly, Y. M. C. A., 21-15, 21-5; Harry Kraeling, P. A. Dempsey Scores In Promoters' War

NEW YORK, March 22.—(INS.)—Jack Dempsey was one up on Madison Square Garden today in the battle of the promoters. The New York State Athletic Commission ruled yesterday that the Garden must stage the Jack Sharkey - Primo Carnera heavyweight championship bout here on or about June 29, so as not to conflict with the Max Schmeling-Max Baer fight, to be held under Dempsey's auspices at Yankee Stadium on June 1.

The Garden had hoped to get the jump on Dempsey by holding the title bout late in May.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Jack Dempsey is to come to town as referee, and on the same bill with Max Schmeling, one of his successors as heavyweight champion.

Motor Square Garden has booked the pair for April 10, its last show before a shutdown of two weeks because of a food exhibit.

Here's the dope:

Dempsey is promoting a heavyweight bout between Schmeling and Max Baer in New York on June 1. Before that he will have Baer tour the Western states and Schmeling the Eastern states in exhibitions to steam up interest in the enterprise. He will travel with Schmeling and act as referee. Some promotorial genius, probably Billy McCarney, has worked out a stunt whereby promoters in various cities will pay Dempsey for the privilege of ballyhooing Jack's Battle of the Maxes. For instance, for his appearance here, Dempsey is to get a $2,000 guarantee with a privilege of 50 per cent of the receipts, plus expenses for a party of nine.

WORKOUTS TO DECISIONS

In return, Schmeling is to appear in a three-round exhibition, against two sparring partners, clad in the protective armor of full length gym suit, big workout gloves and a headgear. Dempsey is to be the third man in the ring and the club will have to put on a full card of bouts under the exhibition to put it across.

For some reason or other, the Boxing Commission insists that the affair, although ordered billed as an exhibition pure and simple, must carry a decision with each of the sparring tilts. Wouldn't it be funny if Pedro Lopez or some other hireling with his right hand tied behind his back should get a decision over the armored Schmeling from a couple of home judges who don't care how Dempsey, as the referee, votes?

Matchmaker Jules Beck said last night he would try to arrange to have Schmeling at least take off the headgear so the fans will be able to tell the difference between the original Jack Dempsey and the so-called German Jack Dempsey.

CARPENTIER RECALLED

This will be the first exhibition of this kind here since Georges Carpentier played to a lot of empty seats in Duquesne Garden in a similar venture prior to his Battle of the Century with Dempsey right after the World War. As a rule, the fans don't go in for exhibitions in the fight racket, and especially when the fighters bring their heavy underwear into the ring with them so you can't see them as they really appear in action. Dempsey as referee figures to be a better attraction than Dempsey with the Schmeling circus attached, if you ask us.

Meanwhile, Matchmaker Beck announces he has closed the Tommy Paul-Mose Butch bout for the Garden next Monday night. The match was not signed when it was announced at last Monday night's show.

Between Rounds

Harry I. Neaman is beginning to whoop things up for the sixth annual amateur boxing show for the benefit of the Homewood-Brushton Boosters Club in Motor Square Garden on April 11. Twelve bouts are scheduled and, with Neaman pushing the show, a lot of tickets are bound to be sold.

Entries are being received at A. A. U. headquarters in the Vandergrift Building for the Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. senior boxing championships, to be fought at the Keystone A. C., March 30 to April 3.

Gene Panoz has been signed to box Joey Zelano in the opening six-round bout at the Arena Friday night, completing the card. Ted Yarosz and Paulie Walker are in the 10-round windup and Johnny Davis meets Johnny Chiodo. Jack Wilson takes on Anson Green and Harry Weekly battles Johnny Durso in the other six-rounders.

Pairings Made For Floor Tourney

Pairings for the tri-state independent basketball tournament, which is slated to get under way tomorrow afternoon in the Homestead High School gymnasium, with competition in four classes, were announced last night, following the official drawing.

The teams entered in the junior and boys divisions will clash tomorrow in first round affairs, with light first class and senior teams getting started Friday. The pairings follow:

BOYS' CLASS.

JUNIOR CLASS.

LIGHT FIRST CLASS.

SENIOR CLASS.

Schmeiler Cracks College Swim Mark

HAMILTON, N. Y., March 22.—(AP.)—The national intercollegiate record for the 300-yard medley swim was broken last night by Capt. John Schmeiler, of Michigan, in an exhibition meet with Colgate University. Schmeiler swam the distance in 3 minutes 41.1 seconds. The old record, held by Harms, of Fordham, was 3 minutes 51.6 seconds. Schmeiler is a Pittsburgher.

Bobby Jones' GOLF

By Robert T. Jones, Jr.

Only golfer to win United States and British amateur and open championships in one year.

I like to recall an incident which was amusing, and yet illustrative of one great truth concerning the game of golf.

Bobby Jones

Two friends were starting out to play a match in a club tournament. They were better-than-average golfers, about in the 85 class. They had driven from the first tee and started off together down the fairway, when a third friend, something of a wag, called from the clubhouse veranda:

"Arthur, oh, Arthur. Remember, no matter what happens, don't pick up!"

A hole is never lost or won until one ball is in the hole in fewer strokes than the other has been played. Anything can happen in golf. And it is a most helpful attitude for any sort of golfer, average or expert, to have to keep on hitting the ball and keep on trying.

THRILLS IN UNCERTAINTY

Some people always are going to be trying to remove the uncertainties from the game with larger holes, second shot rewards and the like. But when, and if, they do they will remove the excitement and thrill as well.

Illustrations of strange things happening in golf matches are not hard to find. Any of us can recall occasions when a trick of fortune either deprived us of a hole or an advantage seemingly secure or gave us a victory which we in no way deserved. And in such events skill enters into the picture scarcely at all.

One such instance, and, of startling effect, occurred at Worcester in 1925, when Willie MacFarlane and I were playing off a tie in the National Open. In the first playoff, Willie had a lead of two strokes as we teed off on the fourteenth hole. Here he hit a beautiful tee shot, while I half smothered mine. My ball failed to get out of the rough and when I tried to use a spoon in an effort to reach the green I sliced the shot badly into some more rough almost a hundred yards from the flag. When Willie pitched his second nicely on 15 feet from the hole, my hopes appeared to be entirely gone. Already 2 down, I appeared certain of losing one, possibly two more strokes, which would have been the end, with only four holes left to play.

LUCKY NIBLICK PITCH

I was thinking about all this as I walked to my ball. I was ready to give up. But my niblick pitch hit the green and rolled straight into the cup for a 3. Willie, shaken, perhaps, went for his putt, now to protect his lead rather than increase, slipped a yard past and missed that one. I had gained two strokes instead of losing two, as I might have, and this enabled me to come out even in the first playoff, although Willie beat me in the later one.

Skill has almost nothing to do with a thing like that. Given this shot to play and one stroke in which to hole out a 10 or 20 handicap player would be almost likely to make it as any professional. The hole in 1 reports prove this. A hundred average golfers make holes in 1 to each expert.

The mental attitude is important. One must keep on trying and keep on hitting the ball so that he may have a chance to enjoy a lucky break like this. But, on the other hand, he always must be on guard lest his opponent surprise him with one of his own. Whether up or down, whether it is you in the bunker or the other fellow, anything can happen in golf.

Davisson, Welk Cue Foes Tonight

R. S. Davisson, tied for the lead in the annual city three-cushion billiard championship tournament with Bill Kish, takes on Marty Welk in tonight's match, with a chance to take undisputed possession of the lead.

In last night's match, Pete Kilmeyer defeated Harry Schoeller, 50 to 42, in a 93-inning duel. Schoeller had a high run of five to one of four for Kilmeyer.

Fight Results

At Philadelphia—Paulie Walker defeated Young Ketchel, 8 rounds; Tools Bashara defeated Johnny Lucas, 8 rounds; Calvin Reed defeated Joe O'Neill, 6 rounds; George Kelly defeated Benny Schwartz, 6 rounds; Tommy Spartan defeated Frank Spinn, 6 rounds.

At St. Louis—James J. Braddock won by a technical knockout over Al Stillman, 10 rounds; Jackie Purvis knocked out Joe Huff, 8 rounds; Les Schulte knocked out Paul Conger, 3 rounds.

ROOKIE TALENT IS HOPE OF HOMEWOOD

By TOM BIRKS

Bill Dalzell, newly appointed manager of the Homewood-Brushton club in the City League is faced with the herculean task of building a contender for league honors with a squad of youngsters, most of them getting their first taste of fire in the fast circuit.

With little left from last season in the way of players, Dalzell finds himself with a ball park, and 20 nice new uniforms. All he needs now is some ball players.

PILOT FACES TASK

However, Bill was reared in the Gibson-Daily school and can take off his coat and work from the ground up. The Boosters organization already has made it plain that there is no money to be had, eliminating a payroll. Dalzell expects to build his club from a squad of fast semi-professionals eager to break into the best sandlot circuit in this neck of the woods.

The Pittsburgh Crawfords, crack Negro club, headed for Memphis yesterday with nine of the team on hand ready for the usual spring grind. President W. A. Greenlee announced that Josh Gibson, hard-hitting catcher, Field Manager Charleston, Russell, Judy Johnson, Cooper, Lachey, Lefty Streeter and Outfielder Ted Page are on hand.

At St. Louis this afternoon Jimmy Bell, Crutchfield and Mallock will join the party. Perkins, another member of the catching staff, goes direct from his home at Birmingham, while Hunter and Bell are in Memphis awaiting the arrival of the club.

An interesting schedule of exhibition games will be played in the South before the clubs swing into action in the American Negro League.

GRAYS GET RADCLIFFE

Ted Radcliffe, utility man, has joined the Homestead Grays, and five new names will feature the Crawford lineup this season. Hunter, the new right-hand pitcher, defeated the Crawfords twice last season, and Owner Greenlee expects Matlock, a left-hander, to make a hit with the local fans.

Bell is an outfielder and is rated as the fastest Negro on the base paths in the country.

The Westmoreland County League was organized at Greensburg last night with 14 teams admitted to membership. Two sections will operate this summer. James Booher, of Jeannette, was elected president. The clubs represented were Salemville, Crabtree, Paradise, Jeannette, Pann, Youngwood, South Greensburg, Keystone Garage, Keystone No. 2, Claridge, Herminie, Madison, Foxton and Grapeville.

MILLER WINS OVER DADO

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—(AP.)—Freddie Miller made his third successful defense of his N. B. A. world featherweight title last night with a one-sided victory over Speedy Dado before less than 5,000 here. Miller came in at 125¼ and Dado weighed 123¾ pounds less.

Dado never had a chance. Miller knocked him down for the count of six with a sweeping right that drove the Filipino half way across the ring in the second round and had him in a bad way in at least four of the succeeding rounds.

Only one round, the third, went to Dado, with the Associated Press card giving the sturdy Cincinnati southpaw eight. The seventh was even.

BRAZIL WITHDRAWS

RIO DE JANIERO, Brazil, March 22.—(AP.)—The Brazilian Sports Confederation has decided to withdraw from the 1933 Davis Cup competition. The illness of Ricardo Pernambuco and the inability of Nelson Cruz to leave his business to compete made it impossible for Brazil to gather a strong team for its first round matches with Chile, scheduled to start March 31.

VANITIES END SEASON

The Goldenson Vanities will conclude their basketball season in East Liverpool tonight by opposing the Merchants of that town. The Vanities have won 29 and lost four so far this season.

STOCKS BRACE AFTER EARLY DECLINE

A little further selling was absorbed during the morning, but losses of fractions to 2 points had mostly been regained by early afternoon, when many leaders showed net gains of fractions to more than a point the list turned extremely dull, however. United States government bonds again displayed pronounced strength, and wheat improved after an early setback. The utilities, particularly, were inclined to recover, after yesterday's rather sharp recession.

Uneasiness among holders of utility shares, over proposed legislation to tighten up revaluation in New York State and elsewhere, appeared to be quieted somewhat when Floyd L. Carlisle, chairman of Consolidated Gas and of Niagara Hudson, the two largest electric power distributing and generating companies respectively, wired Gov. Lehman, of New York, indorsing his proposals for regulation of holding companies. Agitation over rates and regulations has had more effect upon the market for utility shares than figures on power production, evidently, for today's weekly figures showed a further decline, making the comparison with the like period of last year the least favorable in some time.

In the wet group, the move in Liquid Carbonic was inspired by indications that the beer bill was to be signed today, for this company makes bottling equipment. Security analysts, however, are having difficulty in trying to decide to what extent various companies will be benefited by the beer business. In fact, executives of the companies themselves find analysis difficult. President Brosseau, of Mack truck, told stockholders at their meeting today that he was hopeful of increased business, although the possible extent could not be gauged until beer was actually in distribution.

With business statistics still showing the effects upon business of the recent banking holiday, sentiment remained extremely cautious in Wall street. Estimates placing steel ingot production under last week's level was somewhat disappointing, after the more hopeful trade reports at the start of the week. In corporate news, International Telephone's report showed a loss of $3,981,171 for 1932, the bulk of the deficit resulting from operations of land lines of the postal system. The report appeared about as expected, for the stock held fairly steady.

BOND MARKET UNSETTLED

NEW YORK, March 22.—(INS.)—A continuation of strength in United States government obligations failed to check pressure on foreign governments and domestic corporation liens, and the bond market ruled irregularly lower at the close today.

Gains in the federal group, while somewhat pared in the late trading, ran up to a full point at the day's best levels. Among the strong spots were the Treasury 4s, Treasury 4¼s, Treasury 3⅓s, Treasury 3s and Treasury 3⅜s of 1943.

A weak tone developed in the foreign group, with French and German issues under pressure.

A few rails were able to make headway, but the majority of active favorites in this section ran into offerings around previous closings.

The better grade utilities continued to ease.

GRAIN VALUES CLOSE WEAK

Disappearance of purchase power was chiefly attributed by traders to anxiety over provisions of the administration agricultural bill at Washington. Late advices of heavy snowfalls in western parts of domestic winter wheat territory were also construed as bearish.

Wheat closed weak, 1 to 1½c under yesterday's finish; corn, ¼ to ½c down; oats a shade to ¼c off, and provisions unchanged to 20c lower.

MANAGEMENT SPEEDING UP TRADE GEARS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Beneath the surface disturbances business management has been making quiet and unrecognized progress in the improvement of methods of operations.

The profit possibilities of the superior technique will not be revealed until the volume of business picks up.

Mr. Rukeyser

Maj. Howard E. Blood, president of a large manufactures concern that refrigerators at Detroit, whose company has gone ahead in sales through the depression years, declares:

"General management is back at its desk with its sleeves rolled up, burrowing into details that never before concerned it.

"Company presidents are out on the firing line getting an understanding of consumer and dealer slants that never used to interest them. Small Davids are challenging the mighty Goliaths of every industry. The freshening impulse of new products, new models, new values and new distributive methods appears everywhere. The foundation of a new business era is being built. Mark this as the period of progress, if not of prosperity."

Contrasting the coming decade with the last decade in business, Maj. Blood, in the Executives' Service Bulletin, says:

"Then, it was a matter of manufacturing what could be easily sold, while today it is a matter of selling what can be easily manufactured. Then, the public bought merchandise for money, while now the public sells money for merchandise. Then, the manufacturer held the balance of power, while during the next decade the consumer and dealer will run the show. Desires have outstripped purchasing power. Markets have become saturated. Volume must be won away from competition where once there was more than enough room for all. I believe that it is going to be a great battle during the next 10 years. Some of the now great will wither. Some of the now small will become dominant."

Chicago Exchanges Bans 'W. I.' Trading

CHICAGO, March 22.—(AP.)—The Chicago Stock Exchange today revised its rules, requiring full publicity of corporation reports and eliminating the practice of "peddling" new issues on a "when and if" basis.

Securities will not be listed coincident with a public offering, said Paul H. Davis, president of the exchange. Applications will only be considered when a company demonstrates that the securities to be listed are sufficiently distributed to the public to assure a free and open market.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 22.—The Curb was quiet and irregular today after yesterday's reaction.

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

CREDIT'S ROLE IN ECONOMICS OF U. S. TOLD

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, March 22.—Our money today is largely credit money, such as bank notes, and with the aid of banks a large part of business is conducted by means of "checks," which are purely credit. We should, therefore, understand the nature of credit and banking.

A credit is essentially a transfer of goods or services now, in exchange for a promise to pay in the future, usually in money. Thus credit involves (1) trust, or confidence in the will and ability of a borrower to pay, and (2) time—repayment in the future of a loan in the present.

CREDIT ECONOMY

So large a part of business rests on credit, that we can almost say that we have passed from a "money economy" to a "credit economy." Credit in the shape of checks largely replaces money, and much of our money itself is largely backed by government credit, the banks lending to the government (buying government bonds), and then issuing "notes" secured by government bonds.

In a sense, money has become a tool of credit. Credit enables business enterprises to get possession of money and capital. Through extensions of credit, lenders direct the use of capital. We can almost say that business is as much a matter of borrowing and lending as of buying and selling.

It is thus easy to see why "confidence" is now-a-days so much emphasized. Also, we see why the "money market" plays so prominent a part, for in reality the "money market" is a credit market, and reflects the factors of "trust" and "time" which credit always involves.

DANGEROUS WHEN ABUSED

Like all useful and delicate instruments, credit is dangerous when abused. We abuse credit when we treat it as if it were an addition to capital. Credit is not capital, but merely a transfer of the use of capital.

Credit involves debt, and bonds and notes are debts. We cannot add such credit instruments to the real capital of the nation to get a total, for that would mean a duplication. So the real value of credit depends upon how it is used in directing the employment of capital.

If through over-optimism, credit be unwisely extended, either in the use to which capital is put now, or in the extent to which an over-distant future is discounted, a frozen condition results.

DIFFERENCE IN BANKS

"Commercial banks" are ordinarily the chief agency for business credit. They are different from "savings banks" (which gather in small savings and invest them in eligible securities), and "investment banks" (which raise large funds for permanent investment, by offering securities for sale).

A commercial bank in essence is an institution for extending short-term loans to business men. Its business consists in receiving deposits, making loans and investments, and dealing in commercial paper. It may also issue bank notes.

Such banks help business secure capital by making savings available and by lending their own credit. They economize the use of gold. They provide safe places of deposit for the public.

BANK CREDIT METHOD

A group of men subscribe to the stock of the bank, thus giving it its capital and surplus, and enabling it to obtain a place of business and equipment, and to start with some cash. They then receive deposits. To some extent, these are cash, and represent savings, but chiefly they are the result of loans made by the bank itself.

A business man comes in and wants credit. If the bank manager decides that the loan is good, he takes the man's note and opens a "deposit credit" on the bank's books. The business man may then draw checks against the deposit thus made. This may be called a "derivative deposit."

Next, the bank (under our national banking system), may have its own promissory notes printed and duly signed. These are "bank notes." The banks can pay them out when making loans, etc., and they circulate as money. They are backed by an investment in government bonds deposited in the United States Treasury.

Checks usually soon return to the bank for payment and do not circulate, so we do not call them "money;" but they take the place of money in the given transaction and are often called "deposit currency." Bank notes circulate freely, and are "credit money."

NOTES DEPEND ON BANKS

The goodness of checks depends upon the credit of the individuals who draw them, and the solvency of the bank on which drawn. The goodness of bank notes depends primarily upon the issuing bank.

The solvency of the bank, in turn, depends upon (1) its ability to keep new deposits coming in as fast as old deposits are withdrawn, (2) the wisdom with which it makes loans and investments, which will be both sound and liquid (that is, promptly convertible into cash).

Ordinarily a bank needs a relatively small amount of "till money" to serve as a banking reserve against deposit withdrawals. It counts upon new deposits coming in, or in case of ordinary spurts in withdrawals it calls in loans or sells investment securities to get the cash required.

But if "confidence" becomes badly shaken and a "run" is started, deposits may be withdrawn so rapidly that reserves become exhausted. Then, if the bank's loans or investments are bad or "frozen," it is forced to close its doors; and we realize how sensitive and even dangerous credit may be.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 22.—United States government securities displayed rallying tendencies today, but listed bonds generally shifted about in a highly irregular manner. Unsettled European political condition, especially in Germany, continued to depress various foreign obligations.

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column; United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Playgirls in Love

By MAY CHRISTIE

GRIPPING SERIAL OF A BUSINESS GIRL'S BATTLE FOR LOVE

CHAPTER XXIX.

What was Jack going to tell her? She wondered if he was going to speak of marriage? Judith didn't love him . . . she loved Barry Deane, though she had tried hard to put Barry out of her mind.

But Jack had been heavenly kind to her. She wouldn't marry him—no—but it would be a sort of balm to her distressed heart if he should really want her enough to ask her to become his wife . . .

"That strong stuff? It would go right to my head!" Judith protested.

"And what of that? Don't you ever want to loosen up, to fling away all your stupid old inhibitions, Judith darling?"

She stared at him, her eyes widening.

"I don't understand—"

"Oh, yes, you do. You're not entirely a little plaster saint, no matter how you stall me off . . . you can't fool me that you haven't real life in you, darling!"

JUDITH RESENTS

With a shock that was yet not a shock—for all along, in her subconscious mind, she'd had a premonition that sooner or later, things might head this way—she heard Jack pour into her ears a plan whereby he would set her up in an apartment of her own, where—hidden from the world—he would visit her!

"And now that we both know we're in love with each other —"—his breath came in a little gasp as he suddenly pulled her over to the couch and tried to press his lips on her throat, her hair—"now that we're both crazy about each other—"

"But I'm not! Let go! Let go at once! How dare you?"

"Don't fool! Don't stall! You're a flesh-and-blood girl. Don't pretend to be a little angel!"

"You let me go! I'm not that sort! Don't—oh, don't touch me!"

Forever afterwards, Judith flushed with shame when she remembered that encounter in the room on an upper floor of the restaurant.

What a blind idiot she had been to go! She had been asking for trouble, and she had got it . . .

ZELLA ENGAGED

She had broken away from Jack's love-making, and fled home on the roof of a Fifth avenue bus, wanting nothing so much as God's clean air to blow the memory of Jack's words from her . . .

Marriage? He'd never thought of that! . . . He would degrade her if he could. He would treat her no better than the other girls he had lured to their undoing!

"Judith, you'll think I'm plumb crazy, but I'm going to be married!" said Zella.

"You? Zella . . . getting married? When? What do you mean?" gasped Judith.

"Don't look so startled. My face may not be my fortune, but it would seem I have lured one male into offering me a meal-ticket for life . . ."

"Why shouldn't a man be crazy about you? You're—you're—"

"I'm the good woman far above rubies . . . he just gave me this solitaire."

And Zella displayed quite a handsome diamond on the third finger of her left hand. Zella was smiling. She looked happier than she had done in a long time.

"Your Michael Angelo, you mean? That nice-looking boy. Oh, I'm so glad, Zella!"

HAVE CELEBRATION

"Better be glad, because the 'glad rag shop' is going to bust, and soon Zella would find herself out on the sidewalk!"

"And you'll be married soon?"

"Yes. And go back to work! That's my role in life. Meantime his fond parents — he's three years younger than I, but we're taking a chance on that, and anyway it's fashionable to marry a man younger than yourself, these days—his fond parents have sent him quite a good-sized check."

"You'll be leaving here and living down in the Village?"

"Uh-ha. But not until we get you fixed up, Judith."

Zella gave a party to celebrate her engagement. The "gang" (all but Jack Ordway) were there in force. Barry and Loranda, Betty Graves, Genevieve and Cliss, and others. And of course, Judith.

Now Loranda—even if she was in mourning for her mother —had drank plentifully that night.

She had had a grudge against Genevieve for some time. . .

"You shut up and leave me alone! I'll talk to whom I darn well please! Mind your own business!"

No response could have been more unfortunate.

LORANDA CUT

Genevieve was half crazy . . . the long-drawn strain and suspense of loving Cliss, who would alternately "blow hot, blow cold" combined with the fact that she had given way to morbid broodings, and jealous hatred of Loranda (whom she blamed for coming between them)—that, and wild parties "trying to forget" had shattered her nerves completely.

"You dare not talk to me that way, you . . .!" she cried at the top of her voice in the speakeasy. "Why, you're nothing but a . . .! Everyone knows what you are! There isn't a decent man in New York would marry you!"

This was too much. Loranda herself was no mean opponent in verbitage when she had been drinking.

She inflamed Genevieve beyond all human bounds by her reply. Genevieve, quite mad now, shouted all kinds of things about Loranda to the entire company . . .

No one could stop her . . .

Calamity occurred swiftly. At a final taunt of Loranda's, Genevieve seized a sharp bread knife that had been used to cut some sandwiches and, before anyone could stop her, slashed it across Loranda's face! . . .

Three weeks later.

Barry was with Judith in the living room of the little apartment on West Fifty-sixth street that was so soon to be vacated.

"One wedding brings another, darling. Zella's getting married tomorrow. What do you say you and I follow suit?"

"But what about Loranda?"

"We never made it up after that scene in Charlie's Bar . . . I don't want to talk about it, Judith. She double crossed me after her mother's death, when —when she found she hadn't as much money as she expected to inherit. I mean, in her altered circumstances I wasn't rich enough for Loranda."

"And now she'll marry either Cliss, or Jack Ordway?"

AN ELOPEMENT

"Cliss has been going up to the sanitarium to see Genevieve quite a lot, lately. Her nerves are quieter now, although her break-down for a time, was quite serious. I wouldn't be a bit surprised if they make it up when she's better."

"If Cliss will only stick by her! She's crazy about Cliss." Judith said, gently and compassionately.

"Holy smoke! Jack Ordway and Betty Graves have eloped!"

"Married?" Judith's mind, in a hot shame, flew back to the suggestions Jack had whispered in her ears, weeks ago, in a private room of a foreign restaurant.

"Yes—married okay up in Greenwich, Conn.——"

So Loranda was left out in the cold! She took her $6,000-a-year and departed for a summer in Southern Europe, "where pretty women with money are more appreciated . . ." she declared.

She wasn't so pretty now, with the scar running from the corner of her too thin lips up to her jawbone.

This was a life momento she had garnered from her scene with Genevieve. . . .

And the hateful thing (according to Loranda's view) was that Genvieve was recovering, both mentally and physically, from her nervous breakdown, and rumor had it she would shortly marry Lawton Clissold!

Betty Graves had carried Jack Ordway off . . . !

Judith had captured Barry Deane . . . !

Loranda drew a long, philosophical breath. There were as good fish in the sea as ever came out of it—so said the proverb.

THE TARANTULA AND THE "BLACK WIDOW"

The two dangerous spiders in our country. The tarantula (left, half natural size) kills birds and small mammals by its venomous bite. The "black widow" (right, twice natural size) in dorsal view and (top) central side of its body with characteristic red spot. Both are females, the males being much smaller. The disproportion between the two sexes in spiders would be equivalent if women weighed 20,000 pounds and men 150 pounds. (Herrick: Insects.) (Science.)

THE MAKING OF PLATE GLASS (SCIENCE)

FLOW SHEET OF THE SOLWAY PROCESS

The process developed by Ernest Solway is the most economical to manufacture sodium carbonate, (Na_2CO_3) and sodium bicarbonate ($NaHCO_3$) from salt (NaCl) and hydrated lime $Ca(OH)_2$. The reacting materials, besides sulphuric acid, are carbon dioxid, salt and ammonia and the reactions: $CO_2 + NaCl + NH_3 = NaHCO_3 + NH_4Cl$ and by heating $2NaHCO_3 = Na_2CO_3 + H_2O + CO_2$. The products, besides sodium carbonate and bicarbonate: ammonium sulfate ($(NH_4)_2SO_4$), calcium chloride ($CaCl_2$) and lime (CaO). (Chemistry.) (Badger and Baker: Inorg. Chem. Tech.)

I WONDER WHAT HAPPENED TO THE BIGAMY KID? WHAT A BRAIN HE HAS. HE'S PROBABLY SITTING IN SOME PARK TRYING TO REMEMBER WHERE HE MISLAID THAT DIVORCE HE SAYS HE'S SHORT.
WELL ALF, ALL KIDDING ASIDE, I'M INCLINED TO FEEL A BIT SORRY FOR..... OH OH, HERE HE IS NOW!
AH! GOOD AFTERNOON CHIEF. YOU LOOK HAPPY.
BOYS, EVERYTHING IS HOTSY TOTSY WITH ME AGAIN. I'VE GOT ALL THE RED INK OUT OF MY MATRIMONIAL RECORD. I FOUND THAT DIVORCE I LOST, BY REMARRYING MY SIXTH WIFE.
AHEM! WOULD YOU MIND GOING OVER THAT AGAIN, CHIEF?
LET'S SEE.... YOU GOT A DIVORCE BY MARRYING AGAIN?
I KNOW IT SOUNDS PECULIAR. MY SIXTH WIFE HAD A RECORD OF MY DIVORCES. WHEN I REMARRIED HER SHE KEPT HER AGREEMENT AND EXPLAINED HOW I GOT SO MIXED UP ON SIX MARRIAGES AND FIVE DIVORCES.
WELL MR. MUGG, THINGS MAY BE VERY CLEAR TO YOU BUT.....
WAIT ALF, GIVE HIM A CHANCE TO EXPLAIN IT ONCE MORE.
YOU BOYS WILL HAVE PLENTY OF TIME TO FIGURE THINGS OUT. BECAUSE THIS REFORM BUSINESS IS FOLDED UP RIGHT NOW. I'M SORRY BUT EVERY TIME I GET MARRIED I ALWAYS TRY TO CUT DOWN ON MY OTHER WORRIES.

Who Started This Thing?

We know they are going to shake hands with us before election. And shake us bodily afterward.

We know the reason why performers are indignant is because they didn't get any of it.

We know you can't fool all the people all the time. That's why the politicians are for a five-day week.

We know the ward leader is an affable bird with a complex stomach and a concave brain.

And we know a lot of things. But there is one thing we do not know, he cried.

Why does the successful campaign manager of a new President always become the Postmaster General?

Why don't they make him Secretary of Static or the Decorator of the Interior?

Why don't they concede him the Navy or the Army without a contest?

Wouldn't he make a good ambassador for a friendly nation that doesn't get irritated easily?

Wouldn't he do okay as the Secretary of Agriculture and Broccoli?

He probably would, they said. But he always becomes Postmaster General in fee simple, to have and to hold, and let no amendments put them asunder.

That seems to be the job for the campaign manager. And some day there will be a big scandal. They'll get a guy who likes to save stamps.

However, there must be a reason for it. And if there is a reason for it, who forgot it?

Address all explanations to this office, as the writer is curious about this unique phase of animal life. He once saw one at the zoo. But never at feeding time.

The Ugly Spoils System

The Public Welfare is Liable to Suffer When Jobs Are Given for Political Reasons

Many office-holders have only self-interest at heart, and not the interests of the public, Alexander P. Lindsay said in a speech to the Thirty-second Ward Independent Republican organization Monday night.

The Pennsylvania Civil Service Association gives an example. Richard J. Straub, of Cheltenham, Pa., applied to the State Department of Highways for a position. He received this reply, signed by H. W. Fry, executive secretary in charge of personnel:

"I acknowledge receipt of your application for employment with this department as a rodman, instrument man, or assistant inspector. I am returning it herein with the suggestion that you get in touch with Mr. T. Duncan Just and secure his endorsement. He is the recognized sponsor of the present administration in your county."

Straub took the matter up with Just and received from him the following letter:

"I know of no particular reason why I should recommend you for a position in the Department of Highways and certainly could not do so unless you were endorsed by Mr Charles Ambler, of Abington. You, of course, realize that you are asking for a political position and until you have demonstrated some political value to us I am not able to endorse you."

The political value of the applicant to the administration, not his fitness for the position, nor the value of his service to the people of Pennsylvania, is the paramount consideration.

This is the spoils system, and it is no less abominable when practiced by the Pinchot administration than when practiced by a local boss who makes no pretensions to political decency.

There is no law in Pennsylvania requiring that appointments shall be based on merit or protecting the employes from dismissal for political reasons. Of the 17,638 positions on the State's payroll all are actually or potentially political jobs.

In the last four years, according to the Civil Service Association, the salaries paid State employes have increased 59 per cent, from $26,533,035 to $42,195,670. Two-thirds of the operating expenses of the State go for salaries. In the last decade the cost of government in Pennsylvania has increased at a rate eight times as great as the rate of increase in population.

Senator George Woodward has introduced a bill providing that appointments and promotions in the civil service of the State government shall be according to merit and fitness, to be ascertained, so far as practicable, by competitive examination.

The Civil Service Association estimates that the substitution of the merit system for the spoils system would save the people of Pennsylvania upwards of $4,000,000 a year in the expenses of the State government.

The gain in self-respect and in justice and fair dealing would be even more valuable.

Merit Recognized

The Reappointment of Sanford Bates as Director of Federal Prisons Sets a Good Example

With the hearty approval of President Roosevelt, Attorney General Cummings has reappointed Sanford Bates, director of the Bureau of Prisons, of the Department of Justice.

This is an application of the merit system that public sentiment will approve. It is welcome evidence that the administration of Federal prisons and reformatories is not going to be contaminated by partisan politics under the Roosevelt administration.

When Mr. Bates was first appointed to his present position by Attorney General Mitchell in 1929, the Hearst newspapers said:

"By the appointment of Sanford Bates of Massachusetts to be Superintendent of Federal Prisons, Attorney General Mitchell brings to that responsible position for the first time a trained penologist with practical experience in the application of sound principles of prison administration.

"First, as Commissioner of Penal Institutions of the City of Boston, later as the head of the Department of Correction of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Mr. Bates made a record that commanded countrywide commendation.

"Solely because of that record, he has been selected by Attorney General Mitchell to reorganize and develop the prison division in the Department of Justice."

And it is solely because of the excellent record he has made in reorganizing and improving the penal institutions of the Federal government that the Roosevelt administration has reappointed this able and progressive public servant for another term.

Governor Roosevelt offered Mr. Bates the chairmanship of the New York State Parole Board in 1930, but the offer was declined because of the larger field for useful service which the superintendency of federal prisons provides.

The example set by the Roosevelt administration in retaining as Superintendent of Federal Prisons a trained penologist should encourage the governors of the several states to put this type of public servant in charge of their penal institutions.

Keep Pittsburgh Safest

Adults Should Take a Leaf from the Book of the Children, Who Are Learning to Be Careful.

Ceremonies are to be held next Tuesday in connection with the naming of Pittsburgh as "the safest city in the United States." The honor was won in the 1932 traffic safety contest conducted by the National Safety Council.

The Better Traffic Committee could have chosen no better time for its campaign of education to "keep Pittsburgh the safest city in 1933."

The method chosen for the educational campaign is also highly appropriate.

Eighteen children were killed in traffic accidents last year, as compared with 36 the year before, a decrease of 50 per cent.

One hundred and twenty-six persons of all ages met death from motor vehicles in 1932, as against 174 in 1931, a decrease of 27.2 per cent.

Children, shown by the figures to have been more careful than adults, are being asked to help educate their parents to be cautious. This week they are taking leaflets with a safety message to their elders.

The children are being taught safety by safety patrols in the schools, by the talks of traffic police officers, and by safety essay contests.

They are in good position to teach the grown-ups what to do to be safe in the streets.

Once Overs

—By J. J. Mundy—

Foolish, aren't you, when it comes to denying yourself something to eat?

It takes self control to be tempted and yet pass things by.

You may have learned that certain things do not agree with you.

You abstain for a time and perhaps find yourself free from the old troubles and then you grow careless.

You indulge and the same severe consequences arise, again and again.

Don't continue to digress.

There is always the last time, and then, no cure is possible.

So silly of you to subject yourself to the old pains, isn't it?

Once an animal is sick from a certain thing you cannot force it on that animal again.

But human nature always wants to take the risk and so overtaxes the organs of digestion.

Being human, these organs wear out.

Weakened by too much or too little of some substance, they quit.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 22.—That sociological worry, "the drift to cities," is a problem that is solving itself. Old established cliff dwellers are in a sudden revolt over the high pressure of a mechanicalized existence. They even seek a cottage further away than out where the pavement ends.

They want a place large enough to have a cow, chickens, a vegetable patch and perhaps a fruit orchard. Suburbans, who reside even in such peaceful havens as the villages of Long Island and New Jersey, are joining the hegira for almost complete isolation.

And ad in a morning paper is typical. "Born New Yorker desires small farm house, without telephone, and as far as possible from any civilizing influence. Modern plumbing not necessary." Economists believe that the next real estate upswing will be for similar rendezvous.

Three close friends—you can imagine how "close" they are by one being Verne Porter—forswore Gibraltars of concrete, for hillside patches, with a lean-to, sick cow, and sour well, in remote sections of Maryland, Connecticut and Pennsylvania. And more are on the way. * * *

The blaze of lights on Second avenue, these days, suggests an upper reach of the grand boulevards of Paris. There is the Cafe Boulevard with outside tables, the Russian Kretchma, where sad-eyed Tamara sings haunting threnodies, and Moscowitz's Roumanian restaurant, featuring the cymbalon. There are also Yiddish art theaters, where Kalish and Nazimova once reigned, and foreign film movies.

Speaking of Paris, I hear that the restaurant La Rue, opposite the Madelaine on beautiful Rue Royale, has given up the ghost, preferring to go into history instead of bankruptcy. It was the final stronghold of French gourmandizing. Its two rivals, Montaigne-Traiteur and Voisin, are already shuttered. The corrugated go-downs have not been raised for more than a year. The Cafe de la Paix is trying to red-apple customers with what it calls a "thumb luncheon," an assorted platter for seven francs. Ciro's, too, languishes, with a newer, cheaper and gaudier place called Bagdad, on the faubourg St. Honore, getting the fashionable play.

They were talking about the sly humor of writers who tried valiantly to dispel the gloom of the Radio City enterprises. Mention of a deaf Boston invariably brings a sheaf of letters from owners of deaf dogs. One, from an Arizona desert shack, reads: "I have a deaf Boston, too. Also, I'm stone deaf. But neither of us worries. The dog doesn't have to listen to my baby talk and I don't have to hear my French cook's alibi for his country's debt-dodging. Deafness, to use an inelegant simile, is like halitosis. It only bothers other people."

In a flutter, indeed! I would have been turning cartwheels in the lobby or playing horsie astraddle some broad-backed porter.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

It was a fall night, graying on toward dawn—with the marsh fog flapping and the marsh wind fumbling in the hollow darkness.

For an hour I had stood there, shuddering, waiting—a youngster of eight. Waiting for what? I did not know. As though a hand had tugged, something had drawn me out of my warm bed, down into the garden—then left me stranded in the terrible night.

Where had it gone, that safe and solid day-time world? For a small space around me there was the old security—the rough, hard pressure of baked earth beneath my feet; the loom of the lilac bushes; the wavering paleness that was picket fence.

But beyond that, everything fell away. Stopped. And another Place began. And endless emptiness, filled with vague, moist movement—and a harsh, honking cry, sweeping high above me in the darkness.

Wild geese!

Why were they there, racing through the night? Why were they not in the quiet shelter of the trees and barnyard, where other birds found rest?

Birds had homes, like people. Homes they loved. Friendly plants. Special spots for seeds. Favorite ponds. Birds, like people, loved to live close and safe. Why, then, did some birds leave their safe, snug homes, to race so madly through the dangerous dark?

Listening to their wild screams—the dimming thunder of their great wings—I wondered. But I found no answer. Nor did it occur to me then that the same restless urge had drawn us both—the wild geese and the shivering child—out of our warm beds into the trackless night.

But with the years, I saw that this was so. With terror at first—trying vainly to escape from the secret compulsion which would never let me stay safe and still—

I wanted so to be safe! Why should I go, loving home as I did? Surely no one ever loved it more. Each cherished nook, each humdrum habit, even the smells of home—strong yellow soap, and kerosene, and pickling spice, and freshly ironed sheets—I loved them all. And those dear faces which I knew by heart. Why must I leave them?

Yet I did!

No sooner had I found a little peace—struck root a bit—than something in me would go gypsy mad, and out I'd go.

For what? And why? Didn't I know I'd be sorry? they asked.

How could I answer? Of course I knew I would be sorry. More bitter lonely than they'd ever dream. And frightened, too, riding my fright as wild geese rode the storm—

And yet I had to go!

Go on, and on, and on—

Away from space and comfort, pleasure, honor, love—

Out and away—

TO SEE WHAT ELSE THERE WAS—

TO SEE HOW FAR LIFE TOOK YOU—IF YOU DARED TO GO!

I was like that. Some people were. Wild geese—they must go on. Leave everything, risk everything, for the chance to see—for the chance to know!

Wild geese—going on and on. Hating their wildness, even as they flew; dreading the darkness; sobbing in their pain; feeling their hearts wrung by the home lights, far below.

Wild geese. Some people were like that. Had to be.

And some people weren't like that. Couldn't be.

Well, it was a big world. There was need for us both. Some to stay—some to go. So life carried on.

New Formulas for This New Day

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Mr. Bernard Shaw, who is a rich man because of American dollars, has just given out an interview under our flag at Honolulu, expressing his usual contempt for the hand that feeds him so generously. Here is one of the pearls of wisdom he offers as he approaches our shores:

"Everybody thinks that Mr. Roosevelt is going to do something. He is not going to do anything. He cannot do anything. Your fine Democratic institutions prevent it."

One of the advantages to Mr. Shaw of our "fine democratic institutions" and of the liberty he derides is that he will be permitted to land, and to issue bulletins insulting the American people and their government. Under the dictatorships he craves he would, after similar reflections, be met at the water's edge and turned back.

Mr. Shaw is firmly attached to his theory that the way to collect American dollars is to insult the American people. Helen Keller, one of the really marvelous women of the world, tells of her meeting with Shaw, his flabby handshake and incredible egotism. His flippant dismissal of this woman so astonished her hostess that she explained that Miss Keller is deaf, dumb and blind. At which the gentleman, with a smirk, said:

"Brother can you spare a dime?"

Why Entire World Looks to F. R. for Leadership

It is more pleasant to turn from Shaw to Fred Essary, a Washington correspondent, who has what Shaw has not—an intelligent conception of the American scene. Speaking of President Roosevelt and the correspondents, he says:

"He is making history—more of it than has ever been made in a comparable period by any peace-time President. And we are writing news of more vital importance to the great mass of American readers than any of us have ever written before."

In truth, in days of peace, and I believe that war days may be included, there has never been a similar period in all our history that has been so crowded with great events and achievements. That is the reason that a complete change has come over the spirit of the people; that is the reason that the entire world is looking to the President for leadership out of the depression.

Business is Now on Upward Turn

Business is now picking up. Naturally, there is no stampede of spending. But merchants are beginning to see a change. Hoarding has been made unfashionable. Gold is hurrying out of hiding. Banks are opening everywhere with deposits far exceeding withdrawals. Confidence in the banks has returned. Word comes from Speaker Rainey that because of the powers granted President Roosevelt in the economy bill there will be no increasing of taxes.

The general effect is reflected in the stock market. That, however, cannot be too greatly relied on. The best that can be said about the market is that it indicates returning confidence. Real prosperity cannot be brought back instantly by the waving of a magic wand. That depends on the restoration of purchasing power in the millions who have none now.

And that means that something must be done toward putting the jobless to work on wages and toward making it possible for the farmers to sell without a loss.

Both these problems are to be taken up before a recess, if there is to be any, and certainly before the close of the session.

The beer tax bill will put great numbers of men to work while helping greatly in balancing of the budget. Public works must put still more men to work. These men restored to the purchasing class will create a greater demand for goods and soon increase the working force of the factories. We have been in a vicious circle; we are getting out.

Plan for Farm Relief

The President has sent his fourth message to Congress, brief and to the point and frank like the others. He deals in this with plans for the relief of agriculture. It is probably one of the most difficult problems he will have to face. A bill, prepared after consultation with experts, has been presented. Its purpose is set forth in the message:

"It relates to agriculture and seeks to increase the purchasing power of our farmers and the consumption of articles manufactured in our industrial communities, and at the same time greatly to relieve the pressure of farm mortgages and to increase the asset value of farm loans made by our banking institutions."

The plan proposed as a necessary experiment means, as the President frankly says, "a new and trod path," but this is justified and necessitated by what he calls "an unprecedented condition calling for the trial of new means to rescue agriculture."

And then he says with refreshing directness:

"If a fair administrative trial of it is made and it does not produce the hoped for results, I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you."

This bill also calls for some temporary dictatorial powers, but it is just as necessary as in the case of the economy measure.

New Formulas Must Be Found and Tried

One of our troubles all along for three or four years has been the disposition not to depart from methods established by precedent, not to try new paths. There come times in the evolution of society when new trails must be blazed, new paths trod. These are really the great moments of history. When statesmanship and leadership courageously rises to the necessity and boldly strike out in a pioneering spirit with constructive plans and win, the leader and the statesman takes his place among the great figures in a nation's life.

We have hoped that the old formula would save agriculture from utter ruin. For years we stupidly assumed that agriculture could be ruined without decreasing the demands on industry and business. Only recently we have learned better. Now we know something positively must be done.

We know something more—that under existing conditions it cannot be done through any of the old formulas.

And we also know that new formulas must be found and tried.

We are not going to find these new formulas in dusty tomes, in the book of precedents. We must find new ways.

Agriculture Is the Basic Industry

Agriculture is not merely a basic industry—it is THE basic industry.

It involves the purchasing power of 30,000,000 people.

If these 30,000,000 can be put upon their feet so they can begin to buy what they desperately need it will give a tremendous impetus to industry and put jobless men to work.

And that will increase purchasing power that much more.

It is to be expected, therefore, that the plan devised with the aid of experts will be given a fair trial. If it fails, another experiment must be made. For the moment we abandon all attempts to save agriculture we are lost.
